RAILROADS PUT $60,000 SALARY AS A MAXIMUM

Regional Committee Reports to Eastman.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Though expressing the opinion that $50,000 should be the maximum salary paid railroad executives "under present conditions," Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, today in effect approved a maximum of $60,000 in announcing that the railroad regional coördinating committees had advised him that they believed the railroads would reduce salaries so that $60,000 would be the maximum.

The coördinator recently put up to the coördinating committees, made up of leading rail executives, the job of getting the salaries of high rail officials reduced, contending that they were out of line with existing economic conditions.

Agreeable to Most Roads.

"The regional coördinating committees have considered the matter at length and thoroughly and they report that they believe that the railroads of the country, with one possible exception where a definite conclusion is still to be reached, are willing to reduce salaries so that $60,000 will be the maximum, this figure to embrace compensation received from all companies, carrier or noncarrier, included within a system," the coördinator said. "This corresponds with a peak maximum within the past five years of $150,000."

The maximum of $60,000, Coördinator Eastman said, somewhat "exceeds the maximum which was in my mind." He pointed out that in the period of world war, when the government was operating the railroads, "it utilized the services of some of the most eminent railroad operators of the country and paid a maximum compensation of $50,000 per year."

The latter maximum was paid regional operating directors, he said, while chief rail officials at Washington, D. C., received $25,000.

Thinks $50,000 Right.

Admitting that the railroad administration officials in the war period did not have some of the responsibilities, particularly financial, "which are among the most serious burdens of a private railroad executive," the coördinator said that, all things considered, it seemed to him that $50,000 "is the most that should be paid under present conditions."

"In saying this," he added, "I realize the difficulties inhering in an established mode of living, not to speak of the income tax, and that undue retrenchment under such circumstances may be reflected upon others than the principal."

Mr. Eastman said it was a fact that if all the salaries now in excess of that level were uniformly reduced to $60,000 and no further, discrepancies would exist which could hardly be justified.

Division of Systems.

"If, in other words," he said, "$60,000 is made the salary of presidents of very large railroad systems, the same amount should not be paid in the case of certain systems which are considerably smaller. There are a considerable number of chief executives of large systems who are now receiving less than $60,000, and some less than $50,000."

The coördinator said, however, he did not regard the situation as one which justified an order on his part, "for the amounts involved are relatively insignificant." He said he would leave the matter "to the good judgment and statesmanship of the directors of the railroads, accepting the assurance, so far as it has been given, that the maximum will be reduced to $60,000 and expressing the hope that still further reductions may be made." He said he would leave to their judgment reductions in the salaries of lesser officers to conform, so far as may be appropriate and just, to those which were made at the top.

40 Per Cent Reduction.

"Figures in my possession," the coordinator continued, "show that the maximum salaries during the last five years of chairmen, presidents and vice presidents, for all class I railroads except a few of trifling importance, totaled $13,406,103. The present salaries of similar officers total $8,049,593, a reduction of about 40 per cent."

In a preface to his announcement Coördinator Eastman outlined his philosophy as to compensation for services, declaring that "money is by no means the only compensation received by a railroad executive."

"The best compensation of all, in

21 NATIONS SIGN PACT TO REDUCE WHEAT CROPS

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 25.—World-wide agreement to limit the quantity of wheat marketed during the coming year and to reduce average productive acreage by 15 per cent during the next year was reached tonight by the producing nations. They received in exchange a gentlemen's agreement from a majority of the importing nations that they would let down wheat tariffs as the price rises.

The understanding was signed by 21 nations at 10:30 p. m. after four months of negotiation. Primarily the understanding fixes a world wheat "prosperity price" which, after it has been maintained for four months, imposes a moral, but no other, obligation on importers to lower customs barriers.

Index Price 63.02 Gold Cents.

The big four—the United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina—agreed—with the exception of a slight hitch involving the Argentine ambassador, who was late and therefore unable to sign—that this index price shall be 63.02 gold cents (about 91 cents at yesterday's rate of exchange) per bushel.

This was the figure advocated by the French, who are subsidized exporters. It compares with the current price of 53 to 54 gold cents per bushel and the September quotation for wheat in Chicago, ranging between 87 and 89 paper cents per bushel.

The big four exporters agreed further to restrict exports this year to 560,000,000 bushels.

Along with the big four, the Danubian countries agreed to limit their combined exports for the year to 60,000,000 bushels, although this may be increased by 4,000,000 bushels under certain conditions. Russia, while refusing to restrict acreage, also agreed to come in on the export cut.

Importers Impose Conditions.

In return the importers—not all of them have signed—signified that they would lower their tariffs, but stipulated in an amendment to the draft text that any and all tariff reductions are dependent on legislative action and domestic conditions.

News that an agreement had been reached was released in London at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Wheat futures immediately improved in Liverpool after a bad start.

Only those delegates with plenary powers signed the agreement. In addition to three of the big four—the United States, Canada, and Australia—the signers were Germany, Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, France, the United Kingdom, Greece, Hungary, the Irish Free State, Italy, Poland, Rumania, Spain, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Russia, and Jugo-Slavia.

Nine other delegates did not sign because they had not the authority. Of the signatories only the Russian delegate availed himself of a "referendum signature," which can be revoked by his government within 15 days.

Argentina Expected to Sign.

Argentina, whose representative was not present but who is in agreement, is expected to put its signature to the paper in the next few days.

Chief interest in the agreement centered in articles 1, 2, and 5. Article 1 limits the export figure among the big four this year to 560,000,000 bushels. This is about 60,000,000 bushels above the estimate of world consumption supplied today by a big firm of international grain brokers. How this figure will be apportioned is left to negotiation and how the extra 60,000,000 bushels will be disposed of, unless consumption increases, was not mentioned.

Article 2 is a compromise arrangement by the United States, Canada, and Argentina with Australia, which has no surplus. Australia, like Russia, refuses to reduce acreage, but is willing to cut its export, so the 15 per cent reduction will not be by the acre, but by the productive area.

Text of Article.

Article 2 reads as follows:

"They [the United States, Canada, Argentina, and Australia] further agree to limit their exports of wheat during the crop year of Aug. 1, 1934, to July 31, 1935, to maximum figures 15 per cent less in the case of each country than the average turnout on average acreage shown during this period of 1931-'33, inclusive, after deducting normal domestic requirements. The difference between the effective world demand for wheat in the crop year

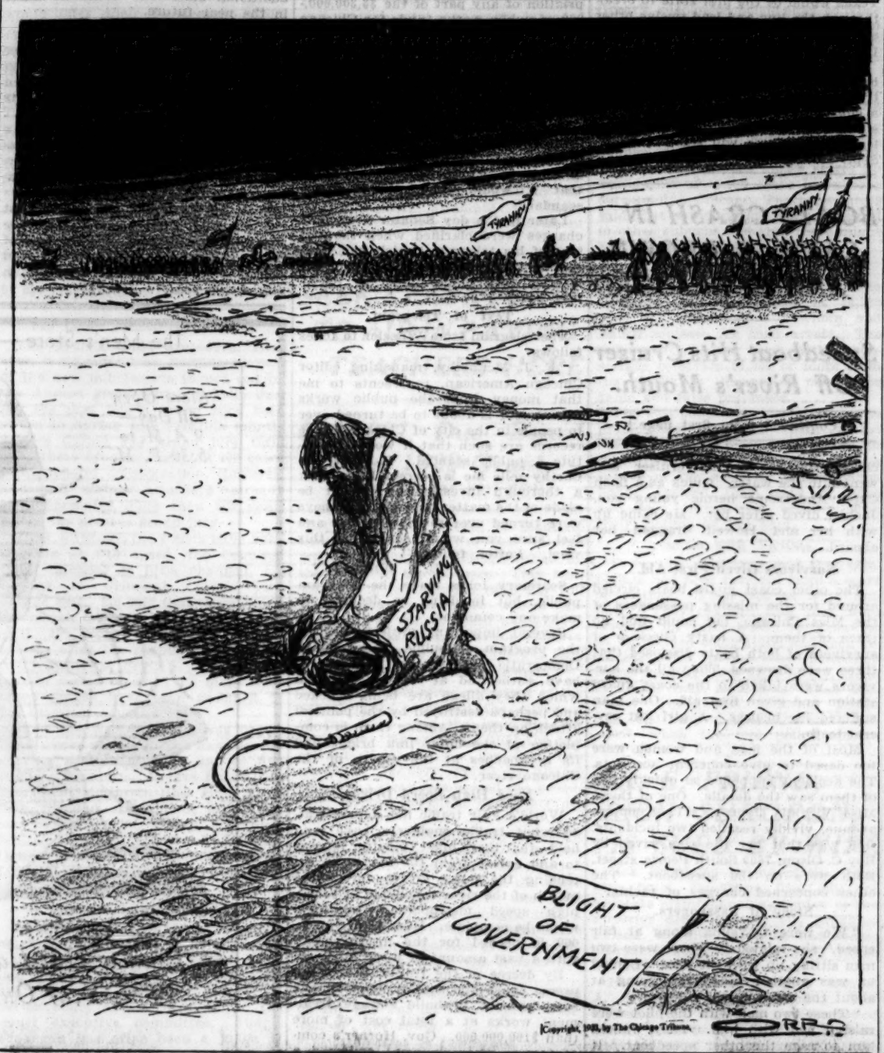
THEY HAVE TRAMPLED DOWN THE FIELDS



BANDITS HOLD UP OSCAR F. MAYER AND 40 EMPLOYES

Oscar F. Mayer, wealthy founder of Oscar Mayer & Co., packers, and 40 employés were terrorized yesterday afternoon by four bandits who invaded the company offices at 1241 Sedgwick street and escaped with about $2,000.

Mayer, who was at his desk when the robbers entered, was forced to lie on the floor, as were the 40 employés, many of them women stenographers. Two bandits armed with shotguns stood guard over them while two other men carrying revolvers looted the cash drawer.

Miss Helen Lyons, 24 years old, 2512 North Kedzie avenue, a switchboard operator, was knocked to the floor when she attempted to call the police. The bandits also struck O. L. Boyd, 9220 South Ada street, the treasurer, when he was not quick enough in obeying their commands. As the bandits fled through a rear door they met Walter Krajewski, a truck driver, and knocked him unconscious.

SENATOR PLOWS UP COTTON, BUT CAN'T COLLECT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Senator Ellison Durant Smith of South Carolina, known in some circles as "Cotton Ed," plowed under acres of cotton—but he can't collect for it.

It's an ironic situation in which the chairman of the senate agriculture committee and one of the men who framed the farm act finds himself. But Secretary Wallace said today the farm administration had no intention whatever of sending Senator Smith his check for helping to reduce the cotton surplus.

It seems that a law passed years ago after some minor scandal or other prevents the government from making contracts to pay money to federal officials.

Suitor Charged with Threat to Kill Girl

Raoul Garcia, 26 years old, 919 South Halsted street, was arrested near his home yesterday on a warrant charging him with threatening to kill Miss Mary Vargas, 20 years old, 1042 Blue Island avenue, unless she married him. Garcia was fined $200 in 1927 for having made similar threats, according to Sergt. Howard Harder. He will be arraigned this morning.

Woman's Back Wrenched by Hay Fever Sneeze

Mrs. Helene King, 38 years old, Newark, O., was treated for a sprained back by Dr. Frank W. Baylor at A Century of Progress hospital yesterday. Mrs. King told Dr. Baylor that she was suffering from hay fever and that while she was walking through the grounds she sneezed so hard that she wrenched her back.

Kill Kidnaper, Rescue Victim Held 4 Days

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The four days' kidnaping of William F. Wood, well to do 45 year old cousin of the late William Howard Taft, ended today in the killing of his abductor and the wounding of two other persons.

Police shot and killed the kidnaper, identified as Henry Jennings, as he sought to shoot his way free from capture after Wood had shouted to Policeman Michael McDonald for help. McDonald and Mrs. Ella Bowers, 62, who was on her way to court for a divorce, were wounded.

Merchants and customers in the Crystal Palace market, upper Market street shopping center, scrambled behind boxes and sacks as the shooting began at a nut stall.

Stops at Nut Store.

"Let's go in here," Wood said Jennings had ordered, prodding him with the revolver in his pocket as they walked up Market street from a safe deposit vault, where Jennings had pocketed cash and bank books representing $10,000. "I want to buy some walnuts."

Five minutes later Jennings was dead after shooting McDonald, dashing through the market, and battling with Policemen John McConville and Ed Borbeck, who, out of uniform and on their way to court, happened along.

McDonald's condition was declared serious. A bullet was taken from Mrs. Bowers' arm, and she went on to court and got her divorce, only two hours behind schedule.

Wood, unscathed as the bullets flew, was arrested as Jennings' associate, but quickly proved he was a Sausalito business man who had been kidnaped by Jennings Monday night.

Crook Grows Careless.

For one moment Jennings had failed to keep his victim covered. He was busy cracking walnuts. McDonald was startled by Wood's cry:

"Look out! This guy's got a gun!"

Jennings ran from the building toward the postoffice and there McConville and Borbeck entered the picture. Two shots missed. The gunman fired back, wounding Mrs. Bowers. A final shot from the policeman killed him.

Police said the gunman was known both as Jennings and as H. S. Meek, and that he was 31 years old and formerly was a ferry ticket taker.

Wood told police a graphic story of the time he was held prisoner. He said Jennings had bound him with picture wire at night and had tortured him to make him reveal his wealth.

Go to Bank Together.

"He compelled me to write a letter to the bank asking for $200, which was sent," said Wood. "Then he made me write and tell them to send over the contents of my safe deposit box. The bank sent an agent over.

"When I answered the door my abductor stood right behind me, shoving the gun into my back. I told the bank messenger I was feeling better and would drop in at the bank in a day or two to get the box myself.

"On Wednesday this man took me to San Francisco. We walked around the streets in broad daylight. I was afraid to cry out, knowing he would kill me as he had threatened.

"Sometimes he was friendly, almost gay. But it was a creepy kind of gayety—loony. Then again he'd snarl and threaten to kill me—kill me just for fun," he said.

"Yesterday we went to the bank. Covered by his revolver, I was compelled to ask for my safe deposit box."

15 Rescued from Sinking Craft in Lake

Three passengers on the speedboat Miss Chicago were drowned last night when the boat, returning from the World's Fair grounds, crashed into the stern of a cabin cruiser 300 feet east of the old Chicago coast guard station, at the mouth of the Chicago river. The speedboat sank immediately, the cruiser shortly after. Fifteen persons, passengers aboard both craft, were saved by timely rescuers.

The victims were a woman, a man, and a boy. The body of the woman was recovered. She was about 40 years old. Her identity and that of the two other victims were not learned early this morning.

Stories of how the tragedy occurred conflicted. On one side Anthony J. O'Malley, 6524 Yale avenue, an attorney at 139 North Clark street, owner of the cruiser, the Visitor, charged the pilot of the speedboat was racing another speedboat. The Miss Chicago's pilot, Walter Pomper, whose address was not revealed, denied this and countered with the charge that the Visitor, which was 28 feet long, had cut in his path in violation of lake rules.

Woman Rescued by Boy.

The Visitor carried O'Malley and six passengers. The Miss Chicago carried Pilot Pomper and ten passengers. All the speedboat passengers were thrown into the water. One of the Visitor's passengers, a young woman, was also thrown into the water and was saved by 14 year old Jackie Anderson, son of Capt. John O. Anderson, head of the coast guard station, who went out on the rescue.

The scene of the accident is somewhat illuminated by reflected city light and by more direct light from the coast guard station. Some 300 feet to the east and a little to the south of the station is a spar buoy. This is a traffic indicator, marking the point where craft leaving and entering the river must turn. South bound boats are required to turn west of the buoy and north bound boats must turn east of it.

Conflicting Stories Told.

Exactly what occurred was not definitely established in all details early this morning, except circumstantially. Both the cruiser and the speedboat were north bound, headed for the buoy and the west turn into the river. The speedboat was estimated to be traveling at about 30 miles an hour. Behind it was another speedboat, the Michigan. It is charged these two boats were racing.

The Visitor, with O'Malley at the wheel, turned at the buoy to head west into the river. Suddenly the speedboat rushed up from behind. There was a smashing crash, followed by hysterical screams. Broken pieces of timber from both boats flew into the air and in another moment the frail speedboat turned over on its port side and went down. The woman, man, and boy who lost their lives had been sitting on this side. Evidently they were stunned by the impact or impeded by the boat and sank immediately.

Coast Guardsman Sees Crash.

"Two boats crashed," he shouted through a megaphone, and began sounding a bell alarm.

Within 30 seconds three life boats were on their way, commanded by Chief Boatsmain's Mate Carl Howell, Dennis Owens, and Albert Dellmater. In another half minute they were at the scene. Meanwhile the second speedboat, the Michigan, had stopped and was already pulling the last of the seven surviving passengers and pilot of the Miss Chicago aboard.

Boatswain's Mate Howell edged his boat up to the listing Visitor and husky arms of coast guards reached out and dragged screaming women and struggling men to safety. One of the women—her identity was not dis-

ARREST INSULL IN GREECE ON DEMAND OF U. S.

BULLETIN.

ATHENS, Aug. 26 (Saturday.)—(AP)—Samuel Insull, under indictment in the United States in connection with the collapse of his utility interests, was arrested here today.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Superseding unsuccessful efforts of the state of Illinois, the federal government reached out yesterday to force Samuel and Martin Insull to return from abroad to face trial with their associates for alleged fraud in the collapse of the gigantic utilities system the Insulls once controlled.

Trial of the Insull criminal cases is scheduled for the October term of federal court. As a result of the government's latest move, Washington and Chicago authorities were ready to predict that, contrary to expectations of the thousands of Insull investors, Samuel and Martin Insull will be among the defendants present when the cases are called.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green disclosed the government's plan for bringing the Insulls back yesterday when he appeared before Appellate Judge George T. Page in the United States courthouse and obtained release of a new indictment against the Insull brothers and nine associates voted by the federal grand jury last June 1 and at that time suppressed.

Violation of Bankruptcy Act.

Upon release of the suppression by Judge Page, Mr. Green announced that the new indictment charges Samuel Insull, Martin Insull, Samuel Jr., and eight others with violation of the federal bankruptcy act by transfer of the assets of the Corporation Securities company, a $250,000,000 Insull investment trust, now defunct.

The new indictment, Mr. Green added, charges an offense which is extraditable both in Athens, Greece, where Samuel Insull now resides, and in Orillia, Ont., which is Martin Insull's present abode. A previous federal indictment, voted last Feb. 27 in the Corporation Securities' collapse, charged only fraudulent use of the United States mail, a nonextraditable offense in both Greece and Canada.

Simultaneously with Mr. Green's announcement here came Washington and Athens dispatches disclosing that a new demand for Samuel Insull's arrest has already been made and that his arrest is expected within twenty-four hours. The government had assisted in an unsuccessful effort for his extradition which began last Dec. 15, but that was on a charge of larceny and embezzlement, voted by the Cook county grand jury the previous Oct. 4.

U. S. Attorney on Scene.

The new extradition effort against Samuel Insull, the dispatches revealed, is being handled by Frank M. Parrish, special assistant to United States Attorney General Homer Cummings. The extradition hearing in Greece will be prosecuted for the government by Forrest A. Harness, another special assistant, who sailed for Athens Aug. 8 and is now on the scene after spending several months in Chicago studying the Insull situation.

Mr. Harness reached Athens last Tuesday, according to a cable, and called at the office of the United States legation, but declined to make a statement. That Insull was forewarned of the impending extradition fight was indicated several weeks earlier, according to dispatches, when his wife left secretly for Venice after spending several months with him.

As interpreted in Athens reports, she went away in order that the former dictator of Chicago's utilities might be spared the humiliation of a criminal hearing in her presence. Despite his 73 years and reputed weak health, Insull appeared unconcerned when questioned yesterday.

Rumors of Indictment.

"There have been rumors of another indictment for several months, which have become more persistent recently," the Associated Press quoted him as saying. "I know nothing, and if I did I wouldn't say anything."

Following completion of the Athens case, it was announced, Mr. Harness or another special assistant will go to Orillia or Toronto, Ont., to procure extradition of Martin Insull.

Upon return of the larceny indictment in October, States Attorney Swanson sent officers by plane to pursue Martin. He was arrested at Orillia and a deputy attorney general of Ontario was retained to procure his extradition. The case was transferred to Toronto, but has lately appeared almost moribund because of repeated continuances.

The new indictment on which ap-

thorities are staking their hopes of bringing the Insulls back to the jurisdiction of American courts contains five counts, each of which carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment. It charges that the eleven officers and directors named authorized the transfer of approximately $2,500,000 of Corporation Securities' funds between Nov. 2, 1931, and Jan. 20, 1932, in which period, it is alleged, the concern was hopelessly insolvent.

Two New Figures in Case.

All but two of the eight officers and directors named with the Insull brothers and Insull Jr. had been named previously in the federal mail fraud case. They are:

HAROLD L. STUART, president of Halsey, Stuart & Co.

JOHN F. O'KEEFE, secretary-treasurer, Corporation Securities company.

EDWARD J. DOYLE, president, Commonwealth Edison company.

JOHN H. GULICK, director, Corporation Securities company.

WILLIAM R. IRWIN, auditor, Corporation Securities company.

C. WILBUR DANIELS, assistant secretary-treasurer, Corporation Securities company.

Counts in Indictment.

FIRST—That the defendants were aware prior to Sept. 15, 1931, that the Corporation Securities company was in "failing condition" and that, notwithstanding such knowledge, they voted a $558,120 dividend on the $3 optional preferred stock on Nov. 2, 1931, which dividend was paid to all of that class of stockholders, including themselves.

SECOND—That the defendants transferred 700 shares of Commonwealth Edison stock, then worth $91,700, from the Corporation Securities company treasury to the National City bank of New York as additional collateral on a $5,000,000 loan, this at a time when the corporation owed $59,405,180 to others and had insufficient assets to cover it.

THIRD—That the defendants transferred 60,000 shares of Middle West common stock, then worth $390,000, to the Continental-Illinois National bank of Chicago, as collateral on a $5,750,000 loan, when the Corporation Securities company assets were insufficient to cover other debts.

FOURTH—That the defendants transferred $1,000,000 of the company's cash to the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company of New York as part payment on a $5,000,000 loan, its assets being less than its other debts.

FIFTH—That the defendants deposited $291,000 of the company's cash with the same Central Hanover bank under stipulation that the deposit might be appropriated by the bank and applied to an outstanding loan "in the event of the insolvency of the corporation."

Give Credit to Green.

The plan for procuring the new indictments to achieve extradition of the Insulls is credited to Mr. Green. He and the department of justice in Washington both issued formal statements on the matter.

In his statement Mr. Green said:

"An indictment was returned in the federal court on Feb. 27, 1933, against Samuel Insull and others charging a violation of the federal statutes with reference to using the mails to defraud persons of money and property in the sale of stock of Corporation Securities Company of Chicago. Under the terms of the treaty of the United States with Greece the offense charged in this indictment is not one on which Samuel Insull could be extradited from Greece.

Orders an Investigation.

"I caused an investigation to be made by the division of investigation of the department of justice of the transfers of property, money or assets in the form of securities, made by the officers and agents of Corporation Securities Company of Chicago, to holders of the $3 optional preferred stock of the corporation and to certain banks in New York City and Chicago.

"Pursuant to such investigation and presentment of the matters to a federal grand jury, an indictment was returned and suppressed by order of court on June 1, 1933, charging Samuel Insull, Samuel Insull Jr., Martin J. Insull, Harold L. Stuart, Philip J. McEnroe, John F. O'Keefe, Edward J. Doyle, John H. Gulick, Stanley Field, William R. Irwin, and Charles W. Daniels with having transferred certain property consisting of money and assets in the form of securities of the Corporation Securities company with intent to defeat the operation of the bankruptcy act of the United States.

An Extraditable Offense.

"It is alleged in the indictment that the transfers were made by the defendants as officers and agents of the corporation in contemplation of the bankruptcy of the corporation and while the corporation was insolvent. Under the terms of the treaty of the United States with Greece, ratified and proclaimed on Nov. 1, 1932, this is an extraditable offense, and extradition proceedings have been instituted in Greece against Samuel Insull."

CALIFORNIA ASKS MORE MILLIONS FROM UNCLE SAM

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Los Angeles, Fillmore, Cal., and the Golden Gate bridge and highway district of San Francisco bay applied to the California advisory board, federal public works administration, for more federal funds.

Los Angeles seeks $6,044,000 to build general and naval landing facilities at San Pedro, and three marine and cargo terminals. Thirty per cent, or $1,813,200, is sought as a direct grant, and 70 per cent, or $4,230,800, as an expenditure by the government to be recovered through rentals under a 30 year lease.

Fillmore asked $30,000 for a city hall. The bridge and highway district seeks $2,500,000, of which $750,000 is asked as a direct grant and $1,750,000 as a loan.

Immediate construction of approach structures and abutments for the San Francisco to Marin county suspension bridge is promised.

Frank Hawks Hops Off on Nonstop Canadian Flight

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Frank Hawks, American aviator, took off from Sea Island airport here at 5:21 p. m. Pacific standard time today (8:21 p. m. Chicago daylight time) on a nonstop flight to Quebec. The American speed flyer had arrived only a few hours before from Seattle.

JARECKI TO SAVE HIS COURT FROM FLOOD OF SUITS

Asks Attorneys to Group Tax Complaints.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $299,896. A total of $39,396,845 has been collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Aug. 25.....$	16,206 $	31,018
Uncollected ..	18,110,698	48,527,501
	1930.	1931.
Aug. 25.....$	69,259 $	183,413
Uncollected ..	76,077,799	103,658,967

Attorneys for various public officials and taxpayers' organizations appeared in a legal sham battle yesterday before County Judge Jarecki over the proposed 15 per cent cut in 1931 assessments on homes and small flat buildings.

The validity of the assessment cut depends upon a case attacking the power of the board of tax appeals to order it, which is now under advisement by the Supreme court. Judge Jarecki made it clear that his purpose was not to pass on the validity of the 15 per cent cut but to seek some means to help his court from being inundated with tax complaints.

"I'm not concerned with whether the board of appeals had the legal right to make this cut," he told Attorney Henry P. Chandler, who, on behalf of Assessor Jacobs, denied that Judge Jarecki had any jurisdiction in the case. "That's for the Supreme court to decide. I am concerned only with steps to prevent the filing of a flood of tax objections in this court by persons seeking to take advantage of the 15 per cent reduction."

Cases to Be Grouped.

As a result of the hearing Judge Jarecki invited attorneys concerned to appear before him Tuesday with suggestions for grouping 1931 tax objections, taking a test case for each group to the Supreme court, and thus disposing of all the objections within a few months.

The hearing was held upon a petition presented upon behalf of State's Attorney Courtney by Hayden N. Bell, head of Courtney's civil law department. Attorney Bell, in his plea to the court yesterday, attacked the assessment reduction ordered by the appeals board.

"That reduction order will have to be expunged," he said. "In normal times we are a year behind in the collection of taxes, and in this abnormal time, more than two years.

"While the appeals board was cutting taxes only 15 per cent, its members might as well have made it 50 per cent or more. Do you think I would lend a man $100 if Nixon and Brummel could cut the value of his security in half?"

Board's Action Defended.

Attorney Stephen Love, who appeared for George F. Nixon and Fred W. Brummel, members of the board of appeals, defended the cut, saying:

"The board was actuated for the public good. We are trying to settle this matter in a practical way. We had good legal advice when we made the reduction. The Supreme court didn't agree with Mr. Bell." [The Supreme court upheld the 15 per cent cut and the case is now before that court on a petition for rehearing.]

Attorney Chandler, while he denied that Judge Jarecki had jurisdiction in the case, presented a formal plea on behalf of the assessor, setting forth the contention that the assessment roll as originally made was equitable and fair to all classes of property, and that there was no justification, therefore, for the reduction which the appeals board ordered for the small home owners.

Fifteen New Receiverships.

Judge Jarecki appointed County Treasurer McDonough as receiver for 15 properties under the Kerner-Skarda act to enable him to collect delinquent taxes totaling $69,726. The following list shows the properties ordered into receivership and the amount of taxes owed by each:

1419-25 Chase avenue	$ 4,097
921-7 Sunnyside avenue	5,482
5248-56 Glenwood avenue	3,097
6620-2 Glenwood avenue	2,400
906-934 Sunnyside avenue	16,651
711-5 Montrose avenue	2,841
4801-9 Sheridan road	16,035
1805-11 North Park avenue	5,930
526-8 East 47th street	1,039
1334-44 Fullerton avenue [rear]	6,494
714-30 Buena avenue	4,415
Northeast corner Osgood street and Clybourn avenue	3,067
4800-2 North Hermitage avenue	931
5000-4 North Hermitage avenue	711
1648 Morse avenue	2,516

The treasurer filed 100 more tax receivership petitions against properties yesterday. The properties owe an aggregate tax bill of $434,996.

ROOSEVELT JR. ENGAGED? GIRL AND HE DENY IT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 25.—A report that young Franklin D. Roosevelt had gone and gotten himself engaged to Nancy Symington, prominent socially in Baltimore, reached THE TRIBUNE today from trustworthy undercover sources in direct contact with close friends of both young people.

The report is strenuously denied all around, and THE TRIBUNE is unable to say whether it has any other basis than the fact that young F. D. and Nancy are seen on a great many parties together, but any way you look at it, it sounds like romance.

Nancy, first questioned by THE TRIBUNE, declared the rumor ridiculous on the grounds that she is a sophisticated woman of the world, being all of 21, while Franklin is just an infant of 19. She admitted under cross-examination, however, that he is a very nice infant. "Why I could be his grandmother," she said somewhat regretfully.

Young F. D. was embarrassed and angry when questioned.

"What's this stuff about an engagement. Why, I'm only 19—Nancy, I mean Miss Symington, why she's 21." Roosevelt said this with a great air of finality and considered that the 21 definitely settled the business. By way of elaboration he went on to explain that Nancy's cousin, Charles Symington, is one of his best friends.

TEXAS TO GO TO POLLS ON PROHIBITION TODAY —23D STATE TO VOTE

Austin, Tex., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Texans will decide at the polls tomorrow whether the Lone Star state is to be the twenty-third to vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment or the leader in a revolt against scrapping national prohibition.

In an unbroken line twenty-two states already have gone for repeal. The result in Texas appeared in doubt tonight. Amendment of Texas' bone dry constitution to provide for sale of 3.2 alcoholic beverages also will be decided tomorrow.

C. C. McDonald, chairman of the repeal committee, predicted repeal and beer would win by upwards of 100,000 votes.

Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, president of the Texas Woman's Christian Temperance Union, said she believed Texas would be the first state to break through the line and lead twelve other states to block repeal. She predicted the vote would be close.

Anticipating that beer would be legalized, Charley Lockhart, state treasurer, today conditionally awarded a contract for 3,000,000 state beer tax stamps. If the amendment is adopted legal sale of beer will start in Texas Sept. 15.

BOATS CRASH IN LAKE; 3 DROWN AND 15 RESCUED

Survivors Given First Aid.

The other coast guard boats circled around for the missing passengers of the Miss Chicago, but could find no trace of them. A hasty checkup of survivors of both boats disclosed that three were drowned. Then all the survivors were taken to the coast guard station and given first aid. One man suffered leg bruises. A girl lost several teeth.

Most of the men and women were too dazed to give coherent accounts. The accident happened so quickly few of them saw the details. One of them, Miss Virginia Jensen, 4711 Kenmore avenue, vividly recalled two incidents. One was that her life was saved by Roy C. Olson, 7609 South Peoria street. Both were on the speedboat. The other concerned charges of racing.

Story of Passengers.

"We were traveling along at fair speed," she related. "There were two men sitting up with the pilot. Behind us was another speedboat, going at about the same speed.

"These two men with the pilot were raising ned with him. They wanted him to race the other speedboat. It was all interesting until suddenly everything changed. One of the two men cried out: 'Hey, look out! There's a boat ahead of us.'

"Then we hit. The crash was awful. I didn't have time to realize anything because after the terrible jolt I was thrown into the water. It was cold. I heard several men cry out and a woman screamed. Then I went under. Pretty soon Roy Olson grabbed me. I'm not much of a swimmer. He is. He held me until the other speedboat came and saved us. I guess we're lucky we're all alive."

Guests on Cruiser.

The other passengers were also questioned, but gave little information, and after receiving first aid were taken ashore. Those with O'Malley in the Visitor identified themselves as R. D. Conklin, 5534 South Marshfield avenue; B. R. Bevney, 8200 Ellis avenue; Frederick Smith, 6068 Hartwell avenue; Harold Mullendory, Hagerstown, Md.; Mrs. Janet Shipley, 7827 South Shore drive, and Mrs. Jean Harper of the same address.

In the speedboat, besides Olson, Miss Jensen, and Pilot Pomper, were the three passengers drowned and Miss Marjory Clancy and Miss Helen Collins, who gave their address as 1100 North Dearborn street; Harley L. Kewley, 7100 Ridgeland avenue; his brother, Arnold Kewley, of Cullom, Ill., and Frances Brendel, also of Cullom.

Charges Boats Were Racing.

In a brief statement O'Malley asserted he was proceeding correctly and that Pomper was racing and was to blame for the accident. Pomper's statement to coast guards was as brief. He was somewhat more dazed than O'Malley, according to the guard station. Both men were sought for further examination by police early today. Pomper was kept in government charge at the station. O'Malley was "not at home" at 3 o'clock this morning, five hours after the accident.

The coast guards raised the sunken cruiser two hours after the crash and towed it to the dock.

Coast Guards' View of Crash.

"Where we saved the passengers was west of the buoy," said Boatswain's Mate Howell. "Proceeding north, the cruiser should have made the turn east of the buoy. We can't say, of course, where the speedboat would have turned, but at least it would have been close to the buoy."

The charges of racing will be aired at the coroner's inquest, which probably will be called today over the body of the woman who lost her life. She is described as 5 feet 7½ inches tall, with brown eyes and gray black hair. She wore a black crêpe dress with white trimming. Her feet were shoeless. She probably lost her slippers in the water. She wore three rings, a dinner ring, an engagement ring, and a wedding ring. The boy who drowned was about 7 years old and the man 35.

UNCOVER MOVE TO BLOCK PUBLIC FUNDS FOR CITY

Sen. Wheeler, Montana, Sends Protest to Ickes.

Democratic leaders in Chicago, who charged yesterday that they are objects of a campaign to blacken the Democratic party, were apprised of a new factor when news came from Washington indicating that an effort was being made to block the appropriation of any part of the $3,300,000,000 of public works funds for Chicago enterprises. This situation developed when it became known that Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana had requested information respecting federal allotments designed for public works in Chicago.

Senator Wheeler had telegraphed a charge "that federal contracts . . . . are about to be awarded to persons in Chicago whose records are such that it would constitute a public scandal."

Later in the day Senator Wheeler's charges were clarified when the full text of his telegram, which had been sent to Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, was made public by Secretary Ickes.

Text of Telegram.

The telegram from Wheeler to Ickes follows:

"F. J. McCarthy, managing editor Chicago American, represents to me that money from the public works department is about to be turned over to people in the city of Chicago whose records are such that it would constitute a public scandal. If what McCarthy tells me is correct I feel that a thorough investigation should be made of the matter before any moneys were turned over to these people and feel sure you would concur in this view. Letter follows."

"B. K. WHEELER."

Secretary Ickes made the telegram public, but in doing so declined to make any comment.

Several important projects are on the program of public works which Democratic leaders are seeking to have authorized at Washington and which they allege are being blocked and perhaps destroyed by the political attack on them. Among them is completion of the outer link bridge and its approaches at the mouth of the Chicago river.

Need High Speed Drives.

World's Fair traffic has demonstrated what traffic engineers have long held—that there must be better ingress to and egress from the loop. By extending the outer drives across the mouth of the river this chain of broad, high speed metropolitan highways would be complete. More than $7,000,000 is needed for the improvement, with a vast amount of labor involved.

By decree of the United States Supreme court the sanitary district has been ordered to build sewage treatment works at a total cost of more than $100,000,000. Gov. Horner's committee on unemployment endorsed a request for $36,000,000 to start some of the plants immediately.

City water filtration plants have urged by a number of aldermen, the cost of the first unit being estimated at $22,000,000. In addition there are the $2,000,000 nurses' home for the county hospital, improvements in the forest preserve, the lake front airport, and other projects.

Nash Denies Forced Payment.

Patrick A. Nash, Democratic national committeeman, denied yesterday that he had been forced into a settlement of an income tax.

In a brief statement the party leader, who it is charged had been forced to pay a $100,000 tax settlement, admitted that he paid an additional tax for his income for 1928 above that originally scheduled. His statement follows:

"Patrick A. Nash is now and for 40 years past has been a member of the firm of Nash Brothers, and that firm since the passage of the income tax law has paid income tax regularly every year.

Question of Accounting.

"After the filing of the return for the year 1928 and the payment of the tax shown to be due thereon, questions of accounting were raised by the revenue department, and after a full investigation of the records of Nash Brothers an additional tax was assessed. No settlement was made. The tax so assessed was paid in full.

"The government was given free access to all records of Nash Brothers and all information obtained by the government, which resulted in the payment of the tax, was furnished by Nash Brothers."

Mr. Nash did not disclose either the original tax nor the amount of the additional assessment. Through Bailiff A. J. Horan of the Municipal court he sent word to reporters that an additional statement would be made in the near future.

Statement from Lindheimer.

Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer of the Illinois commerce commision also issued a denial that he had been forced to make income tax settlements with the government. He said:

"As a business man my income tax returns were filed annually by my accountant and approved by my attorney. During some years the government paid me a rebate on my returns and in others I paid the government the disputed difference. In no case was any penalty paid. To the best of my recollection only a few thousand dollars was the amount disputed in any single year."

REDS IN BATTLE WITH MEMBERS OF PATRIOT CLUB

Several noses were bruised last night in a battle between twenty communists and members of the Paul Revere club at a lecture meeting in the township junior high school in Waukegan. The lecturer, Dr. Louis Richard Patmont, pastor of the Christian church in Berkeley, Cal., joined the melée.

The Revere club, a patriotic and anti-Red organization, had called the meeting to hear about Russia, where Dr. Patmont spent 22 years in missionary work. About 400 persons attended. Col. A. V. Smith, former state's attorney of Lake county, who is president of the club, presided.

Dr. Patmont, after asserting that all freedom is banned in Russia, discussed an article in yesterday's TRIBUNE which stated that 4,000,000 persons had starved to death in Russia recently. The speaker said that he had received code letters from Russia placing the year's starvation figure at 10,000,000. Some one then heckled.

When Dr. Patmont had concluded his talk a communist began passing out pro-Russian literature. Raymond Thomas, a Waukegan lawyer, and Henry Ekstrand, a club member, knocked the circulars to the floor. The fight started and grew quickly into a small riot. Dr. Patmont rushed into the thick of it. He and Attorney Thomas were scratched. All the agitators fled after some sound cuffing. William Glannaheff, 30 years old, was seized for inciting trouble. He denied being a communist.

DRIVE ON CRIME SETS A RECORD FOR CONVICTIONS

207 Prison Terms and One Death Sentence.

The Criminal court judges' campaign against crime, which has been in progress for the last three weeks, yesterday raised to 207 the total of penitentiary sentences imposed since the drive on killers and gun-toting robbers began. In addition, one death sentence has been imposed. This is a record never before equaled in a like period in the Criminal court, according to Chief Justice John Prystalski. The campaign under his leadership has one more week to go before he retires from the chief justiceship, to be replaced by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Twelve maximum sentences were imposed by the judges yesterday. Among those sentenced was Mrs. Vera Carl, 37, 2511 South Crawford avenue, who planned the murder of her husband, George Carl, a grocer. Judge Rudolph Desort imposed a 14 year penitentiary sentence in accordance with a verdict returned earlier in the month by a jury.

Eager to Start Sentence.

Mrs. Carl will go to the penitentiary with the next lot of prisoners. Her attorneys did not ask for a stay of mittimus, which would have kept her in the county jail pending an appeal. She said she was eager to start her sentence and was not sure whether an appeal would be made.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty replied that Mrs. Carl should consider herself lucky that she did not get a much more severe penalty.

Ivan Grilec, Mrs. Carl's brother, and John Milosic, her reputed sweetheart, were sentenced to life imprisonment some weeks ago in connection with the plot. Joseph Fess, who has been named as the actual slayer of Mrs. Carl's husband, and Edward Veselka, another defendant in the case, testified for the state and are to be tried next month.

Carl was slain as a result of a conspiracy on the part of the widow and the other defendants to get his insurance money. It was said Mrs. Carl planned to marry Milosic, but this she denied.

Acquitted in Slaying.

The string of convictions in jury trials since the crime campaign started was broken yesterday when a jury in Judge Charles P. Molthrop's court acquitted Joseph Motto, 23 years old, 1344 West Ohio street. He was charged with murdering Edgar Blevins, 2431 North Rockwell street, a driver for the Imperial Beverage company, in a robbery on April 17.

Motto was identified by two eyewitnesses, but he had a family alibi which he gave to the police immediately after his arrest, and which could not be shaken by the state's investigator.

List of Day's Convictions.

Those who were convicted yesterday, most of them in jury trials, are as follows:

JACK SIMON, 20 years old, sentenced to 1 to 20 years by Judge Ross C. Hall. He was found guilty by a jury of robbing the New York Dress shop, 3173 Lincoln avenue, on June 24. He robbed 10 dress shops before he was caught.

JAMES WILLIAMS, 37, colored, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Benjamin Epstein for burglary. He told the judge he had no record when he asked for probation, but investigation proved he had a long record under a different name.

WILLIAM SULLIVAN, 35, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Walter La Buy. He robbed Isadore Brownstein, manager of a Western Union branch office at 4749 North Sawyer avenue, of $480 on Oct. 23, 1932.

JOHN STEVENS, 47, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge Molthrop for manslaughter. While intoxicated he shot and killed Otis Walton, a colored porter in a saloon at 2850 North Clark street, on Feb. 4.

JOHN PAWELCZYK, 41, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge Molthrop for manslaughter. He was found guilty several days ago by a jury of killing Mrs. Lorraine McDonald, 1221 West Adams street. He beat her to death with a hammer when she refused to allow him to carry on a drinking bout in her home.

DONALD CAMERON, 22, sentenced to 1 year to life for robbery by Judge Prystalski. He and two companions robbed a drug store at 5085 Broadway on Nov. 18, 1932, and tied up Policeman Michael De Mith.

VALENTINE WOJCIEK, 60, sentenced to 1 to 14 years for manslaughter by Judge Epstein. He killed Adam Ciesler, 45, 10434 Erickson avenue, on May 28, during a drinking party.

REESE BENSON, colored, 30, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge Rudolph Desort. He was found guilty of manslaughter. He was convicted of the fatal stabbing of Cleothia Donal, colored, on June 3, 1932.

WILLIAM DERSE, 23, colored, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Marcus Kavanagh for stealing the automobile of Virgil C. Comstock, 826 Judson avenue, Evanston. He stole the car on June 11 and it was recovered by the police. When he made a second attempt to steal it on June 20 he was arrested.

FRANK FASANO, 22, sentenced to 1 to 20 years by Judge Kickham Scanlan after he was found guilty of stealing an automobile on April 10 in front of 2319 North Washtenaw avenue.

Judge Marcus Kavanagh will decide this morning on the petition for a change of venue from Cook county filed in behalf of Chester Gallas, 28 years old, and James Kuratko, 30, alleged slayers of Jacob C. Pederson, a Cicero avenue street car conductor.

SEES CHINA HURT BY U. S. FILMS AND MISSIONARIES

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 25.—(AP)—American movies and some American missionaries have had a detrimental effect upon China and several other nations, members of the Institute of Pacific Relations said today at their round table conference.

Dr. Hu Shih, a woman member from China, said it was "an eye opener" to Chinese students when they learned college students in the United States and Canada have activities other than "necking," as depicted in some films.

"When you ask if you should send more missionaries to China," she said, "I reply, it is more important to get a better quality of movie actors who do not distort American life."

A British member declared his investigation has shown African tribes have suffered severely from the "offal of Hollywood" poured into that country without censorship.

POLICE ATTACK PUBLIC ENEMIES WITH NEW LAW

List 25 Gangsters in Start of Drive.

Twenty-five police characters were proclaimed public enemies yesterday by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, who prepared to invoke two newly enacted laws to prosecute them as vagabonds. Under the new statute they may be tried upon their reputations and if convicted may be imprisoned for six months.

Heading the list, which contains the names of many on other public enemy lists, was Murray Humphries, who was designated Public Enemy No. 1 after Al Capone went to prison. Others of the Capone gang are included.

The 25 names were the first of 200 or more to be presented to Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green in the Felony court. Warrants were issued for their arrest when Lieut. Arthur Katt, who heads ten hoodlum squads attached to the detective bureau, swore that he knew each of the men named and that, in the language of the statute, they "are reputed to be habitual violators of the criminal laws."

On New Enemy List.

The new public enemy list is as follows:

MURRAY HUMPHRIES, head of the bootlegging and racketeering syndicate once led by Capone. He is now under federal and state indictment and is a fugitive.

FRANK NITTI, business manager of the Humphries syndicate. Recently shot by Policeman Harry Lang, who faces trial because the shooting was said to have been unprovoked.

CLAUDE MADDOX, alias Johnny Moore. Regarded as one of most dangerous criminals. Member of old Capone gang. Formerly member of Egan's Rats of East St. Louis.

FRANK RIO, former bodyguard and prison mate of Al Capone. Known as a gunman and killer.

SAM HUNT, under sentence now for carrying gun. Known as "Golf Bag Sam" because he was once caught carrying a shotgun in a golf bag. Member of Humphries syndicate.

DANNY STANTON, south side beer gang leader and long known as dangerous gunman.

JACK McGURN, known as Machine Gun Jack, who killed many men on the west side and later operated a night club on the north side. He fought several duels with other gangsters.

TONY CAPEZIO, once owner of the Circus café in which the Valentine day massacre of 1929 was planned.

DOMINICK BALLO, formerly of the Aiello gang, which was responsible for many of the gang wars of the old days. Arrested several times carrying guns.

MAXIE EISEN, business agent of the fish dealers' union and invovled in several union rackets. An ex-convict and bootlegger.

SAM BATTAGLIA, suspect in many robbery and murder cases. Has a long police record.

JOSEPH WEIL, the Yellow Kid himself. Convicted of several crimes and known as the master of confidence games.

TONY ACCARDO, Capone gunman and pal of Machine Gun Jack McGurn.

DAVID OSTRAN, now under conspiracy indictment along with Capone and others in alleged labor union racketeering case.

FRED PONCHER, regarded as an automobile thief and gangster.

MARTIN QUIRK, south side bootlegger, who has had several clashes with the law, but has never been jailed.

Gives Prosecution New Power.

Assistant State's Attorneys Grenville Beardsley and John Boyle declared that in the past defendants in Criminal courts were permitted to offer testimony as to their reputations as law abiding citizens. Now the state for the first time can use the reputation of a person to convict him as a vagabond. The law also applies to those who associate with persons "reputed to be habitual violators" or who act as bodyguards for such persons, the prosecutors explained.

Under this "reputation law" any person known to be or to have been a bootlegger—violator of the criminal laws of the United States—may be convicted as a vagabond, the prosecutors said. Conviction of violation of the liquor laws would not be needed—just the general reputation as a bootlegger.

Judge Green issued search warrants authorizing the police to search both the persons and the automobiles of the 25 men named on the new list.

JURY UPHOLDS POLICE SHOOTING.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the death of James Clancy, 20 years old, 6829 South Bishop street, a clerk, shot by police early Monday as he ran from a stolen car after he had crashed into a post at 6820 South Bishop street.

Honeymoon on Plane

George F. Nixon, member of the board of tax appeals and head of the real estate firm bearing his name, and Miss Mildred Virginia McCloy of Pittsburgh will be married today at Oakmont, Pa., near Pittsburgh. The ceremony will be performed at the Gables, the summer home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. James J. Flannery.

The couple will go on their honeymoon in Mr. Nixon's plane. They will fly to California, stopping off in Chicago for a few hours tomorrow.

Mr. Nixon's first wife, Elsie Witte Nixon, died in July, 1930. He has a son, Robert, 14 years old. Miss McCloy divorced John T. Milliken Jr., son of the late millionaire founder of J. T. Milliken & Co., in 1931. Before the divorce, Milliken had filed a $250,000 suit for alienation of his wife's affections against her mother, her aunt and her two uncles.

Miss McCloy is 29 years old. Mr. Nixon, who lives at the Drake hotel, is 40 years old. He is well known as a polo player and aviator.

ABANDON MILK PARLEYS; AGREE TO ARBITRATION

Unable to get together on a new milk price, Chicago dealers and dairy farmers agreed last night to submit their differences to arbitration.

This was announced by the dealers after their conference with representatives of the farmers had broken up at the Hotel La Salle. Spokesmen for the distributors was F. H. Kullman, vice president of the Bowman Dairy company. Don Geyer, secretary-treasurer of the Pure Milk association, represented the producers.

The farmers demand $2.21 per hundred pounds of milk in place of the $1.75 which they now receive. At one time they also asked that the base purchases be increased from 90 per cent to 130 per cent. At present the dealers have been buying a minimum of 83,000,000 pounds of milk monthly. The farmers wanted them to buy 120,000,000 pounds.

Three developments, it was said, hastened the move to arbitrate. One was a massmeeting of dairy farmers at Dundee last night where leaders spoke in favor of a milk strike. Another was the calling of another massmeeting in Wing park, Elgin, for tomorrow at 1:30. The third is the scheduled hearing Monday in Washington courts on a suit brought by cash and carry cut rate dealers in Chicago attacking the constitutionality of the Chicago milk marketing agreement.

CHICAGO HOUSES HOLDING $440,000 IN BOGUS BONDS

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Two Chicago brokerage houses hold approximately $440,000 in forged Kansas municipal bonds, Sardius M. Brewster, United States district attorney, said today.

Most of the bonds, Brewster said, were given to the brokerage houses by Ronald Finney, under arrest here, presumably as collateral for Finney's grain and stock market transactions.

Unable to provide $50,000 bail after his rearrest yesterday on new charges of forging and selling $30,000 of municipal securities, Finney remained in jail today with his alleged accomplice, Leland Caldwell.

More than $300,000 of forged or duplicated bonds have been reported found in the office of Tom B. Boyd, state treasurer under arrest on a charge of embezzlement and conversion of $150,000 to his and Finney's use.

The total of spurious bonds and warrants so far uncovered has been estimated by Gov. Alf M. Landon in excess of one million dollars.

Dr. A. F. Schuettler Is Held on Narcotic Charge

Dr. Arthur F. Schuettler, 811 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park, a son of the late Herman F. Schuettler, former police commissioner, was held in $1,000 bonds by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on a charge of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act. He was accused of forging prescriptions for morphine for his own use.

TWO MORE JUDGES VOLUNTEER FOR WAR ON CRIME

Denis Sullivan, Finnegan to Serve Next Week.

Judges Denis E. Sullivan and Philip J. Finnegan, respectively chief justices of the Superior and the Circuit courts, will join the volunteer group of judges who have sacrificed a part of their vacations to help the Criminal court press its war on criminals. Both judges last night announced that they would offer their services to Chief Justice Prystalski for next week.

Chief Justice Prystalski, informed of the offers, expressed himself as delighted that they had agreed to serve. The chief justice said that he was happy to have judges of their ability in his courts and announced that he would prepare a call for each of them for next Monday morning.

At present the judges not regularly assigned to the Criminal courts but willing to serve in the public emergency have increased the summer staff to 10 to 12 judges each week. Ordinarily there have been only five or six judges during the summer term of the Criminal courts.

500 Cases Presented to Jury.

The court's rapid procedure, however, is no more than keeping abreast of the new indictments turned out by the August grand jury. Seldom during the past has a grand jury been sworn in during this vacation month. Seldom during any grand jury term have there been as many as 400 cases presented for consideration. However, assistant state's attorneys already have presented more than 500 cases before the present grand jury.

Thus, although the courts have been working at full speed, the Criminal court calendar is little changed, according to Criminal Court Clerk George Seif. He said that there would be enough cases to keep a staff of at least 10 judges busy for several months after the regular fall term of court opens on Sept. 5. During the regular terms of court no more than seven judges have been assigned to the Criminal court.

Since the war on crime was begun three weeks ago 14 judges have served varying periods of from one to five weeks. They are: Judges Prystalski, Charles P. Molthrop, Ross Hall, Kickham Scanlan, Donald S. McKinlay, Marcus Kavanagh, Harry B. Miller, Walter J. La Buy, Samuel P. Epstein, Daniel P. Trude, Joseph B. David, Denis J. Normoyle, Joseph Sabath, and Rudolph F. Desort.

A Superior Court Chancellor.

Judge Sullivan's volunteer term will mark his first service in the Criminal courts in more than 20 years. During the last two decades he has been continuously a chancellor of the Superior court and a member of the court executive committee. Judge Finnegan has often been a judge of the Criminal court and he has a record for strict interpretation of evidence and a stern application of the law.

Circuit Judge George Fred Rush also will serve a volunteer term next week. With his two colleagues he will fill the vacancy left by Judge Hall, who will return to his duties as an Appellate court judge. On Sept. 5 Judges Philip L. Sullivan, Michael Feinberg, Thomas J. Lynch, and Walter P. Steffen will begin service in the fall term of the Criminal court.

A survey of the 47 judges of the Circuit and Superior courts made yesterday disclosed that only 14 men have given no indication of support of the effort to speed up Cook county justice. Of these all are now on their vacations and only four could be reached yesterday.

Judges Explain Stand.

Judge Bicek said he had been assigned to the Juvenile court beginning Sept. 5, and added "this day is so close that it would hardly be worth while for me to go to the Criminal courts."

Judge Frankhauser said that he had been confined to his home under the care of a physician since the vacation period began. He said he would have been willing to serve if he were physically able.

Judge McKinley said the volunteering of the judges was "a lot of poppycock." He said no judge could legally serve in the Criminal court until he had been assigned there by the executive committee of his court. If he was assigned to the Criminal courts he would be glad to serve, he said.

Judge Schwaba explained that he had been hearing the emergency call in the Superior court for five weeks and felt entitled to pass up service in the Criminal court and take his vacation.

The other judges who could not be reached in Chicago last evening are Robert E. Gentzel, Francis B. Allegretti, Charles A. Williams, John J. Sullivan, Walter P. Stanton, John J. McGoorty, William J. Lindsay, Joseph F. Fitch, Stanley H. Klarkowski, and Harry A. Lewis.

NIP COUNTERFEITING PLOT BY CONVICTS IN LEAVENWORTH PRISON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The justice department today disclosed the discovery and frustration of a plot to manufacture counterfeit money by inmates of Leavenworth penitentiary.

Dr. H. D. Powers, assistant psychologist of the public health service, was reported by the department to have been suspended from duty at the institution pending a further investigation, as some counterfeiting material had been found in a portion of the prison under his direct supervision.

The department said counterfeiting materials—including waterproof fluids of various colors—had been found. It added that other materials and instruments apparently intended for use in counterfeiting had been discovered in various parts of the prison.

No paper was found, it was said, that could be used for making currency and the department thought it probable the plot had been broken up before actual operations could begin.

"There are a large number of very skillful counterfeiters incarcerated in the institution at Leavenworth, and constant vigilance is required to prevent incipient attempts to make counterfeit money," the department said.

SEEK STATE FUND TO AID IN PAYING TEACHERS HERE

$246,391 Due Board from 1929 Grant.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

Gov. Horner announced yesterday that every effort would be made to turn over at once to the Chicago board of education $246,391 owed by the state to the schools. This sum would help to finance a cash pay roll for teachers and other school employés. The school board has $1,444,356 in cash on hand, or within $633,644 of the amount needed for the pay day.

May Get Other State Funds.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, apprised the governor of the facts over the long distance telephone. He explained that the pay roll of $2,078,000 for the first two weeks in January would be almost met if the state reimbursed the board. Gov. Horner promised immediate action.

In addition Mr. McCahey disclosed that there was a possibility of money coming from the state distributive fund. In May of this year the state paid over $1,200,000 from this fund for 1931, and it was thought that a further collection of taxes might make it possible for a portion of the $2,150,000 left over for that year to be turned over.

The school board will take action on the pay day at its recessed meeting on Wednesday.

Meanwhile the "Save Our Schools" committee, with headquarters at 165 North Wabash avenue, continued its activities against the school retrenchment plan. The committee announced that pledge cards, stating that the signers would oppose at the polls any candidates who favored the plan, would be distributed among parent voters throughout the city. The distribution will start Monday.

A subcommittee was appointed to interview federal officials to ascertain whether a government investigation could be started into school affairs. This group is headed by Col. James White, education chairman for the American Legion.

C. M. BARDWELL QUITS NORMAL SCHOOL BOARD

Conrad M. Bardwell of Aurora, appointed last March by Gov. Horner to the state normal school board, resigned yesterday. In a letter to the governor Mr. Bardwell said that he was resigning because after talking to administration leaders he had found out that plans were on foot to cut the four year courses in the normal colleges to two years. Mr. Bardwell was in the Aurora school system for 40 years and resigned six years ago as superintendent of the east side schools of that city.

Finance Committee Accepts F.W. Sargent's Resignation

No action was taken yesterday by the committee on public expenditures to fill the post of chairman of the organization vacated by the resignation of Fred W. Sargent, who gave up the post in order to devote his full time to his duties as president of the North Western railroad. Following a meeting of the organization in his office, Ernest R. Graham, chairman of the executive committee, announced that Mr. Sargent's resignation had been accepted "with deep regret." A meeting for the election of a new chairman is to be held next week, it is understood.

SUBURB'S POLICE CHIEF IS INDICTED FOR SPEED TRAP

Niles Center Captain Also Accused by Jury.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 65; recovered, 51; stripped, 5 (from police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Thursday).

The grand jury returned an indictment yesterday charging Thaddeus Groark, suspended police chief of Niles Center, and Robert Bowman, captain of police in the village, with conspiracy in the operation of a speed trap racket.

The indictment was obtained by Assistant State's Attorneys Frank McCurrie and Frank Righeimer Jr., in coöperation with Joseph H. Braun, counsel for the Chicago Motor club. It resulted from the club's secret investigation of speed traps in suburbs surrounding Chicago. The prosecutors said that evidence has been obtained in other suburbs and that there might be further grand jury action.

Judge Sets Bonds.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court set bonds of $2,500 each for Groark and Bowman and issued capiases for their arrest. The indictment charges them with a conspiracy to obtain $1,000 or more from the public by means of confidence game and false pretenses.

The two policemen, according to the prosecutors, operated their racket differently from most speed traps, in that they had no connection with a justice of the peace or police magistrate. Instead, they acted as judge and jury themselves, settling with their victims on the spot.

Settle with Victims.

Prosecutor McCurrie said that complaints had been received from a score of victims. Their stories were uniform. They charged that they were arrested for petty traffic violations or on unjustified complaints, and then released, after giving the policemen bribes ranging from $1.85 to $10. None of them, they said, was taken into court. The racket, Attorney Braun said, had been in operation since last April, when the two police officers took office.

DR. E. FRIEND, RICH SURGEON, IS SUED BY WIFE

Mrs. Magdalen Friend of the Georgian hotel, Evanston, filed suit for separate maintenance yesterday in the Superior court against Dr. Emanuel Friend, wealthy physician and senior attending surgeon at Michael Reese hospital.

Her bill, filed by Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, charges cruelty. Her husband, she charges, never allowed her to take part in social activities, and compelled her to live in a two room hotel suite and to cook his meals over a bathroom grill.

On Feb. 6, 1931, Mrs. Friend charges, as a result of her husband's treatment, she became ill and went to California to recuperate. When she arrived there her husband refused to send her any money, she charges.

The couple married in 1917. Mrs. Friend's bill states that her husband has an income of $25,000 a year and is worth between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

HUNT VANDAL WHO CLIPS TAILS FROM HORSES

Chicago Lawn police began a search yesterday for a man "with a peculiar look in his eye" who has been going about the southwest side cutting the tails off milk wagon horses. Edward Rogenbeck, manager of a Wieland Dairy company branch at 2350 West 58th street made the complaint. One of his drivers caught the man at work yesterday, but he escaped, abandoning a butcher knife and a jar stuffed with horse and human hair.

"He's cut the hair from the tails of seven or eight of our horses," complained Rogenbeck. "Now the poor animals can't brush the flies away."

Charles Lumpp, an employé of the company, found the man at work on his horse as he came out of a passageway at 1610 West 59th street, but was unable to hold him.

FAIR ATTENDANCE SOARS TO A NEW RECORD FOR DAY

Mark of 262,556 Set Last Week Exceeded.

Thursday, Aug. 24, 1933.....	201,355
Thursday, Aug. 24, 1893.....	243,951
Total, including Aug. 24, 1933 [90 days] 11,268,860

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A new paid attendance record at the World's Fair was established last night. At 8:45 o'clock, with more than three hours to go before the admission gates were to be closed, 263,961 persons had passed through the turnstiles. This broke the previous record of 262,556, which was established on Friday a week ago.

Yesterday's and last night's huge throngs were attracted by Arizona day, Children's day, and Boy Scout day programs.

At 11:30 p. m. 267,723 paid admissions had been registered as compared with 255,325 at the same hour last Friday. At 2:30 p. m. yesterday the attendance passed the total figures of 201,355 for all of Thursday. At that hour 205,116 admissions were shown.

Wait for Gates to Open.

More than five thousand persons were waiting for admission at 9 o'clock when the gates opened, and 23,457 poured into the grounds during the first hour. From then on the day maintained supremacy in the attendance field, at no time being surpassed by the hourly attendance on any other day. Still another record was hung up in the morning. It was the first time since the Fair opened that attendance passed the 100,000 mark as early at 11:30 a. m.

Official figures for yesterday were 107,730 at 11:30, and 132,423 at noon. The next highest hourly attendance, established last Friday when the present record was made, was 96,480 at 11:30 and 119,595 at noon. No other day came within several thousands of the mark.

"From now on," Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, said, "we will be hanging up new marks at which to shoot. 'Success brings success' and as each record day is recorded it means that some other day, with visitors making a special effort to see the show which attracted such a crowd, a still higher mark will be made. With cool weather and Chicago beginning to see the Fair, the attendance is acting much as was predicted."

Two Special Programs Today.

West Virginia and Hungary will share honors with the presentations of special programs at the Fair today. Final touches were given last night and the honor guests were beginning to arrive for today's ceremonies.

The feature of the West Virginia program will be the presentation of a pageant, "Great Moments in American History in West Virginia," at 8:30 p. m. on the Floating theater. The story starts in 1671, when Batts and Fallam, at Kanawha Falls, took possession of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys in the name of the king of England and started a contest for possession which was finally decided at the battle of Waterloo.

Other historical events in the history of the state depicted in the pageant include the battle between Virginia riflemen and Indians under Chief Cornstalk at Mount Pleasant in 1774, thus, according to West Virginia, staging the first actual battle of the revolutionary war. In 1803 James Strode Swearengen, West Virginian and lieutenant in the United States army, led a detachment of troops to the present site of Chicago and was one of the personalities associated with the founding of the city.

Governor Leads Visitors.

The state contingent, led by Gov. H. G. Kump, accompanied by his wife and two daughters, arrived yesterday. They took an unofficial tour of the Fair and were guests at luncheon in the Sears building.

Today the party will be given a governor's salute of 17 guns and a review of the U. S. army troops in the Court of Honor, to be followed by a reception by President Dawes. A formal program of speeches and music will be given in the court of the Hall of States at 4 p. m.

The Hungarian program will be featured by a parade, music, dancing, and speeches beginning at 5 p. m. in the Court of Honor, and from there to the court of the Hall of Science. Speakers will include President Dawes, Dr. Arpad M. Barothy, chairman of the Hungarian day committee; Laszlo De Medgysey, the Hungarian consul, and Theodore Brentano, former minister to Hungary.

12,000 Boy Scouts Parade.

The Boy Scouts and Arizona shared the limelight yesterday. Twelve thousand Boy Scouts paraded into the Fair to open their program of speeches, drills, music, and scouting exhibitions. In the formal program in the court of the Hall of Science Dr. George J. Fisher, national Scout executive, and President Dawes spoke.

The highlight of the Arizona celebration was the reception of Miss Arizona, 17 year old Margaret Boyd of Phoenix, and State Senator James Minotto, official representative of Gov. B. B. Moeur. The beauty queen was greeted by an honor drill of Fair guards, and the Senator by the U. S. troops from Camp Whistler.

U. S. Saves on Chicago Temperature Reports

As an economy measure, most of the hourly temperature readings for Chicago given daily to newspapers will be taken from the thermometer atop the United State courthouse instead of that at the University of Chicago observatory. The observatory readings are official, but to get them hourly means a telephone bill of about $100 a year. Forecaster C. A. Donnel suggested that this money should be saved.

Boy Hero Honored at Fair

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The "Tom Thumb," first locomotive built and operated in America, and the "Pioneer," horse drawn carriage which raced against it on Aug. 25, 1830, met again yesterday on the Illinois Central railroad tracks in a reproduction of the historic race. As in the original race, over the 13 mile course between Baltimore, Md., and Ellicott's mills, the horse won the race. Then the outcome was due to mechanical difficulties on the locomotive, but yesterday's race was more or less "fixed," to make it duplicate of previous performance. The course was considerably shortened for this race, extending from 35th street to 39th street. It was staged by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Another of the Illinois Composers' series of musical programs in the Illinois Host house, arranged by Mrs. Margaret Lester, will be presented tomorrow at 5 p. m., featuring Alice Brown Stout, who will present a program of her own vocal and instrumental compositions.

A jinrikisha relay race with athletes from nine universities competing, will be staged at 2:30 this afternoon between the Travel and Transport building and the 39th street gate. Each team will consist of two boys, one riding and the other pulling. The race is over a 2,500 meter course.

Native Russian opera will be part of the program to be given by Austrian, German-Hungarian and Volga-German societies in the court of the Hall of Science from 1 to 6 p. m. tomorrow. The Volga-German group will have German and Russian music and will stage the ballet from Borodin's opera "Prince Igor."

The first public wedding ceremony of the Fair was performed last night before a crowd of 1,800 in Old Mexico. The bride was Julie Belle Hinkle of Hollywood, Cal., not a motion picture actress, who drove to Chicago in an old Ford. The groom was Victor Carl Nebon, an official of the Log Rolleo. Gifts, a dinner and a special show were provided by Fair officials.

The Marquis Testaferrata, senator in the parliament of the Island of Malta, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow over the Grand Trunk railroad from Montreal for a three day visit. He will be accompanied by his son, Alfio, and his daughter, Helen.

Rumanian day will be celebrated Sunday, Sept. 3, in the court of the Hall of Science. Charles A. Davila, Rumanian minister to the United States, will come to Chicago to speak.

A Greek minister to the United States will visit Chicago for the first time since the world war on Saturday, Sept. 9, when Charalambos Simopoulos arrives for the Greek day ceremonies at the Fair the following Sunday.

A party of 647 employés of the Plymouth Motors corporation arrived yesterday over the New York Central lines. A large party from Huntington, W. Va., is due tomorrow over the Michigan Central.

SOUTH PARKS ASK REPORT ON MOORING MASTS

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the south park board, announced yesterday he would investigate proposals to use one of the Sky Ride towers for a mooring mast for airships.

One of the consulting engineers who designed the tower said last week either of the structures could be converted into a mooring mast at a cost of between $75,000 and $100,000.

The investigation is being conducted at the requests of Commissioners B. F. Lindheimer and William McDonnell of the south park board. The findings will be presented at the next meeting of the boar don Sept. 20.

JAPAN VALUES U. S. FRIENDSHIP, FAIR CROWD TOLD

Japan realizes its dependence on the good will of the United States for continued prosperity, and for that reason, if no other, its expressions of desire for the friendship of America are no idle gestures, visitors and guests at the tea ceremonial in the official Japanese exhibit at the Fair were told yesterday. The speaker was Y. Myamoto, member of parliament and director of the Japan Central Tea association.

The occasion was the visit of 28 national queens who have been honored at the Cha-No-Yu, the ancient tea ceremony.

"You Chicagoans say the world has a wrong opinion of you because it reads only about crime and undesirable things," said Myamoto. "This Fair is to acquaint them with a city of glorious achievement and cultural life. I have seen the city and I agree with you fully.

"Our purpose is the same. All you read of Japan is about the army, navy, maneuvers, navy treaties and similar things. That is no more Japan than crime is Chicago. Our purpose is to show you that other side.

"The United States is our best customer, buying more goods of us than any other country. Think how we must value your good will. To sell you our goods we must have your good will, and we will never endanger that."

STRIKE RIOTERS PELT POLICEMEN WITH TOMATOES

More than 1,500 persons took part in a tomato and brick pelting affair last night in front of a dress factory at 3510 Belmont avenue owned by A. Roth, where a strike has been in progress since Monday. A hundred policemen were summoned by a riot call and many of them were hit by the flying vegetables. Three or four women were struck by stones and one was tapped with a policeman's club, but they retired without giving their names.

Eight of the women strikers were arrested and taken to the Albany Park police station where all except one were released. The girl held is Miss Rose Umlaux, 18 years old, 2509 South Sawyer avenue, who led a tomato hurling attack on Policeman Raymond Madden, who had been stationed at the factory's front entrance since the walkout.

The melee, which lasted about three-quarters of an hour, started when ninety strikers began throwing tomatoes at a score of strike-breakers. The stone throwing started when hundreds of neighbors joined forces with the strikers.

INDIAN MONARCH HERE TODAY FOR CHURCH SESSION

Maharaja of Baroda Will Open Parliament.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago will be host to royalty today in the person of his highness Maharaja Gaekwar Sir Sayapi III. of Baroda, wealthy Indian potentate. The Gaekwar of Baroda will open the world parliament of religion at the convention of the World Fellowship of Faiths in the Morrison hotel tomorrow evening.

The Indian monarch arrived at Quebec yesterday and left immediately by train for Chicago. He is to arrive here this morning at 9 o'clock on the Michigan Central railroad at the Illinois Central station at Roosevelt road. He will be met by a reception committee of which George W. Dixon is chairman. Members of the committee include Mayor Kelly, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, and Rufus C. Dawes.

Doctors Accompany Monarch.

The Gaekwar is accompanied by two doctors, a secretary, and a valet. He is the only sovereign ruler who will visit the city during the World's Fair. He will remain here four or five days, during which he will visit A Century of Progress. He will make his headquarters in the Morrison hotel.

As a reigning monarch, the Gaekwar of Baroda is entitled to a 21 gun salute. Baroda is one of the wealthiest provinces of India, covering an area of 8,135 square miles and has a population of 2,126,500. He has been ruler since 1881.

Although he is 70 years old, the monarch is remarkably active. During the war he was knighted by King George for his support of the allied cause. He is known as one of the most progressive rulers in the orient and is a leader of Hinduism in India.

The parliament of religions, which the gaekwar will open, claims succession to that held during the Columbian Exposition in 1893. Sessions will continue for 21 days and will be held in the Morrison hotel.

Many Well Known Names.

Arrangements for the parliament were made by Kedarnath Das Gupta of India, London and Chicago and C. F. Weller of Chicago. Mr. Dixon, chairman of the World's Fair committee on religion, is honorary president of the Chicago committee of 200. The Rev. Dr. E. F. Tittle of Evanston is the chairman of the same committee. Mr. Dixon has been announced as the chairman of the opening session, at which former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg will be honored. The date is coincidental with the signing of the peace pact of Paris.

Recently it was reported that Bishop McConnell was to withdraw from his nominal leadership of the parliament together with the resignation of a number of other recognized Chicago religious leaders from the Chicago committee. Those who have withdrawn their support include Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, managing editor of the Christian Century, a widely read religious journal; Rabbi Louis L. Mann of Sinai temple and a member of the World's Fair committee on religion; Dr. Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago chapel, and Dr. Albert Buckner Coe of the First Congregational church, Oak Park.

Will Not Withdraw.

Bishop McConnell replied definitely to inquiry made yesterday that he would not withdraw from the chairmanship.

In an open letter to Bishop McConnell, written by Dr. Morrison and published in the Christian Century, it was asserted that invitations sent by Bishop McConnell led to a false assumption on the part of their recipients. Those who have received such invitations, Dr. Morrison stated, assume that they are to speak before an assemblage gathered under the auspices of the present Fair.

Rantoul, Ill., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Fire of undetermined origin swept through a hangar at Chanute army air field here today and caused damage estimated at $600,000 to the structure, adjoining buildings and valuable aerial photographic and wireless equipment.

Some damage was caused to the air corps technical school nearby and officials said it was possible its opening, scheduled for Sept. 1, would be consequently postponed. Much of the equipment destroyed had been purchased to replace material lost in a similar fire two years ago which destroyed the hangar next to the one lost in today's fire.

Col. James A. Mars, commandant, who was away at the time of the fire, was reported hurrying here to convene a board of inquiry into the cause of the conflagration which other camp authorities said they could not determine.

FAIR WILL PAY 20 PER CENT OF BONDS SEPT. 1

The World's Fair will pay 20 per cent of the outstanding bond issue of $10,000,000 on or shortly after Sept. 1, President Rufus C. Dawes announced last night. Trustees of the Fair have placed $2,000,000 in the trust fund for this payment.

"A sum exceeding $2,000,000 has been placed by A Century of Progress with the trustees under the terms of the indenture securing the $10,000,000 gold note issue," the statement said. "Such payment will be made on or after Sept. 1, 1933, and interest will cease to accrue with respect to such payment from Sept. 1 on the notes whose holders accept such payment. Letters are being mailed to all known holders of notes informing them of the manner in which such payments will be made."

OFFICE GIRL WINS CHARM CONTEST AT ST. CHARLES

Miss Florence Johnson, 22 years old, of St. Charles, an office girl, was selected last night among eight contestants as "Miss St. Charles" at a centennial program in that city. She was adjudged the most beautiful and the possessor of the most personality in the contest, which was held in Pottawatomie park. She will preside over the remaining two days of the fête, which began Wednesday, and will also reign at a program to be held next Thursday at the Fair.

ARM FOR JAPAN! U. S. IS WARNED BY BRITISH PEER

Lord Marley Says Tokio Is Ready to Pounce.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 25.—Lord Marley, former undersecretary of war in the late British Labor government and now chief opposition whip in the house of lords, returned to Shanghai from Japan tonight. He was deported by the Japanese authorities. In an interview with THE TRIBUNE correspondent he declared that he was an intense pacifist and had come to the far east for the purpose of conducting an anti-war conference.

Lord Marley, who before the creation of his title in 1930 was Dudley Leigh Aman, considers the situation in the Pacific so critical that unless the United States quickly develops its fleet to full treaty strength the United States shortly will be reduced to a status closely resembling the present unenviable position of China.

Says War Is Certain.

"America is a rich nation of 130 million people," he said. "The people are certain victims unless the nation is able to defend itself in the face of the growing menace in the Pacific."

Lord Marley said war is certain under the present imperialist system, with every nation fighting for markets and the conflict centered on China and India.

Lord Marley arrived in Shanghai a fortnight ago accompanied by a Belgian, Jean Marteaux; two Frenchmen, Vaillant Couturier and George Poupy, and an Englishman, Gerald Hamilton. Their purpose is to arrange an anti-war congress in Shanghai, which Lord Marley claims will attract 1,000 delegates from the various nations.

Held by Jap Gendarmes.

On Aug. 17 Lord Marley and Marteaux went to Japan to invite Japanese delegates to attend the conference. When the party reached Kobe Lord Marley was questioned for four hours by Japanese gendarmes. He was compelled to sign a document agreeing not to see any Japanese. After that he was placed in detention in a Kobe hotel for three days and then deported to Shanghai.

Lord Marley said a state of indescribable political, economic and social tension exists in Japan, where two conflicting currents are clashing—one pro-war, the military party, and the other anti-war, supported by the powerful labor unions.

Captive Salesman Turned Over to Sheriff by U. S.

Arthur J. Reese, Anoka, Minn., a salesman, was turned over to the custody of the sheriff of La Salle county for further investigation yesterday. He had been held here by federal agents since last Friday on suspicion that he might be a kidnaper, although no evidence was found to connect him with any crime. Reese jokingly described himself as a "hooey gangster" in a tavern at Ladd Ill. He was arrested and federal agents found $1,080 and a score of firearms, most of them antiques, in his hotel room.

HOSPITAL CASE TO BE HEARD BY MEDICAL GROUP

The Chicago Medical society is expected to take cognizance of the action of Judge Joseph B. David in the Superior court regarding the Evangelical hospital at the next meeting of the society's council on Oct. 10, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Austin Hayden, president of the society.

Judge David issued a writ of habeas corpus for the return of Elaine Shopkus, 8 months old, who had been in the hospital since birth, to her father, Stanley. Shopkus, who lives at 837 West 34th street, charged that the hospital had held his child because he owed a bill for her care.

When informed that Dr. Jacob F. Hultgen, as unofficial spokesman for doctors associated with the Evangelical hospital, had criticized remarks attributed to Judge David, and said that the Chicago Medical society "would do something about it," Dr. Hayden said: "Without doubt it will come up at the first meeting of the council."

Judge David in court told the Rev. G. A. Kienle, superintendent of the hospital: "You're just a bunch of chiselers. Your hospital is a disgrace to civilization."

"The hospital would have been only too glad to release the baby at any time," said Dr. Hultgen. "But in order to appeal to the gallery the case is made to look as if the hospital held the child as a chattel. The mother was operated on for appendicitis four days before the birth of the child. She died the following day. The baby was a premature baby and kept in an incubator four weeks. The father, in the eighth months the baby has been in the hospital, appeared only twice. Neither time did he offer to take the baby."

SAYS TOO STRICT POLICY CLOSED DETROIT BANK

Vandenberg Criticizes U. S. Appraisals.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Testifying before the bank grand jury today, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg said its insistence on liquidity instead of solvency was the one great mistake of the government in its bank opening policy.

In a study of the nation's banking situation as of March 29, Vandenberg said he found that the seventh federal reserve district, centering in Chicago, and of which Detroit is a part, was the chief sufferer of the twelve districts. In the whole country on that date, he added, there were 1,307 closed banks containing $2,715,000,000 in deposits, of which more than one-third was in the seventh district.

"I could never understand why the banks in the Chicago federal reserve district seemed to be suffering from lower appraisals, why the district had more closed banks than any other district," the senator added.

Question of Appraisals.

"I was unable to believe that banks in this district were that much worse than in other districts. It all turned on the question of how you appraised their assets. In the last month or two there has been evident a more liberal attitude. Our own record of reopenings within the next thirty to sixty days will bear that out."

The senator, in answer to a question by Judge Keidan, said he was amazed at the action of the government in denying the Detroit court access to the records of the two closed banks and to the refusal of government officials to come to Detroit and testify. He also said he did not think it possible for an appraiser to come into a strange city and make a fair appraisal of a bank's assets.

Vandenberg also criticised what he termed "the too rigid loan requirements of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in dealing with banks wanting loans from the government."

"System That Spelled Doom."

The senator was reminded that Senator Couzens had testified that approximately 1,000 banks had closed their doors after getting R. F. C. loans, to which Vandenberg replied that he considered that an error of judgment the other way.

"The whole emphasis of the government's policy," he announced, "was on liquidity. It forced appraisals to be made on the wrecked values of an utterly depressed market, a system that spelled doom for thousands of banks.

"Bank solvency became too much of a question of bank liquidity. If a bank remains 100 per cent liquid it is not a bank, but a large warehouse. How could a bank lend money on home mortgages or aid in the expansion of industry, putting thousands to work, if it must be able, at all times, to meet all deposit demands with cash? Only a few large banks in New York City lending money chiefly on market accounts which can be quickly liquidated, enjoy this position. But all the banks of the country cannot be run on a Wall street basis.

Tells Attitude in Senate.

"There came a time when I felt the supreme mistake was being made by the government in its insistence on liquidity instead of solvency as a measure of the right of a bank to reopen. I repeatedly attacked that attitude on the senate floor."

Senator Vandenberg said it was the opinion of every person attending the White House conference on the Detroit banking situation that the Union Guardian Trust company would have to be supported by voluntary contributions before a legal loan could be made by the R. F. C. In this he supported the testimony given by Senator James Couzens, who had been accused of blocking a $6,300,000 loan to the trust company.

"There was no disagreement on the point," Vandenberg added, "and I heard no one suggest that we proceed with the loan without some restoration of values in the trust company. President Hoover was, of course, present, and his statement was one of anxiety and a desire to do all possible for the Detroit banks."

PLAN HOSPITAL AT BRIDEWELL FOR POLICEMEN

Mayor Kelly yesterday requested Edward J. Denemark, superintendent of the Bridewell, to remodel the superintendent's home at the city prison for use as a hospital for injured police and firemen. The superintendent is to construct a bungalow on the Bridewell grounds for his own use. The superintendent's quarters, a spacious house, would provide hospital facilities for 20 to 25 patients, ample, the mayor said, to afford treatment for the average number of police and firemen incapacitated in line of duty.

"The staff of the Bridewell hospital, because of the number of cases of that kind which come to their attention, are experts in the treatment of gunshot wounds," said Mayor Kelly. "Frequently, I am informed, wounded policemen have asked that they be sent there for treatment."

The chief house surgeon at the Bridewell is Dr. Andrew Toman. At present, the city pays hospital bills for employés injured in the line of duty, and it would be able to save some money by providing its own hospital facilities, Mayor Kelly said. The Bridewell prisoners manufacture brick, and the cost of a new bungalow for the superintendent would be small, he said.

DE VALERA BANS WEST CORK BLUE SHIRTS' PARADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 25.—The De Valera government tonight banned the proposed parade of the blue shirts [National Guard] at Bael na Blath Sunday. This is regarded as the most serious step yet taken and information tonight is that the parade will be attempted as arranged and that blue shirts will be worn.

West Cork, where Bael na Blath is situated, is overwhelmingly attached to Michael Collins who was killed there during the civil war. It is also near his birthplace.

Battle Sleeping Sickness Epidemic in St. Louis

"SLEEP SICKNESS" DEATH LIST NOW STANDS AT 30

243 Cases of Disease in St. Louis Region.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Two new deaths from encephalitis reported today brought to 30 the total of fatalities in the "sleeping sickness" outbreak which began July 30.

The day's report included 25 new cases of the illness, making a total of 243, of which 183 are in the county and 60 in the city.

Spreads Over City.

The epidemic has focused the attention of the United States public health service on this territory. Most of the patients reported have been residents of that populous strip of St. Louis county which borders the city limits, but the disease is spreading throughout the city and west of the county belt highway.

Resistance has seemed a major factor in the disease and health officers have recommended plenty of rest and nourishment as important defense measures. Pending identification of the cause or agent of transmission, they have ordered isolation of all patients and urged the public to observe ordinary sanitary care.

Noted Doctors Fight Disease.

The attempt to block the outbreak has enlisted noted federal, state, and local physicians in the search for the unknown cause and means of transmission with the hope of developing some remedy or preventive. It also led to the permanent organization of a metropolitan health council. The council held its third meeting this afternoon at the courthouse in Clayton in an attempt to unite county, city, and east side health departments in fighting the disease.

Health Commissioner Bredeck, informed that the public is being bombarded with attempts to take advantage of the epidemic in selling products ranging from goat's milk to rat poison, has issued public warning to avoid wasting time or money on any so-called preventive. None is known to have any value in this disease, he emphasized.

SEEK TO PREVENT SPREAD

State health officials are concentrated in southern Illinois to prevent the spread of the encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, epidemic from St. Louis, Mo., across the Mississippi river into Illinois, Dr. W. A. Evans, THE TRIBUNE health editor, learned last night. The state health officer, Dr. Frank J. Jirka, is in St. Louis conducting an investigation of the epidemic.

Dr. Jirka has with him Dr. Lloyd Arnold of the medical school of the University of Illinois and members of his downstate staff who are charged with the prevention of the spread of the disease into Illinois. No cases have been reported in southern Illinois recently. The state health officials, Dr. Evans said, are conferring with doctors of the United States public health service to determine what steps to take to prevent the disease from obtaining a foothold in Illinois.

No Cause for Alarm.

"There is no reason for alarm over the prevalence of epidemic encephalitis, so called sleeping sickness, in St. Louis and vicinity," Dr. Evans said. "No one need have fear of going there on a business trip, either because of danger to himself or because he may bring infection home to his children.

"When compared with epidemics of small pox, measles, scarlet fever and even infantile paralysis, the amount of encephalitis in this epidemic is trivial. When we speak of it as an epidemic we merely mean that it is more prevalent than it usually is. There is no evidence that the disease is spread by contact with cases of the disease or even with carriers.

Nature of the Disease.

"For all practical purposes this fever of sleeping sickness, as distinguished from the African disease of the same name but of a different order, has only been known since the war. It is an infection of the mid brain, or brain stem, with a virus or a bacillus which no one knows.

"The onset of the disease is generally with a moderate fever, drowsiness, prolonged stupor and sleeping coma, and perhaps headaches and other aching. A fair proportion of the cases recover promptly. Another considerable proportion recover, but after a prolonged, tedious convalescence. Paralysis is the most frequent after effect."

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, director of the city board of health, announced yesterday that there are no known cases of encephalitis in the city now.

GUNMEN WOUND SALESMAN.

Police are seeking four men who early yesterday shot and slightly wounded Charles Brody, 33 years old, 2348 North Clark street, a salesman, when he balked their attempt to curb his car on Ogden avenue near Fry street.

Election Battle Opens in Cuba; It's Old Policies vs. 'New Deal'

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 25.—Politics and finance were twin themes today as Cuba prepared to plunge out of the revolution which made an exile of former President Machado and into the thick of a national political campaign. President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes by decree this morning set Feb. 24, 1934, as the date for the general election of all elective officials. The new presidential term is to begin on May 20, 1934.

By calling this election De Cespedes slashed one year from the term he will serve in Machado's place. De Cespedes is not a candidate to succeed himself, his field being that of diplomacy.

At once the issue popped up whether the next president and administration are to be of the old school type of politicians or of the younger political set which engineered the revolution.

Restores Constitution of 1901.

In his decree De Cespedes officially proclaimed several things already done since Machado fled. He dissolved congress, most of which is in hiding or exile, and he declared vacant the seats of Supreme court justices appointed after May 20, 1929. These two acts were actually accomplished on the day De Cespedes took office, Aug. 12.

The decree restores Cuba's constitution of 1901 as it was before Machado began tinkering with it with "reforms" to entrench his political machine and keep him in office. These reforms included an extension of the terms of the present congressmen and of many other elective officials from four to six years and abolition of the office of vice president.

De Cespedes proclaimed that these "reforms" had not been constitutionally adopted because the delegates to the constitutional assembly were hand picked and the electorate was deprived of choice. Hence, he argued, the reforms were null and void and the officials elected under them had no right to office.

In brief, the decree officially says the tenure of the Machado régime is at an end, after declaring that he has been a usurper since his second election in 1929.

Will Respect Foreign Debts.

The decree says the government shall respect and comply with all international obligations contracted in the name of the republic, including those under the Machado régime.

An advisory board is to be created to carry out the terms of the decree.

The decree is regarded as a setback for United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, who, with an apparent view to demonstrating that the revolution was not a revolution, had advised in his capacity as mediator that the present congress should be retained until replaced by popular vote and that other acts of De Cespedes be on constitutional lines.

The treasury department by a rough guess today declared that $50,000,000 is the probable total of thefts and graft of political racketeers on the island during the last six or seven years. Official charges were filed before the Supreme court some days ago against Machado and six of his cabinet members by the department of justice. These charges said $10,000,000 had been taken out of the public treasury by them.

Graft on Public Works.

The greatest reservoir for graft is held to have been in the great program of public works inaugurated by Machado in 1925. It embraced $200,000,000 for the 700 mile central highway which threads its way through the leading cities of the island, for schools, aqueducts, city beautification, and the $17,000,000 new capitol.

Engineers say the great national highway cost $140,000 a mile, although it was an easy engineering feat with no frosts to contend with. About $70,000 a mile would have been the top price in the United States for similar construction.

Another fruitful source of corruption is said to have been the state lottery, under which tickets were given to a preferred list at prices which enabled them to sell to brokers at a profit of $10 a ticket. Thirty of these ground level tickets in prosperous times netted the recipient $300 a month. It was part of the system of the Machado machine.

Machado Going to Canada.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 25.—Despite protests from Canadian citizens, who allege that Machado is an arch criminal, the former dictator of Cuba and hi entourage are to be allowed entry into Canada. The Canadian government today cabled the governor of the Bahama islands stating that Machado's entry with three of his associates who fled to exile with him would be arranged. Advices from the Bahamas quoted Machado as saying he hoped to remain in Canada "for some time." It is understood here that the Cuban group will take up residence in Montreal. Machado is to be accompanied by Eugenio Molinet, Octavio Averhoff, and C. Morreno. Machado has booked passage to Montreal on the S. S. Lady Rodney. The boat is due at Montreal on Sept. 3.

COURT DISMISSES CHARGE OF RAPE AGAINST POLOIST

The rape charge brought by Miss Eugenia Rose, Evanston nurse, against Cecil Smith, Texas polo star, were dismissed yesterday.

Neither of the principals was in court when Willis R. Brightmire, Evanston police magistrate, called the case at 1:15 p. m. Smith had gone to Long Island, N. Y., for the forthcoming international polo tournament, while Miss Rose, according to her attorney, Andrew D. Collins, had left town with her father, Dr. F. W. Rose, a dentist of Cooperstown, N. D.

Robert Boston, Evanston constable, was the only witness called. He said he had called Thursday night at Miss Rose's former residence, 2118 Central street, Evanston, and at the Hotel Sherman, where she stayed after preferring the rape charges, but was unable to obtain service of the subpœna Magistrate Brightmire had issued to have her testify.

Attorney Collins then admitted she had left town. Assistant State's Attorney Eugene Wachowski asked the lawyer whether her departure had had been advised by him, to which Mr. Collins declined to answer.

The nurse's lawyer volunteered to state, however, that no money had been demanded of nor promised by Smith to have the case dropped. Smith's attorney, George T. Evans of the firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw corroborated him. Thereupon Magistrate Brightmire ordered the case dismissed.

U. S. DELEGATES ASK SOCIALISTS TO ARM WORKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 25.—A proposal to arm workers of the United States and all other countries with rifles, revolvers, and machine guns in order to enable them to meet the universal menace of Fascism was submitted today to the international Socialist conference by a majority of the United States delegation, THE TRIBUNE learns.

While the meeting was secret, a trustworthy source reveals that four out of the six American delegates headed by Prof. Maynard Krueger of Chicago, all advocates of direct action, made a determined effort to introduce this measure into the final text of the manifesto consecrating the deliberations of the conference. The idea was to empower the Socialist Internationale by some mysterious process to arm workers throughout the world.

Veterans European Socialist politicians smiled compassionately at the "youthful enthusiasm" of their American comrades as revealed by this proposal and commented once more on the fact that the American delegation is the most radical at the conference.

35 PROMINENT GERMANS PUT ON 'BLACK LIST'

Lawyers and Writers Are "Excommunicated."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Thirty-five writers, lawyers and politicians who fled from Germany following the advent of Chancellor Hitler to power were "excommunicated from the German community" today. They were formally deprived of German citizenship and their properties were confiscated. The official announcement said: "They failed in their duty and loyalty to the empire and nation and violated German interests."

Helmuth von Gerlach, who was born a junker and who was ostracized in the days of the kaiser because he was a democrat; Heinrich Mann, Lion Feuchtwanger and Ernest Toller were among the authors branded as men without a country. George Bernhard, Alfred Kerr, Leopold Schwarzschild and Friedrich Stampfer, journalists, were ostracized. Dr. Rudolf Breitscheid, Philip Scheidemann, former chancellor; Otto Wels, and Albert Grzesinski were outstanding among the ousted Socialists.

One Woman on List.

Ruth Fischer, communist member of the reichstag, was the only woman on the list. Two other Red leaders, Muenzenberg and Wilhelm Pieck, were also listed.

The chief of the late republic's secret service, former Secretary of State Robert Weissmann, also was deprived of citizenship. None was prouder than Weissmann in his days of power. He anathematized his own daughter and cursed her with biblical imprecations when she married a mere scribe, Alfred Kerr. Now Kerr and Weissmann share their fate, anathematized by their country and penniless.

Special precautions were taken by the government to prevent publishers from continuing to pay royalties to authors on the list of the excommunicated. Should the international body decide to give these refugees passports similar to the "Nansen passes" issued by the league of nations to Russian refugees, Germany plans to refuse to recognize them.

Should the ostracized persons attempt to return to Germany, they "must themselves be aware of the danger threatening them," writes Information, the official news service.

Inject Race Into Religion.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The four month old conflict between German Christians [Nazis] and the faction of Dr. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, former Evangelical bishop of Germany, flared up violently in the Brandenburg provincial synod today when a Nazi motion prevailed asking the general synod to apply to church officers the same provisions regarding race as obtained in civil service.

The vote on the motion was 132 to 48. The general synod will convene soon. Pastors, deacons and other church officers would be affected by the measure.

Adoption of this motion by the general synod would mean, for example, that an Aryan pastor who married a Christian girl whose grandmother was Jewish would be deemed unfit to preach the gospel in Germany.

Strikes at Catholics.

EISLEBEN, Germany, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Bernhard Rust, Prussian minister for culture and education, demanded today that "even the Catholic German shall learn to bow his head in reverence before Luther, the German, and Luther, the fighter and victor." He spoke during exercises commemorating Martin Luther.

Lindberghs May Hop from Shetland Islands Today

ZIONIST PARLEY SPLIT ON BUYING OF NAZI GOODS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 25.—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—The eighteenth world Zionist congress, which yesterday cheered the announcement of an agreement with the Nazi government permitting the export to Palestine of Jewish capital in the form of German goods, today heard the agreement characterized as "harmful and against the moral and economic interests of the Jewish nation."

Meer Grossman, leader of the Democratic Revisionists (a faction of the extreme right wing Zionists), warned the congress that the world-wide Jewish boycott against the Nazis would be broken down if German goods were to be brought to Palestine in the large quantities contemplated under the agreement.

Demands an Explanation.

"We consider this agreement harmful and against the moral and economic interests of the Jewish nation," Grossman declared. "We demand an urgent explanation from the executive, especially since the congress voted yesterday against public debate on Germany. We ask an immediate reply in order to enable discussion on this subject."

Grossman submitted an official declaration to the congress, demanding that the executive body of the Zionist organization inform the congress whether the executive was aware of the negotiations and whether the agreement had been approved by it. He also asked what Zionist agencies or institutions had participated in the negotiations.

What Agreement Provides.

The agreement, revealed by Dr. Arthur Ruppin, agricultural and colonization expert of the Jewish agency for Palestine, provided for the establishment of a trustee corporation to liquidate Jewish possessions in Germany to the extent of 3,000,000 marks (about $977,000).

Rabbi Meir Berlin, president of the World Mizrachi (orthodox Zionists), accused the Labor party of closing Palestine immigration to all except laborites and demanded a stronger Zionist attitude in dealing with the mandatory power and more religious activities by the Palestine executive.

PAROLE OFFICERS ORDER ASSAILANT OF NURSE JAILED

Robert McMahon, 29 years old, 715 Madison street, Evanston, was taken into custody by parole officers yesterday when Miss Sara M. Scott, a nurse, failed to appear before Municipal Judge Harry H. Porter in Evanston to prosecute charges of assault and robbery against him.

McMahon was paroled a year ago from the Pontiac reformatory. He faces a return there to serve the remaining six years of a sentence for robbery, and was taken to the county jail pending action by the parole board.

He was arrested several weeks ago on the complaint of Miss Scott, then an instructor of nurses at St. Francis' hospital. She charged that he seized her in an "L" station in Evanston early one morning, and, following a struggle in which she scratched his face, ran off with the contents of her purse.

Yesterday Judge Porter received a letter from her, stating that she has a job in Council Bluffs, Ia., and would not return to Evanston to prosecute McMahon. Judge Porter fined McMahon $100 for disorderly conduct.

HUSBAND SPENDS MONEY ON BOOKS; WIFE IS FREED

Mrs. Josephine Mann, 4433 North Whipple street, testified yesterday before Circut Judge Walter J. La Buy that her husband, Harvey, a printer, spent all his money for editions of Shakespeare and failed to support her. She also alleged that he struck her after she objected to his continually reciting passages from Shakespeare around their home. Judge La Buy instructed her attorney, Harry X. Cole, to draw the divorce decree. Mrs. Mann waived alimony. The Manns were married in 1921 and separated in October, 1932.

AUTO BUILDERS MAY WIN POINT ON LABOR ISSUE

Roosevelt Is Expected to Sign Code Today.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Automobile manufacturers have won their battle, it was indicated tonight, to have a clause inserted in their NRA code recognizing their right to deal with their employés on a basis of merit and efficiency.

The coal code, being debated by committees representing the nonunion coal operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers' union, also may include such a clause. All forces in the coal industry, and the NRA staff as well, were being hard driven today, under orders from President Roosevelt, to reach an agreement. While it was announced that "great progress" is being made, no general and complete agreement on a code is expected for two or three days.

Ready for Signing Today.

The automobile code was approved tonight, with the labor qualifying clause in it, by both industry leaders and the national recovery administration, and, although it has yet to be submitted tomorrow to the NRA labor advisory board, NRA officials confidently predicted the code will be ready for President Roosevelt's signature tomorrow afternoon.

If it is, what seemed like a bitter defeat to the automobile men will be turned to a victory over labor, as was predicted in THE TRIBUNE Tuesday.

Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, on Wednesday night, seemed to have dumped his promise to the automobile men, for then he had asserted in a formal statement that no clauses qualifying the labor section of the industrial recovery act, known as section 7-A, would be allowed in codes.

Union Leaders Battle.

Labor union leaders have been staging a battle royal with leaders of the coal and automobile industries over the open shop, and labor thought the victory was theirs when Gen. Johnson ruled the words "open shop" out of the NRA lexicon.

But, in a topsy-turvy of interpretations and more interpretations, it was indicated by Gen. Johnson this afternoon that he would allow language to be inserted in a code clarifying the relations which industrialists wished to enjoy with their workers.

From other sources it was learned that the automobile makers have finally obtained a decision from the Johnson administration that they may include a clause in their code which, in effect, will declare their purpose to hire and fire, promote or demote employés on a basis of merit and efficiency, independent of labor union affiliation.

No Intention to Modify Act.

The automobile code, it was learned, will state in connection with the clause that it is not intended in any way to modify or alter the meaning of the statute, which guarantees to workers the right to bargain collectively with their employers through representatives of their own choosing.

The manufacturers, it was learned, are not interested in how they get the language in, just so it is there, and they were reported tonight in renewed jubilance over the reported consent given by Gen. Johnson to put the clause in their code.

It has been argued by the labor forces that if any modifying language is put into any code the employers will stress it in bulletins to prevent outside union agents from making headway in organizing independent unions.

Similarly, the employers have argued that the union leaders are now out in the field, in factories, mills and even offices, carrying a cry that the NRA gives them a new right to compel unionization of workers.

Prospects "Look Good."

After telling newspaper men this afternoon that the prospects of having an automobile code tonight "looked good," the general was asked about the coal code.

"That looks good, too," he said, and if his good nature, contrasted with his extreme irritation of last Tuesday, was any criterion of how things are going, both situations must "look good." The administrator was gushing with optimism.

He could not say how long it would take to iron out the coal mess.

"I will say, though," he added, "that there won't be any interminable hearings on the coal code. They'll reach an agreement, or a disagreement, very quickly, or I'm going to impose a code on them. I hope to God we don't have to, but we will if the agreement doesn't come soon."

In Session All Day.

The operators and the mine union representatives were closeted all day in Gen. Johnson's office, with the general there most of the time. Conferring were, for the United Mine Workers, John L. Lewis, president, and Philip Murray, Thomas Kennedy, and Van A. Bittner; and for the operators, J. D. A. Morrow, R. D. Taggart, and D. C. Kennedy of the Appalachian fields, and Charles O'Neill for the Northern Coal Control association.

Discussing the need for well organized bodies, within industries, to settle labor controversies, Gen. Johnson said: "There must be set up a complete mechanism for handling disputes in the coal industry."

Asked about the success of the NRA program, Gen. Johnson said frankly it was impossible to measure it with any accuracy, because there are no reliable figures available as to how many workers are employed in industry, and how many are unemployed. He echoed a recent lament of President Roosevelt that true industrial statistics are nowhere collected.

NRA Campaign to Enlist Consumers Begins Tomorrow

The drive to enlist consumers under the NRA standard will be launched officially tomorrow night when Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, broadcasts an appeal by radio to the public to support the program by buying from those who operate under the President's reëmployment agreement.

Voluntary acceptances of the new codes by employers are decreasing day by day, and it is time to force the reluctant businesses into line by gaining the coöperation of the buying public, it was stated.

In Chicago the total of concerns who have pledged themselves to abide by the rules of NRA was raised yesterday to 29,367 when 953 concerns joined. The number of employés in this city now under the new standard is 774,190. Several hundred thousands of workers remain outside the code.

To Direct Enlistment.

Enlistment of consumers in Chicago will be directed by the Chicago Recovery council, of which George W. Rossetter is president, and the state and district recovery boards appointed by the President.

On Monday morning workers for these groups will begin the distribution of millions of NRA stickers to those who promise to buy from none but NRA employers. The government has 20,000,000 pledges and stickers to be distributed to the postmasters of all cities in the country.

At the same time as the volunteer workers for the government are getting the consumers in line they will try to enlist all employers who have thus far refused to pledge themselves to the national reëmployment agreement, it was declared.

Radio, screen and stage stars will take part in tomorrow night's program, in which Gen. Johnson will speak. In theaters in the coming weeks movie trailers will be shown in which audiences will be asked to exhibit their patriotism by patronizing only NRA employers.

Chairman Rossetter of the Chicago Recovery council said that 131 city organizations will be used as agencies in pushing the NRA campaign. A house to house campaign will follow the general drive in order that no concern or family may be missed.

F. L. Roberts, Chicago director of the department of commerce district including Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa, announced that the government is contemplating a census to be taken some time after Labor day to get exact figures on how many people have gone back to work since Aug. 1, the start of the NRA campaign.

The appointment of Lawrence Whiting of Chicago, chairman of the board of the American Furniture Mart, as adviser for the furniture industry in formulating a furniture code under the reëmployment agreement, was announced at Washington yesterday by the national recovery administration. A number of other prominent Illinoisans have already been appointed to assist in the drafting of various industrial codes.

Urge Lawyers to Help.

At a meeting of the Lawyers Legislative league yesterday a set of rules for lawyers was adopted in connection with the recovery campaign. Lawyers, exempted as a profession from the provisions of the reëmployment agreement, were urged by the league to make public addresses in favor of NRA; to devote at least one hour a day gratis to advising business men on NRA problems, and to advise clients on how to comply with the spirit of the recovery act and not how to evade the spirit of the code.

The Chicago diocese of the Episcopal church yesterday began operating under the provisions of the NRA, according to an announcement by the Venerable Frederick C. Deis. All employés of the church are affected.

Coöperation of the City Club of Chicago with the national recovery administration program was pledged yesterday with the appointment of subcommittees of the club's general committee on national recovery to obtain enlistments for the recovery program. Charles R. Simmons, chairman of the general committee, said that headquarters would be established at the club to enlist members as volunteers. On Tuesday Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago will speak at the City club forum on "The Consumer in the New Deal." Prof. Ogburn recently resigned from the consumers' advisory board of the recovery administration.

CONNECTICUT POLICE SEIZE 4 AS MEMBERS OF KIDNAPING GANG

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Four men were in custody tonight as state authorities pressed their round up of what they termed a Connecticut kidnap ring.

Ernest Corvo and Mario Campisi were being held under $25,000 bonds each on charges of conspiracy to kidnap. Two others also were being held in $5,000 each as material witnesses.

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and Detective Edward J. Hickey said the arrests had frustrated a plot to kidnap a wealthy Springfield, Mass., business man.

The authorities said the plottings of the gang had spread into their home state, and that they had marked for kidnaping a prominent figure in the Connecticut judiciary, Judge Israel Poliner of Middletown.

Alcorn said the men were arrested at Windsor Locks Tuesday night—the very night on which, he said, their victim was to have been taken to a lonely shack in the Southington mountains and held for $50,000 ransom.

WOMAN DOCTOR STABBED; MAID IS DEAD OF CUTS

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Miss Ann Kiffe, 50, formerly of New York, was stabbed to death tonight in the home of Dr. Anita Muhl, psychiatrist, in one of the city's finest residential districts.

Dr. Virginia Wilson, who recently came here from Berkeley, Cal., was being questioned by police, who said she was carrying a knife when arrested several blocks from the scene.

Dr. Muhl was stabbed and her condition is critical. Miss Kiffe, maid in Dr. Muhl's home, is survived by a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Degelman of Mankato, Minn.

Oak Park Ex-Policeman Sentenced for Killing Kin

Logan Beach, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Fred J. Smith, 72, retired Oak Park, Ill., policeman, was sentenced today to serve five years to life in prison after pleading guilty to second degree murder of his stepdaughter, Lucille Smith, 31, at the family residence here July 31. Several witnesses testified Smith had repeatedly threatened his wife and stepdaughter.

COURT RULES AIR LINES CAN'T SET DAMAGE LIMIT

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals today sustained a $40,000 award to Mrs. Kathleen I. Glose of Norristown against the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, Inc., for the death of her husband, C. William Glose, in an airplane crash near Tampa, Fla., three years ago.

In its decision, handed down by its senior member, Judge Joseph Buffington, the court ruled that "passenger air planes" were "common carriers" like railroads and steamship lines, as such, the court held, they had no legal right to set any limit on the amount of damages recoverable from them for the death or injury to passengers in an accident.

The company had contended that if Mrs. Glose was entitled to any damages they were limited to $10,000, under a limitation clause appearing on air passenger tickets.

$238,000,000 SHIP BUILDING WORK BEGINS AT ONCE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—The navy department paved the way today for beginning immediate work on the $238,000,000 warship building program when contracts were signed for the construction of two 20,000 ton aircraft carriers and two 10,000 ton light cruisers. The complete cost of the four ships will be approximately $61,350,000. The aircraft carriers will be built by the Newport News Dry Dock and Shipbuilding company, while the New York Shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., will build the cruisers.

The carriers will be the last word in naval aviation transports and cost $19,000,000 each, subject to certain possible adjustments due to labor and material costs.

U. S. Soldier Goes on Trial Before Army Court Monday

PANAMA, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Corporal Ralph Osman of Brooklyn, N. Y., will be tried before a military court next Monday on a charge of possessing military secrets. Maj. Charles R. NO NEW ECONOMY DRIVE LIKELY IN NEXT CONGRESS

President Hopes to Keep Costs at Present Level.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—There is to be no renewed drive for government economy during the next session of congress. There is no present intention on President Roosevelt's part to invoke the more direct means of inflation such as expansion of the currency or devaluation of the gold dollar.

These two negatives were officially written into the administration's policy during a day which saw the end of Secretary of the Treasury Woodin's overnight visit to the summer White House for a discussion of the government's and the country's finances, and the arrival this evening of budget director Douglas to confer concerning the money supply for the next fiscal year.

Pay Cuts Continue in Force.

The aim of the administration will be to hold regular federal expenditures for the fiscal year 1935 for which appropriations will be made by the next congress, down to the level of the present fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1934, the President announced at the press conference today. Federal salary reductions will continue in force, but there is no present intention of attempting to chop further the approximately 2 billion 450 million dollars which will be spent this year for the federal functions carried in the regular budget.

The level of course does not include the constantly mounting sums now carried in the supplemental budget under the President's newly instituted system of separating ordinary from emergency expenditures. The so-called emergency expenditures, largest of which are the sums going to the public works program, are being paid for by bond issues. The new taxes passed by the special session of congress are to pay interest and amortization on the bond issues, amounting to some 224 millions a year. When repeal has been achieved, liquor taxes are counted on to raise this amount.

Discuss 2 Billion Bond Issue.

How swiftly this emergency money is being poured out of the treasury was shown in this morning's talk between the President and Secretary Woodin concerning the necessity of raising some 2 billion dollars by bond issues within the next six months in order to pay for the growing public works program and to refund maturing federal securities issues.

President Roosevelt is pleased, however, at the accelerated rate at which revenues are coming into the treasury, and is sure that the treasury offerings will be subscribed for as eagerly as the recent large refunding issues.

$50,000 WORTH OF STAMPS SOLD IN 4 HOUR RUSH

Fifty thousand dollars' worth of special A Century of Progress stamps were sold in four hours, between 8 a. m. and noon, yesterday at the special postoffice of the American Philatelic society on the 10th floor of the Medinah-Michigan Avenue club. A line of buyers several blocks long at times, many of them stamp collectors, waited to purchase the stamps which were sold in unperforated sheets of 25 each, in 1 and 3 cent denominations. Individual sales ranged from 25 cents to $1,000.

The first sheet of stamps was sold to C. W. Henman, president of the society, by Third Assistant Postmaster General Clinton B. Ellenberger. Later as the rush of buyers continued, Mr. Ellenberger ordered a second sales office opened in the United States courthouse, which also did a record business.

Mrs. M. C. Schaughnessy, in charge of the stamp sale, said that both offices would remain open until noon today to care for the demand.

FOOD, GROCERY MASTER CODE IS OFFERED TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—A master marketing agreement for the 20 billion dollar a year food and grocery industry was submitted today to the agricultural adjustment administration by seven national associations of distributors.

The proposed pact sets up a specific code of "fair competitive practices" for the distribution of food and groceries at wholesale and retail. Involving not only the distributors of such commodities, but the producer and consumer as well, it was hailed by farm adjustment officials as the most far reaching marketing yet to be submitted under the farm act.

Hours and wages for the food distributing industry are not covered in the agreement, as these matters, under the arrangement existing between the national recovery and agricultural adjustment administrations, must be left to the former. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, however, is empowered to accept and work out codes dealing with the marketing of farm commodities.

Other Codes Coming.

The food and grocery code was described by farm officials as a "master code, intended to supplement and coordinate codes which will be adopted covering the various subgroups in the food distributing industry, such as the canners, the refrigerator warehouse firms, the handlers of fruits and vegetables, and the various commodity groups."

Outlawed under its provisions would be such existing trade practices as "loss leaders," now employed largely by retail chain stores as an inducement to customers. The proposed code, it was said, would limit grocery manufacturers, wholesale grocers, and retail grocers in the sale of goods at prices below cost."

"This article," said farm adjustment officials, "is expected to provoke wide discussions because of the far reaching effect of these sales practices on both producers and consumers."

Other alleged cutthroat competitive practices which the agreement would attempt to eliminate are the granting or acceptance of secret rebates, misleading labeling, and misleading advertisement.

U. S. Stand Emphasized.

Officials of the farm adjustment administration said they wished to "emphasize the fact that the code in its present form, while it represents the views of a large portion of the food industry, should not necessarily be taken to represent the views of the administration.

"In the informal and formal hearings which will be held for its consideration," it was stated, "all groups affected by it in any way will be heard. The purpose of the administration is to see that in its final form the code serves the best interests of producers and consumers, in keeping with the purposes of the agricultural adjustment act."

STATE COLLECTS $1,866,876 FROM 2 PCT. SALES TAX

Joseph J. Rice, state director of finance, announced yesterday that collections totaling $1,866,876 had been made up to and including Aug. 24, on the two per cent retailers' occupational tax. This amount was collected from 81,116 merchants in the state, he said. Additional returns are being received daily. Mr. Rice estimated that there are more than 100,000 retailers in the state subject to the tax, and he said action is being taken to compel the delinquent merchants to file a return.

The returns announced yesterday were on sales made during July. Failure to file a return is punishable by a fine of 25 per cent, plus 1 per cent additional per month of delinquency. Returns on sales made during August must be filed not later than Sept. 15, at the office at 30 North La Salle street, or in Springfield. The revenue from the tax is to be devoted to the relief of the idle for the first six months of the two year period the tax will be in effect. The funds will be spent by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

ORDERS WOMAN TO APPEAR IN KISS SHOOTING

Subpœnas Issued When Only King Appears.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

When Mrs. Emilie E. King, 29 years old, failed to appear in court to testify against her husband, Albert Cleveland King, yesterday on an assault with a deadly weapon charge, Judge Joseph H. McGarry ordered a subpoena returnable next Friday issued to compel her to come into court.

Subpoenas also were also issued for Mr. and Mrs. Eric Scudder of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, other principals in the domestic drama of the Kings which began at a party in the Knollwood Country club, Lake Forest, when Mr. King found Mr. Scudder kissing Mrs. King.

The climax of the drama came later when, Mrs. King charges, she arrived at the King home at 534 Stratford place and was greeted by a shot from a revolver held by King.

King Appears for Trial.

King was the only member of the country club party to appear in court. An affidavit signed by Dr. Harold Gibson stating that Mrs. King's condition approached a nervous breakdown and that she still was confined to her bed in apartment 601, Lake Shore Drive hotel, was presented by Mrs. King's attorney, William Tracy Alden.

"The court instructs whoever serves the subpœnas to warn the witnesses that if they do not appear warrants will be issued for their arrest," said Judge McGarry before he continued the case to Sept. 1.

Entitled to Vindication.

During the arguments Attorney William H. Kailes, representin. King, who is a fellow executive of Scudder's in the Citrus Products company, pointed out that his client was "an outstanding citizen who is entitled to vindicate himself when a reflection has been cast on his character."

A. A. Englebach and M. V. Englebach, brothers of Mrs. King, both publishers of Washington, D. C., were in court. The former approached reporters talking to Attorney Alden and said, "You'd better forget about this case. You'll have to forget it anyway."

Chicagoan Gets Place on U. S. Public Works Staff

Col. Henry M. Waite, deputy public works administrator at Washington, yesterday announced the appointment of Paul V. Betters of Chicago, executive secretary of the United States conference of mayors, as liaison officer between the federal emergency public works administration and municipalities of the country. Mr. Betters has served as a director of the American Municipal association and formerly was connected with Brookings institute.

LONDON MUSEUM IS BURGLARIZED; 46 GEMS STOLEN

Thieves Hide in Building; Escape by Front Door.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A robbery was perpetrated in the old Geological museum early today by bandits who hid inside the building until after midnight, then rifled a case filled with valuable gems during a ten minute interval when the guard was absent on his round, and escaped by way of the front door.

The building would have been cleared before but for the world economic conference, which met in the museum's new home, thereby delaying the transfer of one of the world's most valuable collections of stones and crystals to their future resting place.

Thieves Hide in Scaffolding.

The old building has been condemned and its heavy iron roof is supported by scaffolding. It is presumed the thieves hid in one of these forests of timbers, from which they could watch the approach and departure of the guard.

The coup evidently was carried out by burglars ignorant of the values of precious stones, for numerous cases nearby, it is declared, contained exhibits worth much more than those taken.

One estimate places the loss at $5,000, but it is believed it will reach a figure far higher than that.

46 Stones Missing.

The guard discovered the crime at 2 a. m. The glass case, labeled "recent acquisitions," had been silently pried open and rifled of 46 stones. The stones included diamonds, one large sapphire, yellow and chrysoprase sapphires, blue paste colored sapphires, a green beryl stone, tourmalines, several blue zircons, and a natural gold stone. All of these were uncut and could be finished by a jeweler so they could not be traced.

NEW MOVE FOR EXTRADITION OF AARON SAPIRO

A new effort to extradite Attorney Aaron Sapiro, one of the 24 defendants in a racketeering indictment, will be made on Wednesday before Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, it was announced yesterday at the state's attorney's office. The original request for extradition was denied because Sapiro proved that he was in New York at the time when the original indictment charged that he was involved in a conspiracy in Chicago. A subsequent indictment changed the date.

Attorney Sapiro was rearrested yesterday in New York on the new indictment. He was released on $1,000 bail pending the extradition hearing before Gov. Lehman at Albany.

Sapiro is co-defendant with Al Capone, Ald. Oscar Nelson, and a group of labor leaders in the conspiracy case. Capone is to be brought from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta to stand trial on the racketeering charge.

FINE WILMETTE PUBLISHER $1; NURSE FREED

Le Roy M. Smith, 48 years old, 832 Forest avenue, Wilmette, trade paper publisher, who was arrested a month ago when his estranged wife, Mrs. Claire Smith, led a raid on the apartment of Miss Hilma Carlson, 22 years old, a nurse, at 4062 Kenmore avenue, and found him there, was fined $1 and costs of $1 yesterday by Municipal Judge Leon Edelman. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Miss Carlson was discharged after promising to have nothing further to do with Smith. A court order, issued in connection with Mrs. Smith's suit for separate maintenance, enjoins the nurse from meeting the publisher.

FIGHTERS FOR ECONOMY.

The community has learned with regret of the determination of Mr. Fred Sargent and Mr. D. F. Kelly to resign their positions respectively as chairman of the committee on public expenditures and head of its advisory board.

These gentlemen undertook the task of restoring the credit of the local governments in the certainty that the difficulties they faced were almost insuperable. When Mr. Kelly and Mr. Sargent took the field the collection of taxes was, as it still is, more than a year behind schedule. The governments had borrowed more than their revenues would, in many instances, redeem, and in consequence the credit of the governments was all but gone. The books of many of the governments were kept in a fashion to conceal their true position rather than reveal it. There was much talk of economy but little application of it.

It would be gross flattery to pretend that as a result of the efforts of Mr. Sargent, Mr. Kelly and their associates the difficulties had all been removed. Every one knows they have not. The finances of some of the governments are in almost as bad condition as they were several years ago; but in many places there have been marked and substantial improvements. The tax collecting machinery is beginning to collect with something like efficiency; from time to time the public has been induced to make temporary advances which have helped to preserve the essential functions of government; most of the important governments have made commendable reductions in their scale of expenditures, and, perhaps most important of all, a body of factual information has been obtained regarding the financial standings of the governments which has been of immense value to the public in judging the work of its officials and to the officials in preparing their budgets.

The progress toward solvency which has been made must be credited in no small part to Mr. Kelly and Mr. Sargent. Theirs has been a thankless task. They have been subjected to abuse by public officials and by others who were the beneficiaries, or thought they were, of governmental extravagance. The efforts to preserve the services of government have been denounced as the schemings of tax dodgers alive only to their own interest. The effort to preserve the schools for the service of the community was characterized as an attempt to destroy public education. A campaign of vilification has been the reward of time and thought devoted to the welfare of the community.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Sargent and Mr. Kelly have not come to believe that the irresponsible bellowings of the tax eaters express the sentiments of the people of Chicago. For the results which have been attained by the Citizens' committee and for the example of devoted citizenship which these gentlemen have provided the citizens and taxpayers have every reason to be grateful.

A LOAN FOR SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Superintendent Bogan has opened negotiations with the public works administration in Washington for a loan of 10 million dollars to complete unfinished high school buildings and to erect a few additional elementary and high schools.

To any one who has seen the incompleted buildings deteriorating under the action of the weather this program will have instant appeal. There is, however, some question about the need for all the additional high school buildings now that the junior high schools have been converted into senior schools. Perhaps this matter can be dealt with as the negotiations proceed.

Meanwhile it is to be hoped that neither this school board nor any of its successors will ever again undertake to erect another educational monstrosity such as the new Lane Technical High school, work on which was abandoned when the building was 80 per cent completed. This school is intended to have 6,191 seats. It is at least three times as large as any high school should be. The size of the school all but guarantees educational inefficiency.

The new Lane school is a monument to the megalomania of the pre-depression era. The building plan could have been approved only by men possessed of the idea that a school is a building and therefore the biggest building with the most expensive equipment is the best school. The idea is preposterous, but it swept the United States and it accounts in no small degree for the present financial condition of school systems all over the country. The initial expense of such buildings is stupendous and, of course, the running costs are needlessly high and a continual drain upon the educational funds.

With a declining birth rate in Chicago there will be less demand for new school buildings in the future. For the most part the new buildings will serve as replacements. School architects can learn a great deal from A Century of Progress. They should seek to adapt its inexpensive construction methods to the school problem. Most of our schools are built to last a hundred years, though every one knows, or ought to know, that in twenty or thirty years a school plan is obsolete.

Inexpensive buildings which are still free of the fire hazard, well insulated from the weather, and handsome in appearance could be erected with a view to replacement a generation hence. The saving in money would be considerable and the increase in educational efficiency, insofar as educational efficiency is at all a function of the school building, might also be worth consideration.

AN INVITATION TO THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

The New York Stock exchange is being harassed by the state and local governments. A threatened increase in the stock transfer tax is one of several sources of irritation. The somewhat erratic conduct of Gov. Lehman is scarcely less disturbing. The directors of the exchange from time to time have talked of moving it to New Jersey. Delaware has invited them to enjoy its hospitality.

If the conduct of the New York officials necessitates a removal, the exchange should come to Chicago. Here it can find adequate banking facilities and adequate wire facilities. The community is far less heavily in debt than is New York, an assurance that tax rates will remain lower. Moreover, Chicago is far more aware of the need for governmental economy than is New York, which was much slower to discover its own insolvency and has been correspondingly slower to reduce its expenditures.

Chicago is the nation's market place for commodities. It ought to make a better market place than New York for securities because it is in more intimate contact, by and large, with the physical properties which these securities represent. Because Chicago is closer than New York to the realities of American economic life, a national stock market here should be less subject to hysterias based on false rumor.

VIOLATING THE CODE.

Picketing the business house of a Milwaukee manufacturer with a banner accusing him of violating the terms of the national recovery act is a flagrant abuse of the spirit of the act.

The picketing was by members of the Amalgamated Garment Workers' union, and the banner accuses the manufacturer of an offense against the code by locking out workers for joining a union.

Reed Brothers, the manufacturers, dispute this. They say a few men were laid off because of midsummer slackness in the industry. As business improved some of the men were asked to return to work, they said, and they declare they have no objection to their employés joining a union.

There are two sides to the controversy, and, right or wrong, it is contrary to American principles for one side to convict the other and, without responsibility, impose punishment. The manufacturer is deprived of the day in court to which he is entitled.

A tribunal was set up under the terms of the act to pass upon charges of violations. It is the duty of this tribunal and not the right of the picketers to determine whether the law has been violated and what the punishment shall be.

Compliance with the code, in the present state of the public mind, has been made synonymous with industrial virtue. It is a business asset of which an employer should not be deprived except by full examination and impartial judgment. If the act is to merit the respect and support it has been given almost universally it must not be made an instrument for the advantage of any special interest or group.

SAFETY FIRST.

As first submitted to congress, the emergency transportation act proposed to give a coördinator full authority to initiate or review any measures that would tend to promote more economical railway operation and thus improve the financial condition of the rail carriers. At the insistence of railway labor organizations the act was so amended before passage as to prevent any economies at the expense of labor. The number of railway employés and their remuneration as of May, 1932, is to be maintained throughout the one year's life of the experiment.

Within the last week the attention of the President has been directed to the fact that the railways are apparently exempted from an NRA code because of the existence of this special railway legislation. There are said to be 750,000 railway men among the unemployed who are automatically barred from benefits that would accrue from NRA principles, and some effort should therefore be made to reconcile these two apparently conflicting pieces of legislation.

Railway gross and net earnings, especially the latter, have been showing substantial improvement during the summer as the result of business revival. Increased carloadings must of necessity result in increased train service, with more employment, so that railway labor is not being entirely ignored. In the meantime the physical condition of the properties is deteriorating because of deferred maintenance. The railway purchases of materials for 1932 approached $2,000,000,000 less than in 1929.

It would seem to be the better plan to permit the railways to catch up on tie renewals, rail replacements, heavy equipment repairs, and other maintenance work. The result would be a business revival in the industries dependent on the railways and the assurance of safe and efficient operation. The laws should operate as originally planned, giving safety first consideration.

Editorial of the Day

A PUZZLE.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

An indignant postmaster in the west wrote a letter to the NRA officials at headquarters telling them that he had received a number of telegrams, hundreds of words in length, that referred to codes for industries not represented in his district, and enlightening him upon matters in which neither he nor his community has the slightest interest. These telegrams he threw promptly into the wastebasket, he says, but he is interested to know how the administration defines "economy" and how its obligations are construed by those in charge of things at the capitol.

And now a news item informs us that those same authorities have just broadcast an order to postmasters asking that they coöperate in the recovery program by turning out electric lights in their offices when not in use, and requiring the substitution of less powerful lamps wherever possible. This attention will result in savings on government light bills and is undertaken "in the interest of economy." We do not wonder that the western letter writer cannot figure it all out.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE-LINE: IN PIONEER DAYS theft of a horse from a settler was a very serious offense, and often an offender was retired from circulation by a "necktie party."

As late as the '70s gangs of horse thieves operating from Chicago infested neighboring states. Jim Morgan, an old Chicagoan, member of the city's detective force from the days of "Long John" Wentworth, became famous throughout the country during the '70s for his remarkable success in breaking up and jailing these gangs. He was widely known and had the reputation of being the most successful man in his line in the U. S. His personal knowledge of horses of note was amazing. He loved his work and hated horse thieves, recovering more than 1,000 horses in his day.

I knew Jim Morgan as a neighbor and many old timers who attended the Jones school will remember him, for he lived only a few doors south of the Jones school on Third avenue (now Plymouth court). Fred A. Ebersold.

For the information of those expecting early repeal I present a price list of a leading department store in 1899:

Bass' ale, in glass, per dozen, 90 cents.
Rye or bourbon, 10 years old, $2.05 gallon.
Rye or bourbon, 8 years old, $2.45 gallon.
Rye or bourbon, 6 years old, $2.05 gallon.
Rye or bourbon, 4 years old, $1.70 gallon.
Conrad Levy.

Capt. Valorus A. Seavey succeeded Chief of Police M. C. Hickey when the latter was removed in July, 1878. The new chief had distinguished himself in the labor riots and was generally popular. His appointment, coming soon after Carter H. Harrison became mayor of Chicago, took Seavey somewhat by surprise.

With the idea of avoiding all appearance of display, Seavey drove over from the west side in a buggy, and tying his horse in the alley known as Quincy street, in the rear of the old Rookery, he entered police headquarters through an open window which extended from the ground almost to the ceiling.

"My God, Seavey!" exclaimed a local politician who was present when the chief thus unceremoniously assumed his duties, "why did you come in that way? Don't you know it will bring you bad luck? It means death."

Seavey only laughed and took up his work. Less than a year later he left the city on furlough and passed away Sept. 7, 1879, from a complication of diseases. F. R.

BRIEF LOVE.

When first I glimpsed her charming form
And sensed the sweet allure
That lay around her like a cloud,
I loved—quick, hard, and sure.

Her beauty struck a vibrant chord
Within my very core.
I felt its magic stir my heart
As it ne'er stirred before.

Her parted lips—red, luscious, full,
Dark splendor in her eyes,
Her hair a lustrous burnished crown
As soft as summer skies.

But ah, sad truth, I knew my love
To sudden death had come
The shocking instant that I heard
Her snap her chewing gum.

WHAT IMPRESSED US MOST ABOUT THE East-West football game at Soldiers' field Thursday night was the crowd, approximately 45,000, with the normal season still nearly six weeks away. Lavish publicity, impelled by the all-star caliber of the participants, helped materially, yet we can't help feeling the uniform admission fee of $1 was largely responsible. Give the people a good show at a reasonable price and they turn out in numbers. The same thing was proved in the recent East-West polo series.

SENSITIVE SKINS.

AS AN offset to the good coming from exposure of the skin to sunshine there are various ways in which harm can follow. Among these are speeding up the travel from the cradle to the grave, sunstroke, and harm done the texture of the skin—permanent detriment done the complexion. This article deals with another way in which exposure to bright sunlight may be harmful.

The skin has some similarity to a photographic studio. Sunlight registers on it just as it does on the film of a camera. In it are two light sensitive chemical substances—porphyrin or purpurin, and melanin. Just what is the relation to light of these two substances is a matter that the physiologists are debating. It is sure that certain parts of the sun ray are excluded from the body by certain ingredients of the skin. Other parts are absorbed. Some new substances, particularly vitamins, are formed by the reaction between sunlight and chemicals found in the skin. There must be some chemicals or apparatus for the conversion of a form of energy light into a chemical substance, such as a vitamin.

There are those who are naturally light sensitive. Their skins burn readily, but they do not tan. When exposed to bright sunlight their skins develop plenty of red but no mahogany brown at the time of the exposure, or later. The skin of a person of this type is abnormal as regards the chemicals on which light acts. Just what the abnormality consists of is not a matter of agreement.

It may be in its quality or its quantity, but, whatever it is, the chemicals are out of balance. In the main the people who burn but cannot tan are the towheads—the light haired, blue eyed, fair folks. However, that as a guiding sign is misleading in many cases. Furthermore, a person of the poor tanning type rarely if ever succeeds in getting a good tan, regardless of how carefully he goes about it.

There are people who say no person of this type can ever succeed in getting a good tan. The something which is out of balance in the skins of these people may not be the same as that which causes the albino to be so sensitive to light. His sensitiveness causes him trouble, particularly because of his eye discomfort. There are people who get hives as the result of exposing the skin to bright light. They are sensitized to heat and light. They are comparable to those who get hives from exposure to cold, as, for instance, by swimming in cold water.

The subject is a new one, and the last word cannot be said. No more than surmises can be made as to what is chemically wrong in albinos, in the poor tanners, and in those who get hives from exposure to sunlight.

CURE OF WARTS.

L. K. G. writes: Will you please tell me the cause of warts and if they can be cured and by what method?

REPLY.

Some warts are due to infection and some to irritation of other kinds. There are scores of methods of curing warts. Each is appropriate for some cases. Some are burned off with a hot needle, by electricity, or by chemicals. Some can be tied off with thread. Daily application of calomel ointment cures some cases. Others are cured by daily applications of camphor water.

SOMETIMES IT IS.

REPLY.

In many cases it is. Some cases persist for many years. Some are completely cured, but such cases are short winded and they are subject to relapses.

BUILDING REPAIRS.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—[Friend of the People.]—I wonder if the premises next door to my place can be inspected. The building is in a dangerous condition for people to be living in. The rear porches are unsafe and the front stairs should have some sort of guards. L. S.

Our district inspector reports the building in question is a two story frame building with concrete foundation—rear porches in need of repairs. Accordingly, a notice has been sent to the owner to repair and put rear porches in good and safe condition and install hand rails on front stairs from first to second floor. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Commissioner of Buildings.

REPAYING LOAN.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When I was 17 I borrowed $50 from a loan company without my parents' knowledge. I then went to California and lived there for thirteen years. I returned to Chicago a year ago and secured a good job. The loan company notified me they would get my job if I did not pay up the loan and also all interest for thirteen years, which they claim amounted to $200. I then signed an agreement which they asked me to do to pay them $3 a week until the debt was paid in full. 1. Is the loan outlawed? 2. Being a minor at the time the debt was contracted, can they force me to pay? 3. Will signing an agreement have any bearing in forcing me to pay? 4. Can I sue for damages if they get my job? G. S.

1. The statute of limitations does not run during absence of the debtor from the state.
2. Your minority was originally a defense, but it seems probable that you can be held on the ratification signed after you became of age.
3. Yes.
4. Not if they are merely asserting their legal rights.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DECEASED WITNESSES.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago my husband had a will drawn up and signed before two men whose signatures appear below his signature. This last month one man passed away and the other is at the point of death. If my husband should die before I do or our children [1] would this will be valid if both witnesses have passed away before he does? 2. Should we have another will drawn and signed by two other witnesses? L. K.

1. Yes, as far as the facts stated are concerned. The signatures of deceased witnesses can be proved by testimony as to their handwriting.
2. It is not necessary on the bare facts stated TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 26, 1917.

ROME.—The Italian troops on the Isonzo front are marching to complete victory. At Udine, Salvatore Barzilai, civil governor of the Austrian territory occupied by the Italian army, when informed of the complete victory of the Italians, exclaimed: "At last our soldiers have achieved this magnificent thing; they have freed our soil from the ancient enemy." The final success of the Italians in winning their greatest battle in this war is thrilling the country as never before. Both the army and the civilians now see the result of two years' suffering and economic hardship. The victory came unexpectedly, notwithstanding the encouraging bulletins of the last fortnight. It is Gen. Cadorna's rule never to announce an advance until certain that his troops are able to hold new positions.

OTHER WAR NEWS.—London reports successes near Lens and in the neighborhood of Lombaertzyde. Paris reports further gains in the Verdun sector beyond Hill 304. Berlin says attacks in this salient were repulsed.

HOUSTON, Tex.—Houston's white population bumped its head against the United States army last night. As a result, Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr., commander of the Illinois division to be trained at Camp Logan, modified his promise to withdraw martial law in this city. Despite the general's promise that the Negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth infantry who caused the race riots in which seventeen died and many were wounded would receive "quick army justice," and his statement that death by the firing squad was the penalty for mutiny and murder, the white citizens—at least many of them—were not satisfied. They want the Negro soldiers returned to Houston for civil trial on charges of murder, for which thirty-four of them were indicted by the grand jury. Policemen and deputy sheriffs circulated petitions making such a demand on Secretary of War Baker, and a massmeeting of protest was called. Maj. Gen. Bell promptly broke up the meeting, declaring it was a violation of martial law.

CHICAGO.—Since the time has been set for the discontinuance of the manufacture of spirits for consumption whisky has gone up in price tremendously. Wholesale dealers, retailers, and private individuals have been laying in large supplies. It is said that one large loop café has enough whisky on hand to take care of its trade for five years without replenishment. This has caused considerable speculation in whisky.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A cablegram from Berne received today states that the Austrian command is removing increasingly large numbers of troops to the rear on account of their having been driven insane under the intense and incessant Italian artillery fire. Entire Austrian units, panic stricken and on the border of madness, have broken and fled under the bombardment.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—Are the season tickets of 150 admissions, good only for the original purchaser? Can discount tickets be obtained in smaller lots?

ANSWER—Yes to the first question, and no to the second.

QUESTION—Is it true the 1893 Columbian half dollar is worth an $85 trip through the Fair?

ANSWER—It is not true. The Columbian half dollar is worth 50 cents.

A TAX ON RETAILERS.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—When the department of finance of the state of Illinois gave out the forms for filing the 2 per cent Illinois retailers' occupation tax return for the month of July they included a copy of the act. In the foreword of this booklet is the following explanation:

"The tax imposed by this act is an occupation tax upon retailers and is not a tax upon consumers. In fixing the price of his products the retailer may consider the tax to be paid by him under this act as one of the elements of cost in the conduct of his business and may include the amount of such tax in fixing such price in the same manner as rent, general taxes and other general overhead expenses are taken into consideration. But he is neither required nor authorized to collect the tax as a tax from his customers."

Yet in spite of this, since July 1, on practically 75 per cent of the purchases I have made, I've been obliged to pay 2 per cent in addition to the prices stipulated on price tags, in advertisements, etc.

When such laws are passed why are the persons whom they effect not notified immediately as to the wording of such a law instead of having nearly 75 per cent of the retailers of the state openly breaking the law?

A TAXPAYER.

DEUTSCHLAND UEBER ALLES.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—I understand the famous German song "Deutschland Ueber Alles," which when translated into English means "Germany, Leader Above All," was sung by American citizens of German birth recently at the German day celebration at the World's Fair. Are they Americans or Germans? Let me tell my German-American fellow citizens that this good old U. S. A. happens to be leader of them all, and even if Uncle Sam wasn't I wouldn't acknowledge leadership of another country over the one I made my bread and butter in. At least, I wouldn't sing about it.

DAN C. LANDSBERG.

THE ASSYRIAN MASSACRE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Our association wishes to express its sincere appreciation of the manner in which THE TRIBUNE reported the recent Assyrian massacres in Iraq. Particularly, we wish to thank Mr. John Steele of THE TRIBUNE'S London office. Mr. Steele's reports show that he not only is fair but also well acquainted with the Assyrian problems in Iraq.

May we hope that THE TRIBUNE, through Mr. Steele, will keep its readers informed of future developments in Iraq? J. S. COLIA, President, Assyrian National Association, Chicago Branch.

APPEAL TO THE CITY COUNCIL.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—It is regrettable to note the silence that enshrouds the members of Chicago's city council in regard to the proposals recently made by the board of education. It seems most strange that that worthy body which so promptly rises to the occasion with expressions of regret and solicitude upon the happening of earthquakes in Japan, floods in the Mississippi valley, hurricanes in Florida, and brutalities in Germany maintains such a quietus in the presence of so important a local matter.

If the board of education is right in its proposals it should have the support and commendation of the elected representatives of the people of Chicago and the men who confirmed their appointment to the board. If the board proposes to deprive thousands of young men and women of the opportunity they have at Crane Junior college it does not seem that the members of the city council are earning their $5,000 annual salary if they so completely ignore this question. R. A. BARNETT.

LOGIC.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—It is inconceivable that a powerful newspaper, sponsoring a glorious musical festival for four years, should blindly follow a near sighted group of men who are taking away these character building essentials in the name of economy! Are you not inconsistent: delighting the hearts and souls of the multitudes with the beauty of songs, instruments, and dances and then willfully denying all of this to our growing children by approving of the board's cuts? If these are "fads and frills," why do you permit radio programs consisting of music of orchestras, bands, and voices? ELIZABETH CANNUTZ.

WARRANTS.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Why is it that the tax warrants now being issued to employés of Cook county in lieu of salaries earned for the first six months of 1933 bear interest from the date of issue instead of from the date the salary was earned? With salaries seven months in arrears, are we not entitled to interest on the money we have waited for patiently? If we borrow money to pay our bills we must pay interest from the date the debt is incurred. Does not the same rule apply to governments? Or must we just take what we are given, and like it? COUNTY EMPLOYE.

GOUGING THE CONSUMER.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Who can inform us why our government should buy butter to raise prices and gouge the consumer so that butter gamblers can make profits on bad speculations at our expense?

Why not give the farmer a bonus on butter fat he now has to sell and help him out but let the gambler take his medicine? G.

Society Enjoys Day of Thrills at Fair Rodeo

Mrs. James Minotto Host to Large Party.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Yesterday afternoon was replete with thrills for the score or more socialites who were guests of Mrs. James Minotto at the opening of the World's Fair Rodeo, and although for some of them it was their first rodeo they all seemed to enjoy it immensely. Their first thrill was in seeing their hostess' husband and daughter and son, James Minotto, president of the rodeo, and Idamay and Demetrius Minotto ride in the opening parade, all garbed as real westerners, which they are, of course, for they live on a ranch in Arizona.

Idamay, as brown as any cowgirl or boy in the parade, was in typical cowgirl attire, blue Levis that gave evidence of having seen real wear, a bright blue silk shirt with a yellow bandanna tied cowboy fashion around her neck, an Indian beaded belt, cowboy boots with old silver spurs, and a ten gallon black hat. After the parade she and her father joined Mrs. Minotto and her guests in the boxes, but "Metri" was one of the "hands" on the field, so he was unable to join his family.

Mr. Minotto had changed to his cowboy clothes just before the parade for shortly before that he had been dressed in formal morning attire to be greeted by President Dawes in the Court of Honor. Mr. Minotto, who gave up the title of count to become State Senator Minotto of Arizona, represented Gov. W. N. Moeur of Arizona in the formal exercises for Arizona day at the Fair.

Another thrill Mrs. Minotto's guests had was in watching Lawton Champie ride broncs, rope and tie calves and bulldog steers, for his wife was one of their party. As fragile and lovely looking as a piece of Dresden china, she didn't look at all the way the uninitiated imagine the wives of western ranchers look. Her wide brimmed white hat and blue and white printed silk frock smacked of the Rue de la Paix instead of Castle Hot Springs, where the Champie ranch is located, and she was one of the most attractive of the many attractive women in the five or six boxes in which Mrs. Minotto's party sat.

Adding color to the picture was one of Mr. Minotto's guests—Brig. Gen. Jesus Jaime Quinones of Mexico City. Garbed in the uniform of the Charro club, of which he is the head, he was as picturesque as the most romantic young girl would visualize a Mexican general to be. Mr. Minotto's large party of men guests, who had lunched with him previously at the Century club, sat in boxes just north of Mrs. Minotto's party, but after Mr. Minotto had taken the general over to meet the ladies he became one of their party. Mrs. Minotto had entertained her guests at luncheon at the Century club before the rodeo, too.

The weather furnished additional thrills, for it looked for some time as if a storm would break at any moment and the boys selling raincoats did a rushing business. Mrs. Harold Strotz and Mrs. Louis A. Ferguson Jr., each bought one and covered their chic outfits with them, but after a few drops the storm blew over and the sun shone again.

Mr. Minotto said yesterday that Will Rogers would be here in about a week to exhibit his skill at roping and riding and that—but this he whispered, for it isn't definite yet—Director of the Budget Lewis Douglas probably was coming. He is a former congressman from Arizona.

Mrs. Minotto, smart in a printed silk of reddish brown and white and a dark brown turban, had with her Mrs. Charles F. Glore, Mrs. Higginson Rogers, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, Mrs. Hampden Winston, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. J. Andrews King, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mrs. C. Farwell Winston, Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Mrs. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, Mrs. Milton Morse, Mrs. Bryan Reid, Mrs. Strotz, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. L. A. Ferguson, Mrs. John L. Senior, and Mrs. Sterling Morton, among others.

Mrs. Rogers, here only a short time from Paris, was stunning in a blue and white printed silk, a short and loose white pique jacket, and a white crocheted beret that only partially covered her distinctive style of hairdressing. She wears her dark hair in braids, coronet fashion, around her head, and very lovely it is, too.

Mrs. Philip Swift wore the jauntiest Alpine hat imaginable, brown with a brown feather, and her linen dress matched in color her hat. She also wore a natural linen coat with leg o mutton sleeves. Mrs. Strotz was a symphony in ice blue and carmine, her gown of the soft blue and her hat ornament, lips, wide bracelets, huge ring and finger nail polish of the brilliant carmine.

In the box just south of the Minotto party was Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia. With him were Mrs. Talmadge and their daughter, Mrs. Charles Smyly of Eastman, Ga.; Mrs. M. A. Cameron of McRea, Ga.; Col. and Mrs. W. B. Hutchinson of Albany, Ga., and Capt. R. A. McClure of Atlanta.

Several boxes further to the south was Mrs. Edward F. Swift, who had with her Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Mrs. Harold E. Talbot of Dayton, and Mrs. George Carpenter and Miss Scott of St. Louis. Mrs. Swift is Mrs. Henry's mother and Mrs. Minotto's aunt, the latter having been Idamay Swift before her marriage.

Schoolman to Be "Voice" in N. Y. Jewish Pageant

Ralph Schoolman, who had the novel rôle of being all the speaking characters in the pageant, "The Romance of a People," presented in Soldiers' field last month, will go to New York within the next few days. He will take the same part, that of "the voice," or the unseen reader, in a reproduction of the pageant there in the Polo grounds at New York on Sept. 14. The production is being sponsored by the Daily News of New York. Isaac Van Grove is directing the pageant there as he did here.

Mrs. Minotto Entertains Socialites at Rodeo Opening

Gen. Jesus Jaime Quinones of the Mexican 50th Cavalry, Mrs. Higginson Rogers (center), and Mrs. William R. Odell Jr. at the opening of the World's Fair Rodeo yesterday afternoon. Gen. Quinones, who was wearing the picturesque uniform of the Charro club of Mexico, of which he is the head, was the guest of James Minotto, president of the rodeo, and Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Odell were in Mrs. Minotto's large party. The Charro club, as Mr. Minotto explained yesterday, is composed of the great ranch owners of Mexico who play polo, hunt and do the other "horsey" things that our smart Lake Forest set does. Many Invitations to Social Events Await Indian Sovereign

Miss Elizabeth Chase, Who Visited His Country, Anxious to Repay His Hospitality.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN his highness, the Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda, sovereign ruler of two million two hundred thousand people in one principality of India, steps off the train in Chicago this morning, he will be welcomed to this city and A Century of Progress by a distinguished reception committee. George W. Dixon is its chairman, assisted by Col. Tryggve A. Siqueland as aide-de-camp. The maharaja is the only sovereign ruler who will visit Chicago while the Fair is still open and he is entitled to the much discussed salute of twenty-one guns.

The members of the reception committee are: Lewis Bernays, British consul general in Chicago; Mayor Kelly, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress; Milton J. Foreman, lieutenant general of militia, retired; Willard W. Jaques, Herbert E. Bradley, Melvin A. Traylor, Mrs. Jacob Baur, John Markham, Col. John D. Reynolds, Charles F. Weller, Kedarnath Das Gupta, Dr. Albert B. Coe, Louis A. Bowman, Herbert Smolen, Otto K. Eitel, Rajah Bahardur Singh, Max Epstein, Capt. E. A. Evers, William A. Stewart, and Dr. Vernon Herbst.

From the station the maharaja will go directly to the Morrison hotel where he is to occupy the bungalow on the roof during his stay. His highness is here to open the last convention period of the World Fellowship of Faith tomorrow evening at the Morrison. Although no plans have been made so far for his entertainment, he has many invitations, including one from Miss Elizabeth Chase, who has visited his country and is anxious that he should enjoy Chicago and feel as welcome here as she did in India.

Organizes Hunt for Youngsters.

Miss Chase thought at first that the Gaekwar of Baroda might come out to Misery farm to see her riding pupils go through their paces in the Bengal Lancers' review, but she is afraid that he will be far too occupied with the Fair and the parliament of religion to drive way out to Lake Forest. Philosophically she has accepted this fact, and already she has turned her amazing energy into new channels and is completing plans for nothing less than a Misery farm hunt — for the children who have been riding with her.

These hunts will be a miniature of the Milburn hunts, beginning the middle of September, with a drag every Wednesday and Saturday during the season. Austin Niblack already is helping Miss Chase to round up a pack of hounds, which she will keep in her own kennels at Misery farm. The master of hounds and the whips will soon be announced. Pink coats, naturally, will be "the thing" on the backs of the children's ponies just as much as they ever were at any of the best hunts in England.

These enterprising young riders are going to take turns giving hunt breakfasts and hunt teas and at the end of the season, climaxing all this whirl of breakfasts, drags, and teas, there will be a grand hunt ball, in the best tradition, given probably by the John E. Hughes' boys, Marshall, Mansfield John E. Jr., and Milton.

Italian Princess Visitor in City.

One of the most charming and aristocratic of gentlewomen has arrived in town to visit A Century of Progress. She is the Princess Borghese of Italy—and who has been to Rome and left it without stopping to see the lovely Villa Borghese? She dined last night with the Italian consul general and his attractive wife, Signor and Signóra Giuseppe Castruccio, at the Century club. Among those invited to meet the princess were Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, Miss Katheryne Linn, Durand Smith, Col. and Mrs. Clifford M. Corbin, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, and Reimund Baumann, the Danish consul.

The princess, who is staying at the Palmer house, leaves for Washington tomorrow and sails back to Italy on Sept. 2 on the Conte de Savoia.

The latest of Japanese royalty to arrive in Chicago will be Prince Iyessoto Takugawa and his wife of the family of Japanese Shoguns, actual rulers of Nippon, who come tomorrow. Prince Takugawa is the son of the last Shogun, and for thirty years he has been president of the Nipponese house of peers. He and the princess will stay at the Drake hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Leander J. McCormick will arrive in Chicago probably on Sept. 5, and while here they will be at the Drake hotel. When they landed on the Berengaria yesterday in New York they were met at the dock by Mr. McCormick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, who are now living at the Savoy Plaza in New York.

Mr. McCormick and his bride, the former Countess Renee de Fleurieu, are spending two months in the United States to visit relatives. They will go to California to visit one of Mr. McCormick's brothers, Alister McCormick. Another brother, Edward McCormick, who with his wife and sons is in California now, will not remain there to greet the Leander McCormicks, but instead will see them in New York, which means that they should be passing through Chicago very shortly.

Golfers Arrive for Tournament.

A future golfing champion, little 2 months old Glenna Collett Vare Jr., is to have her first taste of the Scottish sport this coming week. Early yesterday morning tucked away in a neat little crib she arrived at the Moraine hotel in Highland Park with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Vare Jr., to be here for the opening of the national women's amateur golf championships Monday at the Exmoor Country club.

It is more or less of a shock to the senior Glenna Collett Vare's championship ability to be in the handclapping gallery this time . . . but, then, she explains, a wee small daughter is more important than several silver cups. Mr. and Mrs. Vare, with Morning Glory.

BY NANCY CABOT.

These "Morning Glory" vines when the quilt blocks are joined corner to corner interwine over the entire quilt. The main vine of the morning glory extends from one corner of the block to the opposite corner and is carried from one block to another diagonally across the quilt. Materials matching the natural colors of the flowers would be the logical choice.

Talk about crowd scenes! Go to the Chicago theater this week.

The feature film is only an incidental in this week's program—the stage show providing the big draw—and as such the picture is fair enough. Not so good and not so bad.

The film has a fine cast, including the very popular Joan Blondell and Warren William, Genevieve Tobin, looking very handsome indeed, and Hugh Herbert doing excellent work as the good natured, simple minded husband of a giddy woman, but it's only mildly entertaining. Mr. William appears as a lionized writer of popular fiction who becomes entangled with Julie, a former acquaintance, and her numerous relatives. Several of the situations call upon Mr. William to be comic, which he isn't. Miss Blondell is his secretary and mistress who finally rescues him from his own stupidity.

Settings, photography, etc., are as good as they need to be.

Cohan Takes Leading Role in O'Neill Play for Theater Guild

New York, Aug. 25.—[Special.]—George M. Cohan, whose name is practicaly a synonym for Broadway, is to appear as an actor in a play by Eugene O'Neill. The Theater Guild announced that the song writer, producer and playwright will have the leading rôle in "Ah, Wilderness." This play goes into rehearsal, under the direction of Philip Moeller, next week.

This is the first time save one when Mr. Cohan has acted in a vehicle not of his own writing, or at least collaboration. The lone exception was "Out There," a war benefit, and so one that could hardly be counted.

Tells Graduates at U. of C. Opportunity to Think Still Remains

The convocation address was made by Dr. Edwin O. Jordan, professor of bacteriology and a member of the faculty since the university was founded in 1892. Dr. Jordan told the students that they have great opportunities despite financial conditions, in developing independent thinking and in understanding the "adventure of life."

"Even in moments of intense national excitement," Dr. Jordan said, "the college graduate should be able to murmur to himself: 'Little man,

Subtle Lights, Shadows Exalt Plainest Girl

Heavy Lipstick Erases Contours of Mouth.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Here's something I learned from a photographer the other day. It's about mouth expression. And certainly if any one ought to know about bringing out the best points, a clever photographer should.

Mrs. Eola White, Chicago photographer, observes that women are dimming with lip paint the one little area that gives the mouth its real expression.

"Take any pair of lips," says Mrs. White, "and there will be some sort of Cupid's bow turn. Now, in the center of the upper lip there is a little white tip that gives the mouth its 'light' and softens the expression."

Not that Mrs. White is against lipstick use—except when she is photographing you. When this is being done she turns her expert knowledge of the use of lights and shadow to make the mouth more beautiful, she holds, than paint-smeared lips can ever be. This full and heavy mouth smearing, Mrs. White explains, is what gives so many of the movie girls' mouths that unintelligent, expressionless black screen blur.

Women, too, could learn more about lights and shadows to their profit. Daytimes, of course, they can't manage to arrange light and shadow to their best advantage, but smart women know how to highlight or lowlight themselves in their own homes. This lighting business has everything to do with expression, as you who read your movie-making articles well know. Garbo, Mrs. White observes, is always lighted with a very high light at the back of her head. This to overcome a large mouth and make those cheek bones of hers more interesting.

The light placed back of the head and up or to the side does quite fascinating things, especially with lifted brows. You might just try this on the boy friend one of these evenings. That is, if you can get him to sit home an evening.

And those hard marcel waves! Don't bring 'em around to Mrs. White's smart studio. What they do to a woman's beauty is just too bad. And don't over-dress if you would take a très chic picture, and want it to live a while.

And here's an optimistic note for those of us women who wish Nature had been more lavish. Mrs. White says you can take an almost homely woman and by lights and shadows give a pictorial illusion of great charm.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The inventors continue to be busy on trick gadgets to help you either keep or get a string bean streamline.

The newest is a reducer and exerciser combined in one . . . it looks like a combination of somebody's jumping rope with colored wooden handles and a pair of cast off stirrups. You anchor the thing under a convenient door and start pulling, and those who have faithfully tried it and stuck to the required daily stretching routine, report rather amazing results.

Bulging waistlines, ankles, hips, and any oversized sections of the anatomy magically vanish while you check and brag about the results.

After you have exercised and literally stretched inches off the offending bumps and curves you will be interested in buying some new foundation garments as a suitable and appropriate celebration. Look for the new colored lastex affairs, gorgeous things for the esthetic soul who insists upon underlayers that harmonize or smartly contrast with the outer clothes. You will find pale yellow, mauve, pale pink, sky blue, and a seafoam green color scheme to choose from.

All-togethers and the separate girdles are available in this good looking pastel colored stuff that has just been unpacked in time for new fall wardrobe collectors. Lastex is one of the most obliging modern fabric inventions. Your best fitting hats last year were of lastex and lastex gloves and waistcoats in bright colors were new this summer. And now some enterprising designer has presented the hit of the season, these colorful pastel tinted new all-togethers that stay so smoothly over the silhouette.

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written, private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, and an old friend of Redd's, helps the men from the district attorney's office in solving the crime. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important of the servants, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer. Bray calls the members of the household together for questioning. He has found, spread out on Cresap's desk, a new will, disinheriting Florence. As it is unsigned the old will stands. Cresap had disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe, who had arrived the day before, having driven east from his home in Ohio in response to an urgent wire from Florence. Thorpe can't be reached at the local hotel where he registered as George Thomas.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

A TIMELY ALARM.

Under Toledo date lines, in all the papers, were dispatches telling who and what young Thorpe was—a Notre Dame graduate and heretofore of excellent reputation and esteem; a quarter back on Notre Dame's 1928 team; the only son of highly respected parents in moderate circumstances; by profession an architect but, because of the depression, without any save intermittent employment during the past two years; and in each telegram, clanging like peals of a sinister bell, the apparently damning admissions that his people had had no word from him or of him since he motored away last Sunday, and that the Toledo police could offer no hint as to his whereabouts.

From his sick room, Councilor Bodkin had given out a guarded statement for the press in which he intimated that Uncas Cresap's estate might be larger than some prospective legatees had suspected. He named a predicated total which by its size rather startled me and spoke of valuable jewelry, a matter of which also I had been in ignorance.

The Chinaman and his death rated only a few brief paragraphs. So soon then does Wong Gee begin to fade out of this picture.

The stories, I decided, were decidedly well written and in the main not over written, although from the text such popular standbys of reportorial literature as "profound enigma" and "ruthlessly slain recluse" and "dipsomaniac millionaire," not to mention "unraveled skeins" and "sordid surmises" did keep popping out at me. The solitary sob sister—it appears that she's a tabloid luminary of many candlepower—in especial excelled at gulping forth such throbbing metaphors. It was she who, dealing inferentially with the submotif that an orientalized intrigue might lie in the background of it all, took the cryptic but impressively somber compound word "blood atonement" for a supplemental text to her thesis. But, like her masculine rivals, she bore down much harder upon the thinly cloaked intimations that in the missing Gregory Thorpe the key to the major mystery lay.

To me it is quite obvious that Bray largely shares with the writing tribe this opinion. Even so, he is not the one to discard any incidental presumptions while nosing out the stronger scents of more promising logic. For instance, I am bound to suspect his underlying object in making himself my guest at breakfast was to probe at first hand the utterance in my behalf that traveled by telephone to Motley last evening. Not that the worthy and buxom Mrs. Bevil needed probing. Out of her verbal spoutings he managed to extract this syllabus of concrete evidence. She had gone to bed about 9 o'clock Monday night, leaving some specimens in the room which by courtesy is called the "museum." It is where I keep on display my store of Indian handicraft. This room adjoins my study and flanks upon a sort of recess which is formed by the main structure of this one story cottage, joining at right angles to an "elbow" addition in which is, first, a diminutive pantry, then the kitchen, and finally Mrs. Bevil's sleeping room. All the rooms are on the same level so that the bedroom window is at the same height with the museum's one side window, and practically parallel with it.

Her alarm clock she had set to go off at 6 o'clock, which meant 6 a. m. But it went off sooner than that. When its clamor aroused her, she got up and, surprised that the room was so dark and the gloom still so thick outdoors, she went out in her nightgown and found the clock treacherously had rung at 11:10 instead of waiting, as any properly behaved and well regulated clock should, until its appointed hour for ringing.

"Just a bit, ma'am," he bade her when she had gone that far. "You say you went out to give the clock a look. Went out where?"

"To the little hall in the annex. That's where 'twas, setting on a shelf. I tried putting it in my room at first. But the dratted thing ticked so loud a body couldn't sleep."

"Was this the first time it had gone off ahead of time?"

"I sh'd say not! Lately it'd done so quite frequent. Seemed like something was wrong with the machinery. Only last week, 'twas, I got Abe Dorset, that's Mr. Redd's kennel man—I got Abe to tinker with it some but seemed like it wouldn't mend its ways none."

"I get you," said Bray. "Now go on from there, please."

So Mrs. Bevil went on from there and he got the crux of her testimony, which was that, having given the offending clock a good hard shake, she returned drowsily to her room but, happening to glance out of her window, saw in the opposite window a silhouette. The shade was drawn, she explained, but beyond and behind me was a grate fire and electric lights burning, and she made out my shadow where it was cast against the shade. There couldn't be any doubt about it—the reflection of my head and shoulders most plainly was outlined.

Except for emergencies, it was against orders to disturb me when I was at my desk. But if my thermos bottle needed replenishment, why that constituted an emergency. Accordingly, since she was up, it occurred to her she might find out, and so she took the liberty of coming and rapping at my door, which always was bolted against intrusions and when I answered, she asked me if I cared for hot coffee because she could brew it in a jiffy. But I called out, no, that I was not to be bothered. So she promptly went back to bed and to sleep. And so on and so forth, with repetitions and amplifications.

After that I took Bray on the rounds of my compact little domain. He manifested a cursory admiration for my library on criminology and pentology and crime fiction. That sort of thing was bound to appeal to him on his professional side. But such interest as he had for my American Indian collection was a feigned interest, as I could tell—totem poles, and coup sticks and war clubs so entirely were out of his line. Indeed, it was only a half hearted approval that he gave to the occupants of my dog runs, and for Patrick Percival Bray to fail to grow enthusiastic when being presented to mannerly and highly bred dogs was abundant proof of his absorption in other things. It was with almost a preoccupied air that he met Brian Boru— and Brian, mind you, a champion in his class—but he warmed to that enfeebled invalid Peggy Mavourneen the Second, lying in her kennel, too infirm to get upon her age shrunken legs but able to muster up for us a blinking of her filmy eyes and a spasmodic wag of her tail.

"I hate the thought of it," I told him, "but Abe and I have decided we'll have to put her out of the world. It'll be no more than a mercy. Her teeth are going, her sight is almost gone, she's deaf as a post and, as you see, this last week or so she has grown so weak she can hardly stand up."

"Sure you would hate it," he said. "It seems hard on good dogs, that are the most loyal and the most faithful and the most unselfish of all God's creatures, that they should wear out like this and then we have to shoot 'em or chloroform 'em and leave their bones to rot on some dump pile."

"It's a sentiment that does you credit," he said, and formally he bade Pegeen, as he called her, good-by.

"That won't happen to Peg after she's gone," I said. "Did you ever see, driving past, that cemetery for pets on Old Westbury road beyond Jericho?"

"Haven't I though—with the fancy little monuments and footstones and such like foolishments?"

"Well, I haven't gone so far as to buy any tombstones," I said. "But I do own a lot there. Two of my dogs are buried in it and when this old gal here cashes in her chips, or has them cashed in for her, she'll be put in a tight box and laid away where she'll rest in peace with other dogs that left friends and fine memories behind them."

BY MARY MEADE.

A vegetable with a most German accent is kohl-rabi. It makes you dream of old inns in the hinterland, light shining on scrubbed tables through quaint stained glass windows, stags' heads calmly surveying you, and tall steins foaming beside your elbow. For no food would there be placed before you with more of a flourish than kohl-rabi, loved vegetable of Germany.

You've never tasted it? Then here's for an introduction. A kohl-rabi tastes a bit like a cabbage—and has just a suggestion of turnip. And that taste leads you on and on. It is actually a cousin to the common cabbage, but has a turniplike knob or root that grows just above the ground. It's sold by the bunch and is best when young and small. There are about 4 medium kohl-rabi to a pound and these give about 2 cups of cooked, diced vegetable—enough to content four.

The kohl-rabi we enjoy here in Chicago may be home grown or it may have traveled to us from out of the state. It began arriving in June, and is still piled about to tempt those of us who have discovered how good it can be served up hot and buttered, creamed or lightly mashed. If your grocer isn't stocked now he can, and I believe he will be glad to get kohl-rabi for you.

But to land astraddle a recipe or three. As in the case of cabbage and turnips, kohl-rabis want to be cooked in quantities of water in an open kettle to give us the deliciously characteristic flavor, but not to bowl us over with it. First for

KOHL-RABI IN CREAM.

6 medium kohl-rabi
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup scalded milk
1 cup cooking water from kohl-rabi
Salt, pepper, nutmeg to taste
Minced parsley

Strip the small green leaves from the kohl-rabi and drop the leaves into boiling salted water. Let them cook for 4 minutes, then drain and chop fine. Meanwhile peel and thinly slice the kohl-rabi. Cook them in a large vessel of boiling salted water until tender—about 45 to 50 minutes. Drain. Simmer the butter and flour together, then add the milk and cooking water. Season and cook gently till smooth and thickened. Add this sauce to the chopped leaves and add the sliced kohl-rabi. Serve very hot, garnished with minced parsley.

If the vegetables are quite youthful and tender hearted, they may be peeled and cooked whole, then served up with a blanket of savory cream sauce and a sprinkling of grated cheese or parsley. Other kohl-rabi enthusiasts order theirs served without benefit of cream sauce, but with the accompanying tang of lemon juice and seasoning.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

CLASS DAY.

"Sometime ago I had an experience that may interest you fellows," Prof. Fordney said to his class. "A friend of mine, George Carlson, and I, while on an auto trip, drove into Dearborn. We were entirely unfamiliar with that part of the state. Driving down the main street we saw three men rush out of a bank, jump into an automobile, and speed down the street ahead of us.

"Stopping at the bank only long enough to learn there had been a holdup and the men had gotten away with about $20,000 and were headed for Jonesville, we set out after them and succeeded in keeping their car in sight until we had left the town about four miles behind. They had too much speed for us. We kept going until the road forked in four directions, where we found a sign post lying in the middle of the concrete road. Jumping out of the car we saw it bore directions to Jonesville, Rawley, Dearborn and Hastings. What to do!

"Carlson scratched his head and said, 'Hell! They certainly crossed us up by pulling up that sign post. We haven't a map, but my hunch is to take the left hand road.'

"'Just a moment, George,' I replied, 'and I'll know which one to take.'

"My friend looked at me in amazement.

"'How can you do that?'

"I then proceeded to prove my contention, and when I had done so he let out another expletive: 'Well, I'll be damned!'

"No—tire tracks didn't enter into it. Quickly now!

"HOW DID I KNOW THE ROAD TO JONESVILLE?"

Free Ice Fund Issues Appeal for More Gifts

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

With summertime temperatures likely to continue for several weeks, the free ice fund appeals to its loyal friends to come to its support. The contributions to this fund, one of the worthiest in the social welfare field, must continue for the sake of tiny babies whose chance at a healthy start in life depends upon the delivery of ice.

In many an impoverished home mothers are hoping the free ice service will not be discontinued because of a lack of funds. But on the face of the fund's grand total, only $1,664.78, there is every reason to believe that the fund will have hard sledding in order to meet the summer's expense of ice deliveries.

It doesn't take so very much money to keep a family on the ice roll. Contributors know when they give to the ice fund that they are helping entire families to maintain their health through the avoidance of spoiled milk and other food. The ice fund has saved the life of many a baby and made many a sick person comfortable.

$1.76—Susan Stern.
$1—Your friend and patron.
$0.25—Rose.
Total—7.01.
Previously acknowledged $1,657.77
Grand total $1,664.78

The Camp Algonquin fund, which sends mothers and children to the country for vacations of two weeks, received almost enough to send a child to the camp for two weeks. The contributors were:

$5—Anonymous.
$1—Tena Koerner, Anonymous.
Total—$7.
Previously acknowledged $1,873.42
Grand total $1,880.42

Contributions to both TRIBUNE funds should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Society Ready to Entertain Indian Ruler

their sister, Miss Abigail Vare, whose home is also in Philadelphia, will have a day or two at the Fair the coming week, as well as several days on the Exmoor links. Arriving with them yesterday was another golfing star, Miss June McCullough, who, after the women's amateur, is to make plans for her marriage in October at her parents' home in Elkins Park just outside of Philadelphia.

The first national women's tourney here in many a long day, it is enlisting the stars of the sport from far and near. Miss Enid Wilson of England, another Moraine guest, will tee off in one of the first foursomes. And so will Helen Hicks, who is the house guest of the Ernest Wands; Ada McKenzie, and Alexa Sterling Frasier. Two of the most interesting local attractions will be the games of Mrs. Charles Dennehy [the former Virginia Wilson] and Miss Jean Armstrong.

A number of the entries have chosen to be "right on the ground" and stay at the Exmoor club. Among them are Mrs. Melvin Jones and Mrs. John A. Wheeler, who has most of the arrangements for the tourney in charge. Miss Elizabeth Dunscombe is the attractive house guest of Miss Veronese Beatty at the home of her parents, the Ross J. Beattys, in Highland Park.

The entertainment bill starts off tonight with a formal dinner dance at the club. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. William Haerther of Lake Villa has invited all of the distinguished visitors out to her country estate for swimming and "early tea." There will be Exmoor dances next Thursday evening and the following Saturday night.

Miss Armstrong is debating two dates—next Thursday and next Friday—for a luncheon at her Winnetka home for several of the visitors whom she knows. Mrs. Dennehy is also thinking of a party some time the end of next week.

Entertain for Rugby Players.

The attractive young men standing about in front of the Medinah Michigan Avenue club yesterday wearing flannel trousers and brown and orange blazers were some of the 18 Englishmen of the rugby team of Oxford and Cambridge graduates called the Vandals, which has come to Chicago to show us football as it is played in England.

Last night the eight members who did not go to St. Louis to play against the Missouri team dined at the home of Miss Lillian Dudley and her parents, the Raymond C. Dudleys, on Lake Shore drive, and made their first acquaintances among the fair sex in Chicago. One of the most attractive girls they met was Miss Dudley's house guest, Miss Ruth Mitchell of Buffalo, who is tall and dark and striking.

Today these eight boys, Robin Strachan [pronounced Strawn], David Brown, M. S. Cummings, M. S. Sayers, Roy Leyland, Dick Brandram, J. O. Watson, and Allan Roy, are motoring out to Lake Forest to spend the week-end with Gaylord Donnelley. Miss Jean Schweppe is giving a dinner for them tonight at the Schweppe home in Lake Forest, afterwards taking her guests to Onwentsia to dance. Tomorrow Miss Jean Wilhelm, one of this season's debutantes, is giving a luncheon for them at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, in Lake Forest. P. M. S. Gedge, one of the members of the team, who was supposed to have been here this week-end, stopped off in Toronto with some cousins and will not arrive until Monday when the Vandals return from St. Louis.

Garland to Referee Tennis Matches.

Charles S. Garland, captain of America's 1927 Davis cup team, has been appointed by the United States Lawn Tennis association as official referee of the Australian-United States Davis cup team matches to be played at the Onwentsia club Sept. 12 and 13. Mr. Garland, a member of the club, is responsible for bringing the matches here. He is going east at the end of next week to attend the East-West matches being played at Orange, N. J., and to bring the American and Australian teams back to Chicago with him.

Tomorrow will be another day of polo, this time with two good games for the fans to choose between, one at Oak Brook and the other at Fort Sheridan. The Oak Brook game will be the final of the Inter-Circuit championship matches, with Fort Sheridan and the El Ranchito team, captained by Albert Blake Wharton Jr., playing. The El Ranchito team won the Southwest Circuit matches and the Fort Sheridan team won in the middle west.

At Fort Sheridan Capt. C. B. Cole, Maj. C. K. Rhinehart, Maj. C. C. Smith and Capt. Peter P. Rodes of another Fort Sheridan team are playing Herbert Lorber, Charles Glore Prentice Porter, and Richard Simmons of the Onwentsia team.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McNulty (Virginia Collins) are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter last Tuesday night at the Presbyterian hospital. They have decided to name the baby Lynn. The baby's grandparents are the William M. Collinses and the Thomas J. McNultys, and among other relatives she has one very attractive aunt, Miss Kathryn Collins, Mrs. McNulty's sister.

Show Miniature of Hope Leonard.

Hope Leonard herself isn't at White Sulphur Springs just now—she is having a lovely time in Lake Forest—but a beautiful miniature of her is there at the spa, hanging with a collection of miniatures done by Miss Clara Louise Bell of New York, in the art gallery of the Greenbrier. Miss Leonard and her elder sister, Fleury, are spending the summer with their father in Lake Forest, where they have taken their places definitely as two of the most attractive and popular young girls in that fashionable north shore town.

Fleury is to be a debutante of the coming season, but Hope's plans are indefinite. She isn't old enough to stay at home and take part in the gay social whirl, and she doesn't think she wants to return to Miss Walker's school at Simsbury, Conn., where she went last year. Fleury went to Miss Walker's, too, year before last.

The exhibition of miniatures lent by Kazork Demirdjian to the Rennaissance society are being kept on exhibition by the society until Aug. 30, when the exhibition rooms will be closed. The rooms will be reopened on Oct. 1, but Mrs. Martin Schutze, president of the society, does not know what interesting works will be on view then.

The Tuesday and Friday luncheons at the Art institute will be resumed the last week of September. During the early part of the summer Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick entertained twice each week in the institute for various visitors of note. Mrs. Schutze will have the responsibility of the lunches on Tuesday and Friday of the first week in October.

Junior Hadassah to Give Tea Today for Delegates

Preliminary to the three day, eleventh annual convention of the Junior Hadassah, opening at the Palmer House tomorrow, an informal tea will be given at the hotel this afternoon for the delegates who have already arrived in the city. Miss Sulasmith Schwartz of New York is president of the organization, which has never before held a convention in Chicago.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen has returned to Newport.

Mrs. Lewis Iselin and Mrs. Robert C. Pruyn have joined the colony at Virginia Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome N. Bonaparte have returned after passing the summer at the Atlantic Beach club.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The smartness of this dress lies in its simplicity. You'll find it easy to make, too. It emphasizes the feeling for height through the French bretelles that peek out over the shoulders. Plaits lend freedom and a graceful swing to the skirt. Black satin crêpe with white faille crêpe made the original dress.

The pattern, No. 2806, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Farley, who left Washington last night for Vermont, will join Mrs. Farley at Hyde Park to spend the week-end with President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. Farley has been in their summer home at Deal Beach, on the Jersey coast, for several months, with their children.

The assistant secretary of war and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Woodring, have returned from their wedding trip in Europe and are in their apartment at the Mayflower for a short stay. Mrs. Woodring is the former Miss Helen Coolidge, daughter of the senator from Massachusetts.

Avoid Too Many Rules and Fines for Children

Fewer Laws, the Better for Man and Boy.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Thinking about punishments as we were yesterday leads rather naturally, I think, to another subject: the practice of some parents of having a system of rules, fines, and small penalties.

I believe it is well to steer clear of them as much as possible. Rules, fines, penalties and rewards are like red tape—if you have too much of it you get all tangled up in it. It gets cumbersome. You lose the spirit of the thing in too much form. I don't think this is the best way to rear a family.

We do need routine in a family. Perhaps what makes it up might be called by the name of rules. If so let them be unwritten, but understood. And at that, as few as possible and really enforceable. Here is the sort of thing I don't believe in:

If a boy is late to meals I don't believe in making him go without his dessert. In the first place, dessert is part of a balanced meal. And if the thought of the dessert makes him come in early it is appealing to his appetite. I think consideration for his mother, or the family, or the maid is the right appeal.

I don't believe in fines, first, because they are arbitrary, and second, because they put things on a money basis that have not and should not be made to have any connection with money.

I don't believe in rewards, except in rare circumstances. Praise, the warmth of approval, the joy of doing or satisfaction in a job well done—these are infinitely better.

Legislators say of laws, "the fewer laws, the better." Some people naturally work in a methodical or cut and dried way; but on the whole, the same holds true in families as in states—the fewer rules, the better. And the fewer rules there are, the fewer there are to be broken.

Prize Winner Tells of Opera in 'Provinces'

Critic Sees Popularity for Harper Novel.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Fault of Angels," by Paul Horgan. [Harpers.]

PAUL HORGAN of Roswell, N. M., had a pretty nice thirtieth birthday present this year. It was not only a check for $7,500, the Harper prize novel award, but a literary career tied up in all of the available blue ribbons which was presented to him. The previous winners of the Harper award, Margaret Wilson, Anne Parrish, Glenway Wescott, and Julian Green, were "made" by the choice of their books as the Harper prize novels of their assorted years. Of the career of Robert Raynolds, whose "Brothers in the West" won the last prize before this, I know nothing except that the book was a poor one and its author much less gifted than the golden laurel might have led the public to believe, and a future for his pen does not seem to me to be one of the certainties of the extremely uncertain business of literature.

PAUL HORGAN.

Mr. Horgan seems to me to be standing with not at all reluctant feet where the brook and river meet, and his river sure to flood to the sea of gold. "The Fault of Angels" is the kind of book that the great public not only likes but buys. If Sinclair Lewis and Dorothy Canfield and Harry Hansen, the judges, chose it for its certainty of public appeal, they made a brilliant choice. If they chose it as the best work of art submitted by "an American citizen . . . who has not published a novel in book form more than ten years before the current contest" (that is before 1922), then there's no use our claiming that American literature is on the up and up. For to me (and I admit I am only a gal from the middle west, but I have seen so many books that I can spot a freckle even under the most skillful makeup), "The Fault of Angels" is no more a work of art than a guaranteed unbreakable packing case is a work of art. Pragmatically, yes. Actually, no.

What will make "The Fault of Angels" popular (and, mind you, it WILL be) is what the book is about, not how the author does his job. The book is merely a perfectly adequate, pragmatic packing case for unusual material.

What it is about is this: Mr. Horgan, a few years ago, went to the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester, where he studied voice, worked as a member of the production staff with the Rochester Opera company, and went to the rounds and rounds of parties that such a gala daily life entails. In the pigeonholes of his brain there must be material for hundreds of novels of life among the artists. Obviously from those pigeonholes he has extracted the material for "The Fault of Angels," and, when assembled, that material proves to be almost unique in American literature. We have had novels of the Metropolitan, novels of musical life burgeoning in Carnegie Hall. We have had tales of the theater in New York, on the road, and even in Chicago. But not before has there been a day by day record of what Sinclair Lewis calls "that extremely interesting and increasingly important phase of American life: the arts in a provincial city."

Material for something superb and unique was tucked away in the pigeonholes of that young man's memory. Out of it he has made an extremely interesting record and done a picture which has (one feels) the accuracy of a good camera, but that is all. All of the actions of his characters seem real, but the characters themselves not alive. They do typical things and they are types.

The heroine, the Russian wife of one of the conductors of the opera, is more like all of the beautiful Russian women we have ever known than she is like herself. . . . I mean that she seems like somebody out of a book. And the great heroines of fiction never do. THEY are more alive to us than the people we ride down in the bus with every morning or greet in the corner drug store with "Hello, Margaret." Even if every word of the lines about Nina is true to the last detail—and I do not say that it couldn' be—Nina, as a fictional character, remains fictional and not flesh and blood.

If it weren't winner of one of the two most highly coveted American novel prizes sponsoring "art" "The Fault of Angels" would reach its public, find its large audience, delight them, and not give us critical hay fever the way it has. But because it has been selected as the best of its breed, perhaps the best of the show, we have to get all sneezy with adjectives about it. Well, there are times when winning a prize merely turns out the thesaurus against one. But what are a few words of faint damning against the praise of golden laurel wreaths? "The Fault of Angels" isn't as good as it ought to be, but, on the other hand, it's infinitely better than any first novel needs to be.

Trotsky Sees Big Sales as Nazis Burn His Books

Leon Trotsky, author of "The History of the Russian Revolution (Simon & Schuster), writes hopefully from his exile in Istanbul: "You may be interested to know that my history of the revolution was burned by the Nazis in Germany. Do you not think that the Berlin flames are capable of warming up an interest in the book among American readers?"

Among the New Books

FICTION.

The Abiding of Ume, by Edith A. Sawyer [John Lowell Pratt], delves into the emotions of young Japanese with charm and penetration.

NONFICTION.

America Through Women's Eyes, edited by Mary R. Beard [Macmillan], contains selections of writings of women on national life beginning with the seventeenth century to the present hour.

Economic Cycles and Crises, by William C. Schluter [Sears], surveys the past of economics and foreshadows the future.

Behind These Walls, by James R. Winning [Macmillan], describes the author's ten years' experience in a prison, the inmates, and conditions.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Fanny Kemble, by Loeta S. Driver [University of North Carolina Press], interprets the life of this fascinating actress whose activities were the talk of two countries almost across the span of a century.

The Francis Preston Blair Family in Politics, in two volumes, by William E. Smith [Macmillan], examines the history of one of the powerful families in American history.

POETRY.

Modern American Poetry, Modern British Poetry, edited by Louis Untermeyer [Harcourt-Brace], combines two excellent critical anthologies.

British Lawyer Offers Another Book of Notes

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A year ago there was published in London a small but rich and enchanting book called "A Lawyer's Notebook." It contained the brief thoughts and comments of a man of great experience and original mind, and it had a preface by Alec Waugh which stimulated curiosity regarding the author in those who did not immediately know his identity. Curiosity is an aid to sales, and in this case curiosity was rewarded, because the book was a treasure.

In speaking of it and of its anonymity I said that the author had wished to put his name upon the title page, but that the publisher had shrewdly urged omission of the name. I was wrong. It was the author who insisted that the book should be anonymous. His insistence had led to a refusal upon the part of at least half a dozen London publishers to undertake the work of publication.

So the author, E. S. P. Haynes, should have the credit for the anonymity, and the publisher, Martin Secker, should have the credit for boldness in accepting the author's will. Now the same combination is responsible for a sequel, to be entitled "More from a Lawyer's Notebook."

Although Mr. Haynes thinks the new book may be less amusing than its predecessor, because he has for some time been in bad health, he is mistaken. It is as delightful as ever. It is as full of personality and wit [for Mr. Haynes is not only witty in himself but is the friend of contributory wits] and as full of pungent comment upon modern life.

"A Lawyer's Notebook" and "More from a Lawyer's Notebook" may sound dull titles. The books are very far from dullness. No man who can claim responsibility for Arnold Bennett's "slimming," who can quote a glorious letter from Bernard Shaw, who can describe a dinner of his own at which H. G. Wells, Hilaire Belloc, Horatio Bottomley, and two great lawyers were present and who is interested in everything, from Queen Victoria to snoring, could be dull.

This book ought to be as popular as its forerunner—the two are ideal bedside books, their only shortcoming in that connection being their stimulative quality, which may keep readers awake instead of causing them to nod.

The new number of "Piccadilly Notes," the catalogue published by Henry Sotheran, Ltd., is particularly interesting to American readers, owing to the fact that the installment of Mr. Stonehouse's book selling reminiscences describes his visit to America in 1905, when five passengers were washed overboard on the voyage and when Mr. Stonehouse sold to Mr. Bixby of St. Louis the letters written by Charles Dickens to Dora [Maria Beadnell].

The best seller among novels continues to be Miss Helen Waddell's "Peter Abelard." John Cowper Powys' "A Glastonbury Romance" continues to arouse controversy, and "Memoirs of Martha," the story of a cook's life told by herself, is everywhere commended.

* *

Adams' "Epic."

James Truslow Adams' "The Epic of America" [Little Brown], now in its 137 thousandth in America, has been translated into German under the title of "The Rise of America from the Land of the Indians to the World Realm." French and Danish-Norwegian editions are to follow shortly.

BRIEF REVIEWS

From "Juan in America," a delightful satire on American life, Eric Linklater has turned very soberly to the Vikings of the 9th century. "The Men of Ness" [Farrar & Rinehart] presents three generations of sturdy and ferocious warriors who live in the Islands of Orkney, off the northern coast of Scotland. They spend their time harrying the countries around them. They plunder Scotland, England, Norway, and other unknown lands near them. One son of the stalwart Ragnar, however, takes to farming the land and becomes prosperous that way. His sons go back to piracy and the sea, wander into England, where their uncle has gained wealth and power, and kill him to avenge a wrong done their mother.

ERIC LINKLATER.

The story has a magnificent and epic simplicity. The terrible sea journey of the two brothers and their brother-in-law, their experiences in gales, wind, rain, and snowstorms, their narrow escapes from water famine, starvation and mutiny make up a vivid and fascinating account of man's struggle with the elements.

The author's treatment of his theme deserves a word of praise. Except for a few instances when the idiom is so forced that the effect is ridiculous, Eric Linklater has artfully mastered the technique of simplicity.

MAC SMITH'S 68 LEADS WESTERN OPEN GOLF

MALONE LOSES, 8-7; WARNEKE IS VICTOR, 7-4

Bruins See Pennant Hopes Fading.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 25. — The aimless Phillies always can be depended on to give out bad news. They gave some to the third place Cubs today by handing the Chicagoans an 8 to 7 defeat in the first game of a double header. The Cubs countered by taking the second, 7 to 4, but it didn't help much for pennant purposes. The split moved the Cubs to eight games behind the leading Giants and left them facing an almost hopeless task. They can only tie the leaders now if they win 25 out of 35 games while the Giants are winning only 20 of their remaining 41 battles.

The Cubs supplied enough hitting to win both games but their work in the first game went to waste because of the misfortunes of Pat Malone, who failed to outlast Flint Rhem. Malone's start was a sad occurrence mainly because Bill Jurges let the wind blow a popup beyond his reach Pat never recovered from that and finally vanished in the fifth with seven runs and defeat No. 12 against his record. One of these was Chuck Klein's 24th homer of the year.

Put on Rally in Ninth.

Despite the depressing effect of the hits, fluky and otherwise, while Malone was in action, the Cubs didn't surrender without treating the enemy to a thrill. They made a sizzling rally after two were out in the ninth. Ki Cuyler cut loose with a homer after Koenig had singled. Two singles followed, one off Phil Collins, who dashed to the rescue of Rhem, but the show closed with the two men on bases.

The way in which they finished the first battle apparently gave the Chicagoans an idea when they resumed work. They hammered Snipe Hansen, once one of their pals, and eliminated him from the game before the finish of the third inning. This hitting against the lanky southpaw brought a dividend of seven runs. Everybody in the lineup except the pitcher contributed at least one hit while the attack was under way.

No. 14 for Warneke.

The seven runs proved more than ample for Lon Warneke, at least until the eighth, when the Phils shook him up with three runs. It was the season's 14th win for the Cub star.

FIRST GAME

Malone's unexpected upset in the first inning started with two out. Klein singled to center and stole second. Hurst walked. Davis hoisted a high fly to left but the wind carried the ball away from Stephenson for a bargain single. Klein scoring and Hurst reaching third. Malone was indignant about this and inadvertently plunked Schulmerich with a pitched ball, filling the bases. Then Warner boosted a high fly to Jurges, but the wind again intervened in the Phils' behalf. The ball fell for a single, Hurst and Davis scoring.

The Cubs retrieved two of these runs in their portion of the second. Stephenson opened with a single but was forced by Demaree. The latter ran home on Campbell's triple atop the scoreboard in right center. Grimm sent a fly to deep center and Campbell scored. Then Jurges singled, but the rally ended on Malone's pop.

The next outbreak was Klein's home run over the right field screen, making the count 4 to 2.

36,000 Watch Rodeo Open; GirlRiderHurt

Rodeo as a competitive sport was introduced to Chicago yesterday, when A Century of Progress' seventeen day tournament of roping, riding and bull dogging began before 36,000 persons. Twenty-one thousand saw the official opening at Soldiers' field yesterday afternoon and 15,000 attended the evening session.

Among the distinguished spectators were Gov. E. E. Kump of West Virginia, with Mrs. Kump and their four daughters. Miss Margaret Boyd, 17 year old Phoenix, Ariz., girl, who was elected Miss Arizona to represent the state at the Fair yesterday, was present at both sessions.

$50,000 in Prizes Offered.

The outstanding cowboys from Canada, Mexico and the United States, competing on invitation, will split up $50,000, the largest rodeo purse ever offered, and the entrance fees from each contestant, which are added to the fund subscribed by A Century of Progress and a group of Chicago sportsmen.

Only one accident marred the first day's competition. Miss Tad Lucas of Fort Worth, Tex., woman world champion trick and fancy rider, fell from her horse in her last appearance in the afternoon session and suffered a fracture of the left arm.

The wild cow milking, wild horse riding, and cowboys' relay race struck the most popular appeal yesterday. The relay race in particular excited the crowds. Four men competed in this event, in which the riders race

RHODES OBTAINS REVENGE; BOSTON BEATS SOX, 8 TO 1

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Red Sox yesterday had no difficulty in blistering the White Sox, 8 to 1, in Boston's 1933 farewell to Comiskey park. It was the second Boston victory of the seven game series and the eleventh in 18 played with the White Sox this season.

Gordon Rhodes, losing pitcher in the opening game of the series, by the same score with which he won yesterday, was the main man in the Boston offensive as well as in the pitching score. He singled with the bases full to drive in his team's second and third runs in the fourth inning and later scored the fifth Boston run in the same inning. In the sixth Rhodes wasted a single, but in the eighth some one reminded him that Boston would have to have another run for an exact reversal of the licking the Comiskeys gave him Tuesday, so he stepped up and drove a homer over the score board in left center.

Werber's a Hero, Too.

Runnerup to Rhodes on the Boston hero slate was Bill Werber, who drove Milt Gaston to the bathhouse with a triple which sent in two runs in the fourth. Then, just to show he hadn't been slowed down by the three base dash, he stole home while Haid was doing some beautiful but ill timed winding up.

The lone Chicago run was made in the seventh on a double by Hayes and a single by Swanson. The Sox made only seven hits, Al Simmons making two of the total.

It wasn't altogether Gaston's fault that the Red Sox pushed off with a run in the first inning. With one down, McManus popped one to short right center and it fell for a double when Hayes failed to make the catch after chasing Haas away. Cooke grounded out to Kress, but Johnson singled to center, McManus scoring. Simmons made a fine one-hand catch of Ferrell's drive to left center to end the threat.

Bad News for Milt.

After holding Boston hitless in the second and third innings, Gaston lost everything he had in the fourth. Johnson opened with a walk and then Ferrell flied to Simmons. Judge walked. Seeds supplied the second out with a tap to Hayes. Warstler drew the third pass of the inning, filling the bases. Rhodes singled to right center, Johnson and Judge scoring. Werber then tripled to the center field flag pole, Warstler and Rhodes trotting home. Haid relieved Gaston. Harold was very graceful in his windup, so graceful, in fact, that Werber decided to steal home the second time the young man went through his routine. Bill slid home plenty safe. McManus flied to Haas to end the sad inning.

Garden's New Leaders Plan NRA Code for Beak Busters

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Col. John Reed Fitzpatrick, the new president of the Madison Square Garden corporation [and there is a name that will have to be shrunk up to something like Col. Jack Fitz if he is to get along in pugilism] has undertaken to establish his own little NRA to restore prosperity to the prizefight industry. He plans to use public scorn as a weapon to break down the diffidence of prizefight managers who refuse to let their prizefighters fight.

First he will appeal to the managers' love of the grand old game of pugilism and put it up to them to accept matches for their bums regardless of any unfortunate consequences to the individual so that the consumer interest will be revived. If that fails and the colonel, new as he is to the prizefight business, is sufficiently acquainted to assume that it will fail, then the public will be frankly advised that this manager or that one is obstructing the new deal in pugilism. The customers will then be invited to point the finger of shame at the managers in question with an implied suggestion that the patrons boycott them.

How Can You Boycott 'Em If They Don't Fight?

It is hard to see how a boycott can injure a prize fight manager whose fighter isn't fighting anyway, but this is a great big scheme with a lot of angles to it, as they have been saying in Washington, and some of the particular details will have to be worked out as the plan goes along. Still, if a manager is withholding his bum from public appearances for fear that some other manager's bum will knock him out, it would appear to the naked eye that he would be immune to any boycott movement. The customers' refusal to buy any tickets to see a bum perform can have very little effect if the bum is not performing.

It is safe to assume that the first phase of the colonel's NRA plan will be passed through very quickly. It might as well be assumed that it is over and done with to begin with, because there never was a manager whose love of the grand old game was greater than his sense of caution. Therefore no matches are going to be made merely because some manager feels that he owes it to the ennobling sport to expose his bum to perils of competition which might cancel him out.

The Longer They Wait the More They Think They'll Get.

Of course a manager cannot make any money out of a bum if he does not let the bum perform before cash customers every so often, but the prizefight manager has a curious mentality and he does not think of it that way. He figures that the longer he does not let his bum perform the more money he will receive as his share when finally he does let the bum fight somebody.

Nowhere in the colonel's NRA plan have I seen any attempt to deal with the rivalries of the competing producers, however, and these rivalries just now seem to be just as much responsible for the inactivity of the bums as the bashfulness of the managers. This makes it doubly impossible to provoke any left and rights to the face and body between the tearing tigers, as Mr. Leo P. Flynn used to call them, and when a thing is doubly impossible it would seem to be unusually difficult, even under an NRA plan.

A Penny Saved Is Earned, Even If You Don't Get It.

In the first place, the managers of the more prominent of the lithe, lean, clean limbed body jobs refuse to do any business. They have good reasons for this policy. First, a bum who fights a worthy opponent might have the misfortune to be tagged on the beard, a risk which no prudent manager would wish to assume, even for the love of the grand old game. Second, if a bum fights he is in danger of making some money, and if he makes some money he might have to pay off a large percentage of it in taxes.

Taxes are a loss, and in order to avoid a loss the best policy is to avoid making any money. Thus, a bum who does not fight at all from one year's end to another may figure that he has saved himself large sums of tax money. A penny saved is a penny earned. So obviously a manager who shrewdly steers his boy through a fiscal year without any earnings whatever, by a trick of bookkeeping may figure that he has turned a pretty fair profit.

But even if the managers were so foolish as to agree to earn some money and thus expose themselves to the tax loss, it would be impossible to do any business when the Garden corporation owned the exclusive rights to one bum and Jack Dempsey or Tim Mara or the Chicago Stadium owned the rights to his worthy opponent.

Of Course, the Promoters Might Block the Plan.

The large promoters are not averse to earning some money, themselves, respectively, but they do not like to see one another make money. Consequently one firm will obtain the exclusive rights to Bum A, who is the foremost challenger for the junior-welterweight logical contendership, and another firm will establish a property interest in the bum who happens to be the acknowledged logical contender. Thus, even if bums A and B and their respective managers wish to fight for the good of the grand old game, even at the risk of making some money and incurring a tax, the promoters would prevent them from doing anything of the kind.

Things were simple when Mr. Flynn was one of the most active managers in the grand old game and the proprietor of the greatest herd of bums, numerically, ever assembled under one management. Mr. Flynn

REVIVE ELGIN'S ROAD RACE TODAY AFTER 13 YEARS

BY HAL FOUST.

The Elgin National road races, famous during the infancy of automobiles, will be run today for the first time since 1920. Forty-one sleek little machines, as potent as sticks of dynamite, manned with the sport's outstanding drivers, are ready for starters' bombs at 10 a. m. and at 2 p. m.

The morning sprint of 203 miles is for cars of the flivver type, with an engine displacement limitation of 231 cubic inches. Eleven Fords, stripped of fenders, running boards and windshields, and reinforced with extra shock absorbers if not special gears, are signed up for this event with two Chevrolets, a Dodge and a Plymouth.

Race Over 8¼ Mile Course.

The afternoon grind of 305 miles has an engine displacement limitation of 366 cubic inches, the same as at the Indianapolis speedway, and has attracted modified stock cars as well as expensive special jobs. The course is over the eight and a quarter miles, just west of Elgin, Ill., 38 miles from Chicago, where the reputations of Barney Oldfield, Ralph De Palma, and other automotive leaders were made. Eddie Rickenbacker, world war ace, was a mechanic in those days when the horse and buggy was still on the highways.

The race course, which was rolled and olled dirt in 1910 at the first big automobile event west of Long Island, today is concrete, bitumen and gravel surfaced, little better for high speed driving. The road winds through gentle hills, scenic for a leisurely Sunday tour but hazardous for competitive wheeling.

Expect Crowd of 40,000.

A crowd of 140,000 witnessed the first race 23 years ago when it was a spectacle to see a horseless carriage exceed the speed of a horse. They drove from Chicago to Elgin in buggies, wagons, and uncertain automobiles that were mired deep in mud in many places.

An attendance of 40,000 is predicted for today by the promoters, a group of Elgin business men headed by Fred W. Jencks. An automobile traveling at a high rate of speed no longer is a spectacle, but there are many who follow motor racing on the chance that they will witness an accident.

Five men were killed in the eleven years that the road races were held at Elgin. Today's drivers will be traveling in better cars but they will be going faster. Lou Moore, in a Studebaker Special yesterday, made a lap in five minutes and 41 seconds, as compared with a previous track record of 6 minutes and 11 seconds established by Ralph De Palma in 1920.

De Palma, white haired in his fifties, a veteran of a quarter of a century of driving, will drive in both

Helen Hicks' 77 Leads Practice Scores at Exmoor

Miss Helen Hicks of New York turned in another par breaking round yesterday in practice for the national women's golf championship tournament which will start Monday over the Exmoor Country club course. Miss Hicks, who shot a 75 over the par 79 layout Thursday, carded a 37 on the first round yesterday and a 40 on the second for a 77.

Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, the defending champion, came in with a 78, while Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., had a 79.

After the practice rounds yesterday afternoon tournament officials announced that they had accepted the belated entry of Miss Ada MacKenzie, Canadian champion. Miss MacKenzie and Miss Enid Wilson, three times holder of the English women's championship, will be the only foreign golfers in the tournament. Miss Wilson turned in a 39 on the first nine, but she did not finish the round.

Carding par 79's were Mrs. Leona Cheney, Los Angeles; Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, and Mrs. Larry Nelson, Dayton, O.

Miss Lucille Robinson, western champion, who is among the favorites to win the national championship, turned in an 83.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, four times American champion, appeared on the scene yesterday. She played nine holes, but did not turn in a card.

Pedley, Polo Star, Convicts Man on Extortion Charge

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Tried for the second time on charges of attempting to extort $500 from Eric Pedley, polo star, T. E. von Buelow, Alhambra, tonight was convicted in Superior court in a verdict declaring Von Buelow guilty on five counts of attempted extortion. This carries possible penalty of five to 25 years in prison. He will be sentenced Tuesday. Pedley asked aid last May in trapping an extortionist who had written a letter demanding $500 under threats of disfiguring one of the three Pedley children with acid.

ABE ESPINOSA'S 69 IS SECOND AT OLYMPIA FIELDS

Many Headliners Are Far Back.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

MacDonald Smith, the hard luck golfer who was born a mashie pitch from the links at Carnoustie, Scotland, 43 years ago, is out in front again, and once more the galleries are cheering for him to stay there. Yesterday Smith shot a 68, two under par on the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields, to take the lead at the end of the first eighteen holes of the thirty-third annual open tournament of the Western Golf association. His score tied the competitive course record set by Ed Dudley in the National Open in 1928.

Smith, one of the greatest place or show athletes in sport, has won all manner of titles, but not one of national importance. Even as a boy in 1910, when he tied his brother Alex and Johnny McDermott for the United States open championship, he couldn't quite make it, for he lost to Alex in the playoff. Since then, he has been in the running in practically every big time show in which he has played, and very often on the rim of victory, only to have somebody named Jones or Hagen or such snatch the prize from him.

Abe Espinosa Is Second.

Yesterday Smith, matched against a field of nearly 240 of the leading professionals and amateurs in the game, was hitting nearly every shot the way it should be hit. The veteran Scot, who is now engaged in manufacturing clubs in Nashville, Tenn., played some of the handsomest golf in a day that didn't offer golf of an especially handsome variety, as the majority of the field was considerably embarrassed on both courses.

One stroke back of Smith was Abe Espinosa of Cog-Hill, who held the western title in 1928. Abe was away early on the No. 1 course, and came home with a 69, three under par, to lead the field in that section of the tournament. Abe had a one stroke lead over Byron Nelson, young Texarkana, Tex., professional, who finished with 70. On the No. 4 course Smith had a four stroke lead on Joe Paletti, Chicago pro, who is competing unattached. Paletti appeared to have a 70, but had a tough break when he was penalized two strokes for taking a practice stroke within a club's length on his third shot to the 18th green.

Paletti drew a birdie on the first hole when he reached the green in two. He followed par from there to the 11th, where he scored another birdie by sinking a ten-footer. He needed three putts from thirteen feet to get down at the 14th. He hooked an iron shot into the gallery at the 18th and had to hang another two strokes on his card when he was penalized on his niblick effort to the green.

Aside from the four leaders, none in the field was able to break 73 on either course. Among the 73 shooters on No. 1 were Bob MacDonald of Chicago, Ben Hogan, unattached, and Ralph Guldahl of St. Louns, runner-up in the national open. Scores of 74 were turned in by Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, Tom Cooley of Owosso, Mich., and Jimmy Weager of Edgewater.

Play 18 Holes Today.

The tournament will continue with another eighteen holes today, those who played No. 1 yesterday being shifted to No. 4, and vice versa. The low 60 scorers and ties at the conclusion of today's round will play in tomorrow's final 36 holes, all of which will be played over the No. 4 course.

Smith sent his tee shot on the 1st hole into the rough, but pitched out

BRADLEY STABLE SCORES DOUBLE AT HAWTHORNE

Westrope Brings Bobsled, Benevolence Home.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Two of Col. Bradley's horses flashed past the winning post at Hawthorne yesterday and 8,500 fans cheered with all their lung power because their jockey idol, Westrope, was in the saddle on both.

Bradley's Benevolence, a daughter of Sir Gallahad III-Home Star, won the fourth race from a field of stylish 2 year olds. The victory came in a hair-lifting finish in which Benevolence got the decision by a head over Mumsie, which races for Mrs. M. Koerner, also of Kentucky.

Then along came Westrope on Bobsled to conquer his field easily in the Elk Grove purse, the best race on the program. It was over the mile and a sixteenth route.

Easy for Bobsled.

Bobsled, a son of Black Tony, racing in good easy stride all the way down the stretch, was going away and more than two lengths in front of Abraham Bartelstein's Lemon Hills, Yonkel, from the A. A. Baroni Nevada stable of racers, rushed into third place right at the finish. Unencumbered, Damascene, and Jim Dandy, far apart, brought up the rear guard.

Bradley narrowly missed scoring a triple victory. His 2 year old Boy Valet was much the best in the first race, yet he was away to a bad start, was forced to race on the outside all the way and then was beaten only two noses. He finished third.

The Bradley-Westrope combination caused most of the cheering at Hawthorne. Chicagoans are ever loyal to Bradley's colorbearers and they are particularly rabid rooters for Bradley when Westrope climbs into the saddle on one of the Bradley nags.

Backers Collect $8.10.

Benevolence, which previously had won for the Bradley backers at 15 to 1, paid $8.10 in the mutuels after she had scored her second victory. Mumsie was the favorite.

Bradley's Bobsled won very easily and everybody thought he would win just that way. As a result he was the odds on favorite, paying $3.54. Once Westrope set the son of Black Tony down coming along in the stretch, it wasn't even a contest.

It wasn't a very prosperous day for the favorite players. They got away to a bad start when the field horse, Hammel, won the first race to pay $119.78 in the mutuels. They didn't do much better in the second, when Bill Orange paid $14.30. Then along came Renewed at $12.42 to take down the third.

The daily double of Bill Orange and Renewed paid off at $87.24. J. Davis rode Bill Orange and Jockey Tipton was in the saddle on Renewed.

HAMMEL took command under strong urging but was steadied on the turn and, holding on gamely after just being headed, outfinished TWO SONS in final strides. Latter began to move up on stretch turn, slowly wore down the winner, but weakened and failed to last. BOY VALET, taken up at the start and far back until reaching final quarter, closed with a rush

BILL ORANGE began fast, raced wide while following the pace and, easily disposing of ALLENS, won thereafter. CHESNEY lost ground from an outer post position, moved up when entering stretch, but did not menace winner. ALLENS had speed, saved ground, and weakened in final drive, but outstayed SIR ANTHONY.

RENEWED, much the best and under strong restraint until reaching final three-eighths, took command quickly and, shaken up in stretch, maintained fine speed to end. LAMP BLACK began fast and had speed, could not withstand winner and, after bearing out badly when entering stretch, held on fairly well. MARTIE FLYNN lost ground throughout and weakened in closing eighth Winner trained by W. Hurley. Went to post at 3:34. At post 2¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

BENEVOLENCE, briskly shaken up when approaching the stretch, moved to the leader fast nearing final eighth and, getting to front, bore over badly, forcing back MUMSIE and preventing a much closer finish. MUMSIE had fine speed, surrendered the lead soon after reaching final eighth but was going well when forced back in final thirty yards and would have finished up. JESTING QUEEN had to lose ground on the turn and closed well in a good performance.

Winner trained by W. Hurley. Went to post at 4:01. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third same.

BOBSLED, much the best and rated along under snug restraint for three-quarters, easily wore down UNENCUMBERED and, continuing strong, was safe from LEMON HILLS. Latter, also under strong restraint for three-quarters, responded to mild pressure but did not threaten the winner. YONKEL, far back for five-eighths, made up ground slowly thereafter.

Winner trained by Jack Howard. Went to post at 4:26. Off at once. Start good from ridden out; second and third driving.

ISLAM, on inside for three-quarters, was swung to outside quickly when entering stretch, easily wore down the leaders when straightened up, and won drawing out. SAD KNIGHT raced wide the final half mile and weakened after moving up fast when approaching the closing eighth, but outstayed HILLSBOROUGH for a good distance back for three-quarters, saved ground when standing pressure gamely in stretch.

At post 5 minutes. Start bad from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

ST. NAZAIRE, away fast and rated along on the final backstretch, came away fast on the stretch turn and weakened in the late stages, but held TRIESTE safe. The latter, well up from the start, saved ground in the late stages and also weakened near the end. PING COATES away slowly and far back for three-quarters, raced wide while maneuvering up around thereafter.

Winner trained by C. Koerner. Went to post at 5:24. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

HOBNAIL, rated close to the pace, took command slowly on the stretch turn and, holding on with determination after being headed by SPARTAN LADY, outfinished the latter in the final stride. SPARTAN LADY, probably best and sharply impeded by CRAPSHOOTER when entering the back stretch, worked her way to the front gradually but faltered in the closing strides. UPON, far back for five-eighths, made up ground thereafter.

Indian Runner Tops Field in Schank Stake

The Field

THE field for the first running of the John C. Schank Memorial handicap for 3 year olds and up at six and a half furlongs, carrying $5,000 added money, arranged in order of post positions:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey—	Probable Odds.
Minton	106	L. Ruder	15-1
Polydorus	116	J. Lowry	6-1
Cathop	108	E. Pool	10-1
No More	112	E. Arcaro	10-1
Pilate	126	P. Walls	3-1
Rehoboth	101	J. Renick	30-1
Evergold	107	M. Lewis	15-1
Mr. Sponge	117	J. Judy	5-1
Indian Runner	126	A. Tipton	2-1

Nine of the best sprinters in the country were named for the John C. Schank Memorial handicap which is to be run at Hawthorne this afternoon. It is a $5,000 dash at 6½ furlongs. In the betting last night Indian Runner ruled as the favorite at 2 to 1.

The easterner Pilate was the second choice and it was rumored that so much money will roll into town today to be wagered on him that he will crowd Indian Runner for the post of favorite. Indian Runner and Pilate will carry top weight of 126 pounds.

Clockers reports that No More has worked better for the race than any other eligible. He is asked to pick up 117 pounds. Mr. Sponge in at 116 also had a lot of backers but it was agreed he could run much better over a muddy track.

Rain threatened to visit the Hawthorne course throughout the running of yesterday's program but it stayed away and last night there was no indication that there will be any change in track conditions.

Pilate is one of the crack sprinters of the east. In a recent overnight allowance race at Saratoga the entire field scratched out against him and a walkover resulted. Pilate is a 5 year old chestnut, son of Friar Rock out of Herodian, and was bred by W. R. Coe. Once his wind was touched, but an operation brought him back to the races better than ever. In two years under the Schuttinger colors he has won fifteen sprint races against the best in the east, including a stake victory in the Paumonok handicap at Jamaica this year.

Pete Walls, who came on from New York to ride Mr. Khayyam in the Hawthorne Gold cup, remained over to have a leg up on Pilate in today's stake.

HELEN JACOBS TO PLAY MRS. MOODY FOR TITLE TODAY

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Helen Jacobs and Helen Wills Moody, California's noted tennis players, will meet for the national women's singles tennis championship tomorrow. It will be their eighth meeting and Mrs. Moody will be seeking her eighth victory over her rival, who won the title last year, when Mrs. Moody did not play.

While Mrs. Moody sat in the stands and watched the match Miss Jacobs qualified to meet Mrs. Moody by defeating Dorothy Round of England in a three set match. The scores were 6-4, 5-7, 6-2. Mrs. Moody entered the finals by winning her semi-final match several days ago.

GIANTS DEFEAT PIRATES TWICE; LEAD BY 7 GAMES

Win Opener, 8-5, in 11th; Take Second, 6-2.

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—If the menace of Boston's onrushing Braves hangs over Bill Terry's Giants they failed to show it today as they swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates with a barrage of home runs in a double header, 8 to 5, and 6 to 2.

A crowd of 30,000 saw Terry win the first game in the eleventh inning with a homer high into the right field stands with two on, and Bud Parmelee hold the Pirates safe in the second while Johnny Vergez and Mel Ott hit homers behind him.

With the Braves idle, the Giants ran their own winning streak, interrupted by rain for the last four days, to seven straight and boosted their league leading margin to seven full games.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Coming from behind with a five run rally in the eighth, the Cleveland Indians today defeated the New York Yankees, 6 to 4, and dropped the fading champions to a point nine games behind the Senators, who triumphed over the Tigers. The defeat shoved the Yanks to the lowest station they have occupied this season.

Cubs Lose to Phillies, 8-7; Then Win, 7-4

fifth by losing control. He walked both Billy Herman and Koenig after two were out. Cuyler scored Herman with a single to center. Koenig crossed the plate and Cuyler took third on Stephenson's single to right center. That knotted the score at 4 all, but it didn't stay that way.

The home fifth opened with Klein's infield out, but trouble popped up when Hurst's fly fell just inside the left field line for two bases. He continued to third when Billy Herman booted the return throw. Davis walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Schulmerich doubled to right center, scoring Hurst and Davis. Malone was relieved by Herrmann. Warner grounded to Grimm and was out when Herrmann covered first base, but the latter was running so fast he couldn't turn and throw to keep Schulmerich from scoring from second.

Cubs Fall Short of Tie.

The Cubs took care of the action after this, but fell just short of their goal. They picked up a run in the eighth on singles by Stephenson and Campbell and Grimm's infield out. Then, after two were gone in the ninth, Koenig singled and Cuyler whacked his homer into the left field seats. Stevie followed with a single. Babe Herman batted for Demaree and singled off Collins, who had just relieved Rhem. But the tie run never got home because Campbell filed to Klein.

SECOND GAME

Billy Herman opened the game with a single to center and was forced by English. Cuyler flied out and the inning should have closed on Stephenson's grounder, but McLeod fumbled. Demaree doubled to right center, English scoring and Stephenson taking third. They scored on a single by Hartnett.

A double by Billy Herman and a single by English added another in the second, making the Cubs' lead 4 to 0.

Exit Mr. Hansen.

The demise of Hansen came in the third after three successive hits. Cuyler led off with a double to right center and scored on Stephenson's single. When Demaree beat out a bunt Hansen was yanked. Liska stepped in and his first contribution was a wild pitch which put Stephenson on third and Demaree on second. Stevie scored on Grimm's single and Demaree came home on a hit by Jurges.

Until falling heir to a run in the fifth the Phils had collected only two hits off Warneke. They scored, however, on one safe tap. McLeod beat out a grounder to English and McCurdy, batting for Liska, walked. A couple of force plays at second base let McLeod work around to the plate.

Herman Errs Again.

Billy Herman's second error of the game helped get Warneke into trouble in the eighth. Fullis led off with a scratch single and Bartell fanned. Klein was safe when Herman fumbled. Hurst scored both runners with a double past Stephenson. A single by Schulmerich moved Hurst to the plate.

TEN NOTRE DAME PLAYERS SIGN UP FOR BEARS GAME

Ten members of last year's Notre Dame football teams have been signed to play with the Notre Dame All-Stars who will play the Chicago Bears, National league champions, at Soldiers' field, Sept. 16.

The players on the All-Star roster are Jim Harris and Bill Pierce, guards; Joe Kurth, tackle; Paul Host and Ed Kosky, ends; Laurie Vejar and Charlie Murphy, quarters, and Mike Koken, Joe Sheeketski and Stubby Cronin, half backs.

The White Sox offensive in the first five innings consisted of successive singles by Dykes and Simmons in the first inning and a walk to Appling, which filled the bases to no purpose, and a single by Kress with two out in the fourth.

Another "Rally" Fails.

Haas opened the sixth with a single to center. Dykes flied to Seeds, then Simmons singled to right, Haas going to second on the hit and to third when Seeds juggled the ball. Appling fanned and Kress flied to Cooke.

The Chicago Sox got a run home in the seventh. Hayes opened with a double, went to third while Sullivan was rolling out to Judge, paused while Rhodes threw out Haid, and scored on Swanson's single to right. Haas flied to Cooke.

Rhodes opened the eighth with a home run into the left field stands, the first run of the afternoon to be scored before two were out. The next three batsmen supplied infield outs.

perfectly to earn his par 5. He ran down a 12 foot putt for a birdie on the 2d and did likewise on the 5th. He deuced the 6th by driving within 8 feet of the pin. He was over par for the first time at the 9th, where his approach was a trifle short, and he wound up with a 5. He followed par to the 13th, where he knocked down another deuce with a long putt. He missed a short one on the next green, however, to go one over, but matched the card the rest of the way home.

Espinosa had a well nigh perfect card on No. 4, going over only once when he underclubbed his second shot at the first hole. He sank ten footers for birdies at the 5th and 9th and dropped one in from 30 feet to earn his par at the 10th. A five footer at the 13th accounted for another birdie. He missed a 40 foot attempt for an eagle at the 18th by an inch after reaching the green in two and had to be content with his fourth birdie of the round.

Nelson got birdies on the 7th, 9th, 16th, and 18th, going over the card on only two holes, the 1st and 17th.

The 73 scorers on the No. 4 course included Massie Miller, 110 pound Noblesville, Ind., professional; Harry Cooper of Glen Oak; Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., western champion in 1931; Willie Goggin of Salada Beach, Cal., runner-up for the 1933 P. G. A. title; Gunnar Nelson of Rockford, Ill.; Denny Sullivan of Chicago Heights, and Al Huske of Elgin; Johnny Revolta af Menominee, Mich.; Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake, Guy Paulsen of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Jim Fogarty of St. Louis each had 74.

Among those who will have to go to work today to stay in the race for the title are Tommy Armour of Medinah, Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, and Chick Evans of Edgewater, 75; Mortie Dutra of Detroit, Mich., and Leo Diegel, 76; Jock Hutchison of Glen View, 78; Horton Smith of Oak Park and Johnny Fischer of the University of Michigan, 79.

DEATH TOLL UP TO 49 IN COAST STORM AREAS

Begin to Restore Order in Seaboard States.

While the property damage was mounting into the millions, the death toll increased from forty-two to forty-nine, according to an Associated Press tabulation.

Floods in various districts between upstate New York and North Carolina threatened to add to that total. Many places in the storm's path were still badly crippled.

Marooned Girls Safe.

All doubts as to the safety of about 150 girls who were marooned Thursday night at Camp Achvach, near Goddefroy, N. Y., eight miles from Port Jervis, were removed today with the receding of the Neversink river. The stream had overflowed and flooded the camp grounds. Fears for the safety of twelve persons aboard the motorship Solarina, which had been missing since Wednesday off the Carolinas, also were allayed. The Solarina, a 225 ton craft, put in at Norfolk, the Associated Press reported. It left Winyah Bay, S. C., Wednesday morning and had been scheduled to reach Southport, S. C., Thursday afternoon.

In the Eastwick section of southwest Philadelphia flood waters of the Schuylkill and Delaware rivers covered an area of ten square miles, at some points more than four feet deep.

Laurel, Del., was restored to communication with the rest of the state after authorities, to relieve the flood in Record's lake, that threatened to inundate the town, dynamited a dam on a nearby creek. The Red Cross subsequently abandoned plans to rush aid to the stricken area.

Death Toll by States.

The death toll by states stood: New York, 2; Delaware, 2; New Jersey, 10; Pennsylvania, 14; Maryland, 15, and Virginia, 11.

Thirty-two passengers on the stranded Chesapeake liner, City of Norfolk, aground in Pocomoke sound since Tuesday night, were transferred to the company's steamer City of Baltimore and later landed at Norfolk.

Six persons were killed when their automobile was hurled into the Susquehanna river by a Pennsylvania railroad special inspection train. The accident occurred near Columbia, Pa.

Six Die in Wreck.

Those who died in the wreck were: John Gilbert, 23; his wife, Harriet, 18; their five-month old son, John Jr., and Margaret Greenawalt, 18, all of Columbia, and Henrietta Hill, 21, and Dale Hewitt, 21, both of Morrisdale.

Two others who died of heart disease as an indirect result of the accident were William Meisenbach, 34, a world war veteran, and Thomas Hinkle, 75.

JOHN B. MURPHY HOSPITAL ADDS NEW X-RAY ROOM

The new X-ray department of the John B. Murphy hospital, which experts declare is one of the most modern in the country, will be dedicated with ceremonies next Monday. The equipment was installed by the General Electric X-ray corporation, which also built the modern X-ray machine in the general hospital at A Century of Progress.

Hospital officials said yesterday that more than $10,000 was spent for the new X-ray and floroscopic department. Each room is ventilated to insure maximum comfort for the patient. Through a combination of specially treated walls and indirect illumination a floroscopic examination a may be made in what apparently is a well lit room without impairing the floroscopic vision.

The department will be under the supervision of Dr. Warren W. Furey.

HURRICANE DIGS CANAL AND DOES GOOD JOB OF IT

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—This seaside city in which the hurricane damage bill will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars received one unexpected benefit. The hurricane cut an inlet from the ocean to Sinepuxent bay, the long, narrow body of water which separates this city from the mainland.

For many years the city has been fighting for an inlet costing approximately one million dollars. A bill was passed by the general assembly of Maryland in 1931 for the state to finance two-thirds of the cost of such a project up to $500,000 provided the federal government would finance the balance. The government did not take up the proposition.

The ocean did a good job. The inlet is 150 feet wide already and widening rapidly.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.

RAILROADS WANT $60,000 SALARY AS A MAXIMUM

Eastman Gives Regional Committee Report.

my judgment, is a much more effective one than is commonly supposed," he said, "is the joy of creative work well done, particularly when it in-Public recognition of eminence also plays its part."

The point was, the coördinator believed, that there were motives of a higher order "which will lead men to accept and seek the most responsible railroad positions, quite aside from the matter of salary," and he added, "they ought to be cultivated and not undervalued."

Although the depression forced salary reductions there are several railway presidents now drawing more than $60,000 a year.

Among the higher salaries of recent years, according to the latest interstate commerce commission report, some of which have been reduced since the report was issued, are the following:

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, Pennsylvania	$121,500
Daniel Willard, Baltimore & Ohio	120,000
L. F. Loree, Delaware & Hudson	90,000
L. A. Downs, Illinois Central	90,000
J. J. Bernet, Chesapeake & Ohio	90,000
J. J. Pelley, New York, New Haven & Hartford	90,000
Paul Shoup, Southern Pacific	90,000
Carl Gray, Union Pacific	90,000
F. E. Williamson, N. Y. Central	80,000

In the boom period preceding the depression the coördinator said many railroad salaries were advanced to an extent which was not necessary nor justified.

Public Distrust Aroused.

"The effect was to engender public distrust and to lower the prestige of the positions," he said. "They were given a money grasping aspect which impaired their proper recognition as quasi-public positions of dignity, eminence and service. What was done was characteristic of the times, and the railroads were neither the only nor the chief offenders."

When the depression set in, the coördinator continued, the salary situation was accentuated because of the contrast with suspended dividend payments, decrease in employment, railroads borrowing from the government and others going into receivership, and "a very unfavorable reaction throughout the country" was produced.

Under normal conditions, the coordinator holds, it is best to leave the fixing of salaries to the managements, "so long as the railroads are privately owned and operated." Public regulation, he said, could do certain things well, but control over details of management and operation "is not one of them."

CONRAD BRISTLE, 87, NORTH SIDE PIONEER, IS DEAD

Conrad Bristle, civil war veteran, died yesterday in his home at 810 George street. He was 87 years old.

Mr. Bristle came to Chicago in 1855 from Baden, Germany, and saw the north side develop from swamp and farm lands. At 17 he enlisted in the 134th Illinois infantry, later transferring to the 9th Illinois cavalry.

After the civil war Mr. Bristle and his brother operated an 80 acre celery farm between Foster and Bryn Mawr avenues, along old Evanston avenue, which is now Broadway. On the day of the start of the Chicago fire of 1871 he started downtown with a team to get a load of lumber. When he began to meet refugees, he drove farther into the danger zone, where he picked up loads of men and women and carried them to safety. Years later Mr. Bristle entered the real estate business.

Surviving are his widow, Christine; a son, Edward, and two daughters, Martha and Ella. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 3807 Lincoln avenue. A military funeral by the American Legion and Washington post, G. A. R., will be held in Rosehill.

CHICAGO FLYERS TELL OF CRASH IN WILDERNESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DAWSON CREEK, B. C., Aug. 25.—Four men, two of them Chicagoans, who took off from here Monday on an aerial scouting trip, returned early today, after traveling 200 miles by horse and motor car, and told the story of the crash of their plane in the wilderness, in which only one received a slight scratch.

The men are Capt. C. A. Simmons and Alton Seamans, Wyoming mining engineers; John Bonnell of Chicago, pilot, and Herman Hatfield of Chicago, mechanic. They said they were flying at an altitude of 7,000 feet with the engine working perfectly. They glided down with the engine idling to examine a spot for a landing field. The engine refused to take gas. The right wing caught the top of a 60 foot tree and crashed. Only Bonnell received a slight scratch.

[Late dispatches indicate that Paul Rossbach of Chicago, at first named as a passenger, did not go on the trip.]

Edwin R. Collins, Veteran Newspaper Man, Is Dead

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Ewdin R. Collins, 57, veteran newspaper executive, died at his home here today of a heart attack. Collins had been managing editor of the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express for many years and was editorial director of the Hearst evening newspapers in the Pacific coast division.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A Chicagoan who returned yesterday from Europe stated that a New York Times copyrighted dispatch concerning Cherbourg, which was printed in THE TRIBUNE was incorrect. He said transatlantic liners are not shunning the harbor by the French government, but are still forced to use the old fashioned tenders to land passengers and freight because the channel to the wharves has not yet been dredged. He added that the landing fee is $5, not $8 as stated in the dispatch, and that instead of American tourist fee paying most of the cost of the harbor improvement, it was just a pork barrel project.

J. BERLOVITZ, 68, BOARD OF TRADE VETERAN, IS DEAD

Julius Berlovitz, 68, member of the Chicago Board of Trade for many years and prominent as a grain and stock market operator on a large scale, died of heart disease at his home at Lafayette, Ind., yesterday.

Mr. Berlovitz was president of the Lafayette street railway, a bank director, and extensive live stock breeder. Coming from Memel, Germany, at the age of 13, he began his career as purchasing agent for the J. S. Kirk Soap company in Chicago in the '80s. He was an authority on grain and live stock market trends.

His widow and a daughter, Mrs. Bernard E. Pollak, New York City, survive. The funeral will be held Sunday morning at Lafayette.

WARRIOR BUTLER TALKS ON LOVE TO LEGION MEN

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The voice that roared a thousand battle commands, that has earned for its owner the title "Fighting Marine," turned from affairs military today to discourse on—of all things—love.

Maj. Gen. Smedley Darlington Butler, retired fiery commander of the United States marine corps, his crisp voice softened by gentleness, became philosophic on the kindred subjects of women and romance.

"Sweetness? Gentleness? No—courage!"—his voice took on the military edge and rang through the meeting like the "on to battle" or "fix bayonets" of the soldier.

"And what is it that man loves in woman?"

Here the gathering sat up with marked attention.

"The fact that man has somebody to talk to and somebody who will listen—somebody before whom he can show off. Other men won't stand for it."

4 WILLS FILED WITH CLERK OF PROBATE COURT

Four wills were filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin in the Probate court yesterday and were admitted to probate. The wills are those of:

BERNARD JAVRA, died June 23. Estate, $8,500, to widow, Petronela Javra, the executrix.

SARAH J. MAPES, died May 14. Estate, $300, to Violet C. Westenberg. Wilhelmine Tillie Westenberg is the executrix.

GEORGE B. NOVAK, died Feb. 22. Estate, $2,000, to widow, Martha E. Novak, the executrix.

ROCKFORD HOST TO LEGION TODAY; EXPECT 50,000

Gov. Horner Will Address Convention.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—To the tune of stirring martial airs played by 40 bands and drum corps and with bright banners of gold and blue mingling with the Stars and Stripes on every flag pole and store front in the business section, Rockford tomorrow will welcome 50,000 world war veterans and visitors for the Illinois department convention of the American Legion.

The convention will continue for four days.

Every Hotel Room Taken.

Every hotel room in the city has been reserved for the convention by visiting Legionnaires and members of the Legion auxiliary. Legionnaires from Chicago to Cairo are expected today by special trains, buses and automobiles.

Among the notables who will attend the convention will be National Legion Commander Louis Johnson, Gov. Henry Horner, Paul V. McNutt, governor of Indiana and former national Legion commander; United States Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William J. Dieterich, Hanford MacNider, past national Legion commander and former U. S. minister to Canada; and Frank O. Lowden, war time governor of Illinois.

Feature Parade Monday.

The convention will get under way tomorrow afternoon with a big comic parade of the Forty and Eight, play organization of the Legion. After the parade the Forty and Eight will hold a mass initiation at the Shrine temple. Church services, picnics, dinners, a memorial service for world war dead at Camp Grant in the afternoon and an address by Gov. Horner at Shrine temple at night will feature the Sunday program.

The mammoth convention parade, the feature event of the entire four days, will be held Monday afternoon. James P. Ringley, Chicago, state commander of the Legion, will preside at the convention sessions here.

REV. ROGALSKI OF CANADA DIES ON VISIT HERE

The Rev. Stanislaus Rogalski, 62 years old, a Roman Catholic priest of Kitchener, Ontario, was found dead in bed of heart disease yesterday in the rectory of St. Hedwig's church, 2226 North Hoyne avenue. He had arrived to visit A Century of Progress on Wednesday. Before going to Canada eighteen years ago he was a parish priest, first of St. Stanislaus church, and later of St. John's church in Chicago.

H. O. L. C. TO AID FARMERS; LEND ON 'HOMESTEAD'

Measure Tract from House to Highway.

BY AL CHASE.

Continued failure of the federal land bank system to meet the tremendous demand from farmers for refinancing their mortgages on anywhere near the scale predicted has resulted in the administration's newest finance relief body, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, being called in to render first aid to rural residents. Hundreds of disgruntled farmers, irritated over failure to get federal aid from the federal land bank, and hearing of the activities of the H. O. L. C., have turned to it for aid.

Yesterday a federal official admitted that Washington has granted the H. O. L. C. permission to make loans on a house situated on a farm. To bring the farmhouse into the field of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, primarily a lending body to the distressed urban home owner, the H. O. L. C. has been given orders not to act on the farm in its entirety.

Make Loan on Strip.

A strip of fifteen or twenty acres extending from the farm house to the nearest highway is surveyed and the loan can be made on that parcel as a "house" and not as a "farm." Thus one of Uncle Sam's lending agencies will relieve the embarrassment of another federal body and the farmer as well.

No one seems to know just how many farmers have applied to the federal land banks for aid, but it is admitted that it totals many thousands. So far, it was stated yesterday by an authority on farm matters, less than 500 farmers throughout the entire country have received federal mortgage aid.

The turn of the farmer to the H. O. L. C. for help in Illinois is the result of a statewide roar of protest from rural residents over their failure to get aid from the federal land banks, according to a well informed federal official.

Ignore Farmer, Help Banks.

A reason for this failure to extend help directly to the individual farmer, it is stated, is that the federal land banks are bending every energy to melt frozen assets in rural banks. It is hinted that when some of this has been accomplished the individual farmer will be cared for, if, in the meantime, he hasn't already secured his needed financial aid from the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Meanwhile, as in the case of the Federal Home Loan banks, the individual who applies to the federal land bank for aid is given a runaround which lands him where he started, a little madder but not much wiser.

One applicant for help in refinancing a farm mortgage on a property not far from Chicago wrote first to Washington. He was directed to apply to the Federal Land bank of St. Louis, and Ernest J. Bodman, agent of the land bank commissioner at St. Louis. This was done, and the party was promptly referred to another federal official in a nearby county.

Warned It's Hopeless.

This official frankly told the farmer that he was wasting his time and money in making an application, for the federal appraisals had priced the acres in that county so low that he wouldn't be able to secure enough to refinance his mortgage.

"Throughout Illinois the government appraisers have placed a value on lands so low that practically nothing can be done toward refinancing," said a federal official, who spoke freely but only with the understanding that his name would not be used. "Property that has sold as high as $600 an acre is now appraised below $200 an acre. Most of it is valued at from $75 to $100 an acre."

According to the Assistant Secretary of the federal farm loan bureau at Washington, the value of farm lands is computed on the basis of average farm prices from 1909 to 1914.

CHARGES CLOSED CLEVELAND BANK MISUSED ESTATE

Cleveland, O., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Charges that officers of the defunct Union Trust bank fraudulently handled $480,000 in an estate entrusted to them were made in a court hearing which ended today with appointment of the Central United National bank as executor of the million dollar Carrie Baldwin estate.

The charges of fraud were made by Attorney John Tetlow, counsel for beneficiaries, who protested against appointment of the Central United as successor executor. He charged that beneficiaries of the estate entrusted $480,000 in cash to the Union Trust bank for investment in government bonds.

Tetlow charged that when the bonds matured, the bank officers turned the money into general deposit, although they informed the heirs that the money still was invested in government bonds. As a result the greater part of the money was impounded when the bank closed.

Continental Can to Use Newspapers for Campaign

The Continental Can company announced yesterday that it will begin its first national advertising campaign early in September. Newspapers will be used. The amount of the appropriation was not disclosed.

Board of Trade Seats Sell at $10,000; Up $2,000

A Board of Trade membership sold yesterday at $10,000, an advance of $2,000 over the previous sale. The seats are held at $10,500, with $9,000 bid.

Grains Soar on Inflation, World Pact

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Inflation prospects became a major influence in the grain markets yesterday after an absence of some weeks, and with announcement that an agreement had been reached by the world's leading countries at the London wheat conference sent prices soaring.

December wheat at the extreme sold at 93⅛ cents, or 4½ cents above Thursday's finish, while December corn touched 57¼ cents, an overnight advance of nearly 3 cents. While profit taking caused recessions from the best figures, the undertone in all grains was distinctly firm, with the close at substantial gains.

All Grains Close Higher.

Wheat closed 2¾ to 3⅜ cents higher, with September 88½ to 88⅝ cents, December 92 to 92⅛ cents, and May 96⅝ to 96½ cents. Corn was up 1⅞ to 2¼ cents, with September 51⅜ to 51¼ cents and December 56½ to 56¾ cents. Oats gained 1 to 1¼ cents, with September 38½ cents and December 40⅞ to 41 cents.

Reports that several cargoes of Canadian rye had been bought recently to come to Chicago despite an import duty of 15 cents a bushel led to some profit taking in this grain. However, the close was 1½ to 1⅞ cents higher, September being 72¾ cents and December 78 to 78¼ cents. Barley was 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents higher, with December at 59⅛ cents.

Conference Report Market Factor.

All of the leading world's wheat markets were affected by the reaching of an agreement whereby exporting countries are expected to limit the amounts they wil ship this year and curtail production 15 per cent in 1934 and 1935. Liverpool closed 2⅛ to 2¼ cents higher, with short covering in evidence. Winnipeg was 1¼ to 1⅜ cents higher and reported sales of over 1,000,000 bushels of Manitobas for export.

As some traders believe if the proposed plans are put into effect to decrease the wheat acreage it will impart strength to the world's market and leave the latter in a position to be readily influenced by unfavorable crop reports, especially from the southern hemisphere.

Change over Wheat Contracts.

There was liberal changing under way between September wheat and corn and the distant futures, cash interests taking the former and selling December and May. The September-December wheat spread widened to around 3½ cents at the last against 3 cents on Thursday, while in corn it was around 5⅝ cents, against 5 cents the preceding day. The country took advantage of the upturn in corn futures to sell 151,000 bushels to arrive.

Houses with eastern connections were sellers of rye on the advances, presumably taking profits, as rye, which was selling at 23 cents under wheat around ten days ago, was around 13 cents under at one time yesterday.

REPORT AND DENY PRESTON HEADS RESERVE BANK

Howard P. Preston, deputy governor of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank, was reported on La Salle street yesterday to have been elected governor. The information was supposed to have come through a relative.

Eugene M. Stevens, chairman of the board and federal agent, denied the report, adding, "there isn't a word of truth in it." James B. MacDougal, governor of the bank, and Preston were out of town.

Rumors that a shakeup in the personnel of the bank was imminent have been common street gossip for months, but until yesterday failed to name an individual slated for promotion or elimination. Messages from Washington said Preston had been mentioned as the probable new governor, but that there was little likelihood of an election before the October meeting of the Chicago directors.

Preston was appointed Chicago agent of the Reconstruction Finance corporation about a year ago. He resigned that post late in March, shortly after the end of the bank moratorium, and was elected deputy governor of the reserve bank a few days later.

National Standard Votes Common Stock Dividends

Directors of the National Standard company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share and an adjustment dividend of 80 cents a share, both payable to stock of record Sept. 20. The adjustment dividend brings the payments for the fiscal year which closes Sept. 30 to $2 per share of stock.

U. S. Calls Halt as Bonus Pigs Flood Markets

Swamped with pigs at the principal live stock markets, the government had to call a temporary halt yesterday in its emergency plan to reduce pork surplus. Announcement was made by the agriculture administration that it would not pay further premiums on pigs sent to the originally authorized receiving points until next Tuesday. Apparently five smaller markets opened to bonus pigs yesterday were unaffected.

Purchases after Tuesday would be made only in "stated numbers," and after shippers had obtained permission to bring their pigs to market. Farrowing sows are not affected by the order, farm officials said, inasmuch as the ratio of smaller weight pigs to sows sent to market has been about 30 to 1.

Arrange for Permits.

Arrangements are being worked out for taking care of the pigs already en route to market. The machinery through which the shipping permits will be issued from now on will be announced shortly, administration officials said.

More than 300,000 pigs have been received at the six authorized receiving points since Wednesday. The unexpected heavy shipments have glutted the market and are seriously interfering with the regular hog trade.

The rate at which the influx of pigs has increased took the trade and the government by surprise. On Wednesday, the first day, 33,000 pigs were killed at the six authorized receiving points. The number jumped to 99,000 the next day and reached 165,000 yesterday.

Markets Swamped.

Some markets have never handled more than 25,000 to 35,000 head a day. They were swamped with 35,000 to 45,000 pigs in addition to the regular market supply.

After Tuesday it is expected that the government will pay the bonus on only a certain number of pige each day in order to insure more orderly marketing.

While the pig bonus is attracting unprecedented shipments the plan to kill off piggy sows is regarded as something of a fizzle. The moveme of these sows is little above the average for this period of the year.

NIAGARA, HUDSON EARNINGS CUT BY NEW U. S. TAX

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—The report of the Niagara Hudson Power corporation and subsidiaries for the second quarter of 1933 shows net income of $843,934, equal to 9.66 cents a share on 8,736,429 common shares, comparing with $1,847,281, or 21 cents a share, in the first quarter, and with $2,325,146, or 26.61 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1932.

The last report gives effect to the amount of the provision of $479,336 for estimated new federal capital stock taxes for the year ended on June 30, which began in July to accrue monthly. If this amount had not been deducted from the quarterly earnings the net income would have equaled 15 cents a share on the common stock.

Gasoline Prices Are Boosted Half Cent as Crude Oil Rises

Advances in retail gasoline prices were announced yesterday by two leading refiners. The increase follows the marking up of bid prices on crude oil by a number of important companies, which is attributed to the prospect of better output control when the oil industry code goes into effect.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced that prices of all grades of gas would be raised ½ cent a gallon, effective this morning. The Indiana company yesterday raised its bid price on crude oil 10 cents following the action of other companies. Standard Oil of New Jersey announced a ½ cent increase in the retail prices throughout its territory except Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Seubert Sees Oil Control.

"We are encouraged by the prospects for better control of crude production when the oil code becomes effective in the near future," Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard of Indiana, said. "We are hopeful that the situation in the wholesale and retail markets will permit the better price for crude to be earned."

Under Standard's new schedule medium grade gas will retail for 16.3 cents a gallon, with the third grade at 14.8 and premium gas at 18.3. The increase applies for both tank wagon and service station sales.

The general markup in crude oil posted bids came as something of a surprise in the trade. The move was begun Thursday night by subsidiaries of Standard of New Jersey operating in the southwestern states with a 10 cent increase.

Other Companies Follow.

The advance in prices was followed by other concerns yesterday. The Sinclair-Prairie Oil Marketing company, the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, the Texas corporation, and the Tidewater company met the advance of 10 cents a barrel. Barnsdall Refineries posted an increase of 15 cents. The Barnsdall schedule fixes the top price for Oklahoma and Kansas crude at 77 cents a barrel.

The Sun Oil company announced a 25 cent increase in the price of crude oil in Texas and Oklahoma, topping the 10 cent advance posted by a number of other companies. The new schedule called for 75 cent oil in east Texas.

WORKERS, WAGES SHOW INCREASES FOR JUNE-JULY

First Year to Year Gain Since 1929 Occurs.

In July, for the first time since 1929, both employment and pay rolls of industries in the Seventh federal reserve district exceeded those of the like month of the preceding year, according to statistics released yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

The number of wage earners last month increased about 8 per cent over that of July, 1932, and their earnings rose about 11 per cent. Furthermore, from June 15 to July 15, the number of wage earners was augmented in the entire district by 7.3 per cent, and pay rolls by 4.2 per cent. While the rise in pay rolls was less than that of any of the preceding months, the seasonal average of 1925-'32 shows a decline of 5 per cent.

Decline Is Customary.

The period is generally marked, according to the bank, by "curtailments, especially in pay rolls, due to extensive layoffs for repairs and inventories."

Among the ten groups of manufacturing industries, which together employ 537,785 wage earners and paid $10,851,000 in the week of July 15, three—metals, stone-clay-glass, and rubber products—expanded both employment and pay rolls from June 15 to July 15 by slightly more than 10 per cent.

Among the other industries advances in employment ranged from 2.2 per cent for textiles to 12.6 per cent for vehicles; and advances in pay rolls, from .6 per cent for chemicals to 12 per cent for textiles.

Manufacturing Shows Gain.

Manufacturing industries as a whole showed increases of 9.1 per cent in number of wage earners and 4.9 per cent cent in earnings.

In the four groups of nonmanufacturing classifications, employing 119,887 wage earners, paid $2,990,000 in the week of July 15. Coal mining recorded the largest gains, 3.1 per cent in employment and 3 per cent in pay rolls, from June 15 to July 15.

The production of slaughtering plants in the United States exceeded that of July, 1932, by 30½ per cent and the 1923-'32 seasonal average by 11 per cent, but was 9½ per cent less than in June, 1933. The value of sales billed to domestic and foreign customers totaled 14½ per cent more than that of July, 1932, and moreover showed a contra-seasonal gain of 7½ per cent over that of the preceding month.

The volume of employment in meat packing expanded 4½ per cent from June to July;

MORGAN DENIES HIS FIRM GAVE FUNDS TO HITLER

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 25.—J. P. Morgan has taken exceptions to statements published in a book on the Nazi régime, that his firm contributed $85,000 to Nazi funds. The book, "Hitler as Frankenstein," by Johannes Steel, a German who fled from his country when Adolf Hitler came into power, was published recently by a British firm. The book alleges that a number of international financiers and others, including Morgan, Henry Ford, Sir Henri Deterding, the late Ivar Kreuger, and the General Motors corporation, contributed lavishly to the Nazi coffers in return for favors to come when the party obtained power.

All traceable copies of the book are now being withdrawn and a slip inserted reading as follows:

"The publishers are informed by J. P. Morgan & Co. that this statement is without the slightest foundation in fact and that neither Mr. Morgan nor the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. nor any individual partner of the firm ever made any contribution to the Hitler or any other German organization."

Dollar Falls on New Signs of Inflation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—News of the federal reserve's intensified credit expansion campaign brought a heavy fall in the dollar in the foreign exchange market today. In terms of the gold franc the dollar dropped to 68.98 cents, against better than 72 cents on Thursday. At this price the United States monetary unit was within .58 of a cent of its record low of 68.4 cents, reached on July 19.

All foreign exchanges advanced against the dollar, but the gold standard exchanges were in heaviest demand and outstripped the gains showed by sterling.

Francs Near High Mark.

French francs rose 26¾ points to 5.70 cents, compared with their record high of 5.72¾ cents. Sterling, although it advanced 11½ cents to $4.66½, remained 20 cents below its record high of July 19. The closing price of the franc was 5.68 cents, which was a net gain of 24¾ points, and indicated a gold value of 68.98 cents for the dollar. Sterling closed up 10½ cents net at $4.65½.

Dutch guilders were 2.55 cents dearer on the day at 58.55 cents, belgas were 78 points higher at 20.20 cents, and Swiss francs 1.23 cents higher at 28.10 cents. The Canadian dollar gained ⅝ cent to a discount of 4⅝ per cent.

Bears Sell Dollar Abroad.

Volume of trading in foreign exchange increased and continental European bear speculation was active against both the dollar and sterling. Among the rumors which came out of Paris during the day was a report that the British exchange equalization fund was "broke" and that before long the attempt to peg sterling to the franc would be abandoned, leaving the British unit of money to follow the dollar along the path of depreciation.

After the prolonged period of comparative stability, broken since Tuesday by increasing signs of weakness in the dollar, yesterday's wide-open fall in dollar exchange was not unexpected. The news of the federal reserve's action, interpreted abroad as an inflationary step, gave the pretext for a bear raid.

TWO BOND ISSUES ARE DEFAULTED BY LOS ANGELES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25.—The harbor commission of the city of Los Angeles today made public announcement of inability to pay interest and principal charges on its bonds sold to private individuals. As result of the default the city council was notified by City Controller Myers that it would be necessary to raise the tax rate for the ensuing year.

The city's water and power board issued a similar notification today that it would not be able to meet $525,000 interest and principal charges on its bonds issued to pay off damages on the St. Francis dam disaster, in which millions in property and 450 lives were destroyed five years ago.

This default, together with the $1,781,000 red ink reported by the harbor board, will necessitate a city tax rate increase of about 20 per cent, officials said. The Los Angeles harbor never has operated at other than a deficit since it was created about thirty years ago, despite the pouring in of millions in federal funds.

PLAN WESTERN ELECTRIC SHOP WORKERS' GROUP

The Western Electric company yesterday announced a plan of employé representation to its shop workers. They will be given the opportunity of accepting or rejecting the plan in a secret ballot which will be taken shortly.

The plan provides that employés having a community of interest will be formed into groups, each group electing one or more representatives to serve with representatives appointed by the management on a joint committee. All shop workers will be eligible to vote. Ratio of representation will be not less than one representative for each 200 employés.

July Sales of Electric Refrigerators Set Record

New York, Aug 25.—(AP)—Household electric refrigerator sales in July broke all previous records for the month, the Edison Electric institute reported today. Sales totaled 128,217 units, compared with 28,785 in July, 1932, and 101,974 in the same month of 1931.

STOCKS MOUNT; CREDIT MOVE BY U. S. SPURS MART

All Groups Climb on Inflation Signs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—Disclosure of the federal reserve's new drive to pump credit into industry by big time open market securities purchases set off a lively buying movement on the stock exchange today.

Prices went hurtling forward 1 to 6 points or more, and operations broadened to the widest scale in more than a month. Brokers reported orders coming from all parts of the country.

Transactions involving blocks of 2,000 to 5,000 shares were frequent in the leading issues. The volume mounted to 3,328,410 shares, the biggest since the turbulent days of mid-July.

Traders Scent Inflation.

Expansion of the reserve's open market operations had been strongly rumored in Wall street banking circles for several days but the extent of the buying—rising from $10,000,000 to $35,000,000 in the week—evidently exceeded the fondest bull dreams.

Although Secretary of Treasury William H. Woodin gave out a statement at Hyde Park later in the day insisting that the administration was not considering currency inflation, the Street persisted in putting its own interpretation on the development and some of the most substantial buying of the day took place during the final hour of trading.

A weakening dollar, sharp price rises on the commodity and cotton exchanges, and trade review notations of advancing improvement in business conditions throughout the country helped traders to feel that the situation was all right.

Prices Rise from Start.

Opening prices were up 1 to 3 points in a long list of stocks and the improvement continued throughout the forenoon. After the turn of the day, profit taking developed on a sufficiently heavy scale to slow up the advance. However, just before the beginning of the final hour there was another outburst of activity and closing prices with few exceptions were around the best of the day.

Among the more notable mark ups were those of Allied Chemical and Air Reduction, which rose 6 points each; J. I. Case, which advanced 5⅞; Vulcan Detenning, 5¼; International Silver, 4½; Delaware and Hudson, 5¾; Atchison, 4⅝, and American Commercial Alcohol, 4 points. The biggest jump of all was taken by the high priced Homestake Mining, which soared 24 points to a new all-time high of 296⅛ only to ease in the last few minutes to 294.

Other Gold Shares Rise.

Alaska Juneau, McIntyre and other gold mining issues were in demand at better prices, due to talk of revaluing the gold content of the dollar and further favorable speculation on the possibility of establishing a gold market here.

Railroad shares were again prime favorites, with New York Central out in front. The carriers are turning in good earnings reports for July and indications are that carloadings figures will look up further in tomorrow's weekly statement.

The strength in wheat gave a fillip to the mail order shares, as well as those of the farm implement group. Sears-Roebuck rose nearly 2 points and Montgomery Ward advanced nearly half as much.

Liquor shares bubbled a bit in anticipation of a favorable vote in the Texas repeal election tomorrow.

CHICAGO HEEDS GAS CONCERNS' "AD" CAMPAIGN

The intensive advertising campaign by the three gas companies operating in the Chicago district resulted in the sales of 5,023 gas installations for homes in the five weeks it has been under way, according to an announcement yesterday.

The three companies have had 270 salesmen working during the sales drive. The salesmen work under 55 heating engineers who check the requirements of the homes. A little under half of the sales were made in Chicago proper and the others were divided between the companies operating in the suburbs.

Companies participating in the campaign were Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Public Service company of Northern Illinois, and the Western United Gas and Electric company.

Reserve Uses Credit Lever, Markets Rise

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Stocks and commodities went up yesterday and the dollar went down. Thus the inflation seesaw was working again and the clamorers for cheaper money were again mollified at least temporarily.

The market advance was attributed entirely to the disclosure that the federal reserve banks had speeded up their purchases of government bonds, an inflationary measure.

The federal reserve banks, which originally were set up to keep banking and politics separate, during the last eighteen months have been rapidly developed into an A-1 leverage on the market.

* *

In February, 1932, when the Hoover administration began trying to use reserve bank purchases of government bonds as a means of jacking up prices of stocks and commodities, the process wasn't truly labeled "inflation" because the country was still on the gold standard. Except for the setback at midyear, when severe bank troubles developed, it worked effectively, however. Prices advanced as the reserve banks added to their holdings.

This year, with the United States dollar off gold, the scheme works even more effectively, and it works two ways. As the reserve banks buy bonds not only do the markets go up, but the dollar goes down in terms of gold.

To date, however, no satisfactory means has been discovered of holding the gains when the reserve banks cease to apply the stimulus. And each setback in the markets brings an increased demand for more stimulus.

* *

Chicago's biggest industry, the live stock and packing business, is having a hectic time of it these days. Normal trading in hogs almost came to a standstill yesterday because of the arrival of tens of thousands of little pigs which the department of agriculture has summoned to slaughter to bring prosperity to their owners.

The government had ordered that the piglets be painted, but no one seemed to know where the paint or brushes were to come from. The smaller pigs ran from pen to pen. Many were animals that were not qualified by weight to come under the provisions of the relief plan.

More serious, however, was the effect on the regular markets. Some buyers, overburdened with work on the government plan, withdrew from the regular market and refused to do their normal buying. Prices slumped.

"Conditions could not be worse than they are today from the seller's standpoint," one expert remarked.

* *

Reports from the south indicate that the cotton relief plan has developed some of the weaknesses of the old cotton stabilization scheme.

Instead of decreasing cotton production, according to mortgage experts in Chicago who deal in liens on cotton plantations, the department of agriculture's scheme of plowing under part of the planted acreage actually is stimulating production.

"The trouble with the plan," says one of these men, "is that when the cotton planter plows under part of his crop he has more time to cultivate the remaining acreage more intensively.

"The weakest spot in the whole program, however, is the assumption that one acre is just like another and that each produces just as much cotton as every other acre. Being merely a human being, the cotton planter plows up the land that wouldn't yield much anyway and devotes all his time to the best producing acres."

* *

There is a growing demand in financial circles and among stockholders for a uniform system of reporting passenger business on air lines.

Railroads report "passenger miles," the unit of measure being the transportation of one passenger one mile. Air lines, however, merely report the number of passengers without indicating length of haul. On some lines a passenger becomes several passengers if he takes a long trip. He becomes a new fare at each division point on the line.

UNION PACIFIC REPAIR SHOPS TO EXPAND WORK

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Union Pacific railroad will step up its locomotive and car repair work Sept. 1 by increasing the working hours of 2,019 shopmen.

The shops will be placed on a working program of 160 hours per month, increasing the pay roll and material costs by $100,000 a month. Shops affected are at Omaha, Valley, Columbus, Grand Island, Kearney, and Sidney, Neb.; Rawlins and Cheyenne, Wyo.; Denver, Colo.; Ellis, Kas.; Pocatello, Idaho, and Los Angeles.

Trade Ends Spurts and Holds to Steady Pace, Review Reports

New York, Aug. 25.—Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in their weekly trade review, said that, while the peaks of June and July are becoming more infrequent, resistance on the part of consumers to higher prices is yet to be discerned in a slackened rate of retail demand.

The agency asserted that "distributive totals continue to mount, and it is the exception when a report from even one of the small centers does not reveal the attainment of a better level than at this time a year ago."

Buying Wave Swells.

"Progress in all parts of the country," continued the review, "including some of the most harassed farm districts, reflects the farreaching benefits of the sustained buying movement, which is gaining velocity with each passing week.

"The belated summer recession is most pronounced in the industrial division, as wholesale trade has been maintained at a somewhat higher level than a week ago, and for retail sales further increases have been recorded. Due to the extremely poor showing last year at this period because of the restricted purchasing power and the mounting numbers of unemployed, retail sales are running from 5 to as high as 60 per cent above the comparative totals of August, 1932.

Inventories Not Heavy.

"It appears that the bugaboo of sharply built-up inventories, which has caused so much discussion, has turned out to be a phantom, as merchandise has been moving uninterruptedly into consumer channels.

"Retailers now find that their stocks will be inadequate to satisfy demand of any extended proportions when fall buying will have assumed its full stride, and are being confronted with the growing difficulty of obtaining immediate shipment of merchandise for which orders are on file."

RESERVE BOARD TO BE CZAR IN U. S. BOND DEALS

Will Direct Trading of Federal Banks.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Principles governing the purchasing or selling of securities by the newly created open market committee of the federal reserve system were published today by the federal reserve board. They provide that the time, character and volume of all purchases and sales in the open market by federal reserve banks shall be governed with a view to accomodating commerce and business and with regard to their bearing upon the general credit situation of the country.

The committee, created by the banking act of 1933, consists of one member from each federal reserve district selected annually by the board of directors of the federal reserve bank. It is required by the new rules and regulations to meet in Washington at least four times a year and oftener if necessary.

Committee to Fix Policy.

The rules decree that it is the function of the committee to consider needs of commerce and industry and the general credit situation of the country, and to formulate and submit to the board in writing recommendations concerning the open market policy of the system. The board may adopt or disprove the recommendations, which are effective only when and to the extent approved by the board. Any policy adopted may be revoked at any time.

If any federal reserve bank decides not to participate in the recommendations approved by the board, it must notify the chairman of the committee in writing within thirty days, and if it does not do so is deemed to have agreed to carry out the policy and must coöperate in carrying it out.

Committee to Buy and Sell.

An executive committee is authorized to execute the sales and purchases of government securities and other obligations in the open market, and is composed of five members. It is empowered to allocate among participating federal reserve banks securities and other obligations held for their account and to adjust such allocations to enable each federal reserve bank to maintain a suitable reserve position, equalizing as far as possible the net earning position of each of the banks.

A bank is authorized to make individual purchases in emergencies and, with special consent, to purchase and sell governemnt securities for its own account. The board reserves the right to require the sale of any government securities purchased.

The banks are permitted to engage in the purchase and sale of securities other than government securities, but such transactions must be reported daily.

Limits Bank Branches.

The federal reserve board in another ruling published today held that under the banking act of 1933 a state bany having capital stock of less than $500,000 and located in a state having a population of more than 1,000,000 cannot become a member of the federal reserve system and continue to operate outside its home city a station for receiving deposits and cashing checks.

A state bank or trust company organized prior to the date of approval of the banking act last June 16 and situated in a place with a population of not more than 3,000 and having a capital stock of not less than $25,000 is eligible for admission to membership in the reserve system. If the capital were less than $25,000 on June 16, the bank is eligible if the capital is increased to that amount prior to admission to membership.

Rules on Collateral Loans.

On the section of the law prohibiting excessive loans on stock collateral by member banks after a warning by the federal reserve bank of the district, the board held that a member bank which has obtained advances from the federal reserve bank is not required to refrain from making further loans secured by collateral or to dealers in securities until an official warning is given by the federal reserve bank.

The board held that where investments made by a member bank in the capital stock of its affiliates, prior to June 16, 1933, exceed the limits prescribed by the law, the member bank may not lawfully make loans to the affiliates while it holds such investments. The law requires that in such cases the loans on the obligations of the affiliates must not exceed 10 per cent of the capital stock and surplus of the member bank for one affiliate or 20 per cent for all affiliates.

Must Report Foreign Relations.

The board also issued regulations requiring the federal reserve banks to submit formally at once full information concerning all existing relationships and transactions heretofore entered into with foreign banks or bankers.

The new rules promulgated under the 1933 banking act prohibit officers or other representatives of any federal reserve bank from conducting negotiations of any kind with officers or representatives of foreign banks or bankers, except those pursuant to agreements previously approved by the board.

The board reserved the right to have its own agents present at any discussions or transactions it authorized and required that a full written report of such transactions and agreements be submitted in writing.

General Electric Declares Usual Quarterly Dividends

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Directors of the General Electric company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents on the common stock and the usual quarterly disbursement of 15 cents on the special stock, both payable Oct. 25 to stock of record Sept. 29.

New York, Aug. 25.—After an irregular start bonds today followed the example of stocks and commodities to reach higher levels in more active business.

The usual favorites among second grade and speculative issues were the center of attraction in a market marked by a lively buying interest which pushed prices ahead from 1 to 3 points.

Rails Are Prominent.

Active demand and stiffening prices developed for such issues as Allegheny corporation 5s of 1950, American and Foreign Power 5s, Chesapeake corporation 5s, Milwaukee adjustments, Erie refunding 5s, International Telephone, Nickel Plate bonds, and United States Rubber 5s. Rio Grande Western first 4s were freely offered and declined sharply.

An unusually large volume of trading occurred in Santa Fé general 4s. At the start they sold at their old high for the year, but later they yielded fractionally on an influx of selling orders at a time when only the normal demand existed.

Federal Issues Strong.

Reflecting the favorable reception of news that the federal reserve system has stepped up its open market operations, United States government bonds displayed well distributed strength. Treasury 3¼s attained a new high in active trading.

Gaining more than a point at one time, British 5½s paced the foreign section into higher ground.

National Life.

Investors Guide: I should appreciate greatly your sending me information regarding National Life company.—Miss R. E. E.

Answer: National Life company, Des Moines, was originally established in Iowa in 1899 as a mutual assessment life association. On Feb. 4, 1929, it reëstablished itself as a mutual legal reserve life company, changing its name from National Life association to its present title.

One effect of the change, which was expected, was an increased lapse ratio. Insurance in force at the close of 1932 totaled $65,811,000, against $74,075,000 the year before and $92,795,000 at the close of 1928.

Income in 1932 was $1,727,000 and disbursements $1,473,000. In 1931 income amounted to $2,004,000 and disbursements $1,657,000.

Net life reserve on Dec. 31, 1932, was $1,938,000. Other liabilities, including $3,487,000 balance of assessment funds and a $337,000 reserve set up for contingencies, aggregated $4,171,000.

Admitted assets amounted to $6,579,000. Real estate, 7 per cent of assets, totaled $418,000 and compared with $169,000 the year before; mortgage loans were 77 per cent; policy loans and premiums notes, 1 per cent; bonds [market value], 7 per cent, and cash, 2 per cent.

The company earned a return of 3.4 per cent on assets in 1932, against 4.7 per cent in 1931 and 4.9 per cent in 1930.

Sioux City Gas and Electric.

Answer: Sioux City Gas and Electric company is a subsidiary of American Electric Power corporation. It supplies gas and electricity to Sioux City, Ia., serving a population of 79,000. It supplies all electrical requirements of the local street railway system and sells energy at wholesale for distribution in Nebraska and South Dakota.

Gross revenues for 1932 totaled $3,037,000, against $3,373,000 for 1931 and $3,399,000 for 1930. Fixed charges were covered 2.38 times in 1932, 2.97 times in 1931; 2.88 times in 1930 and 3.04 times in 1929.

Current assets at the close of 1932 were $1,058,000 and current liabilities were $731,000.

Although earnings cover fixed charges by a satisfactory margin and current position is not unfavorable, the company's 25 year franchise, the longest permitted under Iowa laws, expires in 1947, about two and a half years before the maturity of the issue.

The bonds are a business man's investment.

21 NATIONS SIGN PACT TO REDUCE WHEAT OUTPUT

1934-'35 and the quantity of new wheat from the 1934 crop available for export will be shared between Canada and the United States as a supplementary export allocation with a view to proportionate reduction of their respective carry overs."

Article 3, which covers four of Europe's exporting nations, says:

"The governments of Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia agree that their combined exports of wheat during the crop year of Aug. 1, 1933, to July 31, 1934, will not exceed 50,000,000 bushels. This undertaking will be made on the understanding that the aggregate may be increased to the maximum of 54,000,000 bushels if the Danubian countries find such a supplementary quota is required for the movement of the exportable surplus of the 1933 crop."

Russia to Limit Exports.

Under article 4 these four European nations "further agree that their combined exports of wheat during the crop year of 1934-'35 will not exceed a total of 50,000,000 bushels, and recognize that the acceptance of this export allocation will not allow of any extension of the acreage sown to wheat."

Article 5, which states that Russia's split of the world market will be determined after further negotiation with the big four, says:

"The U. S. S. R. [soviet Russia], while unable to give any undertaking with regard to the production of wheat, agree to limit their exports for the crop year of 1933-'34 to a figure which will be arrived at upon the completion of negotiations with the governments of the overseas wheat exporting countries. They also agree that the question of their export wheat during the crop year of 1934-'35 shall be subject to further negotiations with the wheat exporting countries represented upon the advisory committee."

Swiss Insert a Joker.

There was a big scramble in the conference this morning when the delegations abandoned a host of reservations. The climb on the bandwagon was led by the French when their gold price was named. The Canadian premier, Richard B. Bennett, asserted that this was not low enough to suit the exporters, but that they were willing to accept for the sake of agreement.

There was no other serious hitch except that which was raised by Dr. Ernst Laur of Switzerland, who submitted and had accepted an amendment to the original draft submitted by the big four. The amendment amounts to a real joker in the agreement, for it asserts that although the importers enter fully into the spirit of the text, they are naturally bound by home conditions which they must consider before they lower tariffs.

There is nothing in the agreement, which is termed the "final act of the conference of wheat exporting and importing countries" that stipulates when action to reduce tariffs must be taken. It only declares that the "prosperity price" must be maintained for four months before the importers can be called on to cut duties. This is left in the hands of a committee set up by the conference which will meet in London on Sept. 18. This committee will be able to convene at any time it likes thereafter and will act as a toothless watchdog over observance of the pact.

Speculators Are Skeptical.

Grain speculators in London tonight said the agreement was a "flash in the pan." They predicted a sudden speculative rise in prices. But, they maintained, "only an act of God" could bring the agreement into operation and, they said, this act could be nothing less than a world-wide crop failure.

At the price of cheap French and German wheat of poor grades offered in London today the world quotation will have to climb nearly 50 per cent, these operators say, before the agreement can become operative. There is a wide margin between the low quality continental wheats and the best North American hard grain, but these brokers maintained that there will have to be a considerable diminishment in the world supplies before the effect is apparent on the market.

The market here is inclined to discount the effects of the American governmental marketing in the orient, and it maintains that both the Russian and the Balkan crops are overestimated, for neither has appeared with important offerings yet.

U. S. ENVOY TELLS HOPES

BY FREDERICK E. MURPHY,
American Wheat Delegate and Publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The international wheat agreement which we have just reached gives to the American farmer, and indeed to the world's farmer, the boon of "dollar wheat" which has always spelled prosperity.

In providing for the rehabilitation of the sorely pressed agriculturalist, we feel certain we have made the greatest single move which could be achieved for the restoration of world prosperity. I will go further and say that without this agreement no other combination of events could restore universal prosperity.

Now that we have achieved our pact it is possible to say that the road we traveled has not been easy and there have been many heart burnings among the negotiators. I will be still more indiscreet and give my secret: There have been several occasions, two of them within the last few days, on which the negotiations all but collapsed. However, the knowledge that the welfare of all peoples of the world was dependent upon our decision kept us together.

And here I should like to take the opportunity of paying tribute to the fine spirit of give and take which has been maintained by the negotiators throughout these trying weeks. There has been self-sacrifice and there has been real statesmanship.

WATER AND RAIL CARRIERS PLAN PEACE MEETING

Seek Pacts to End Ruinous Competition.

A step toward reconciling water carriers and railroads which have been in bitter competition was taken yesterday in a meeting at the Palmer house. It was attended by representatives of the coastal, great lakes, and Mississippi river barge line operators.

The development since the world war of the waterway freight traffic has led to severe losses to the railroads and has caused a rate war between the rail and the waterway carriers. Recently the waterway carriers sought a coördination agreement and asked the aid of Federal Rail Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman.

The coördinator directed the railroad and the waterway operators to hold a conference, over which he will preside. Rates, territory and other factors which now cause clashes are to be adjusted.

Rail Delegates Chosen.

It became known at yesterday's meeting that the railroad operators have chosen their representatives for the meeting before the coördinator. They are I. J. Eysmans of the Pennsylvania railroad; Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific railroad, and A. R. Smith of the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

At the meeting here observers from all water carriers in the country were informed of the progress of the reconciliation plan and departed last evening to their regional groups to choose representatives for the meeting before Coördinator Eastman.

After they are chosen the representatives, in another meeting to be held here on Sept. 1, will work out the broad principles which will govern future agreements. Yesterday only the most general terms were used by the water operators and there was no discussion of rates or territorial problems.

Want to Buy Water Lines.

The rail carriers, the observers were informed yesterday, are making efforts to obtain legislation which will allow them to purchase and operate their own coastal and inland waterway carriers. Several bills with this object in view are to be introduced at the next session of congress, it was said. This move, they were told, was the result of the increasing traffic losses of western trunk lines to the coastal boat operators.

The waterway operators said their original offer of a reconciliation meeting was brought about through the fact that the railroads are not forced to operate under NRA control, while the conditions of the act are forced upon waterway operators. They said they feared that the increased costs of operation under the act would wipe out the margin of difference between their costs and those of the railroads.
